COLUMBIANA COUNTY CUTS A BIG FIGURE POLITICALLY

His Influence Patent in Deciding Contests at the State Capital.

HELPED MR. M'KINNON TO WIN

Leadership of Hon. I. B. Cameron Had Much to Do With Results.

F. B. ARCHER WAS UNOPPOSED

As Senate President Pro Tem—Senator W. V. Blake Gets a Good Position—A Lisbon Man Also Lands a Plum.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 6.—Columbiana county occupies an important position in the political map of Ohio. The results of the caucus meeting of the majority members of the house and senate Saturday afternoon prove this fact beyond all doubt. The influence wielded from the county had a whole lot to do with the deciding of the contests.

Columbiana's support was swung for Representative McKinnon, of Ashland county, who was selected for speaker of the house over Representative Price, of Athens, the Foraker-Cox candidate. Hanna, aided by the Daugherty following and others, organized the house; Foraker, aided by Cox and other interests, organized the senate. The senators split even, and there is glory enough to go all around with a goodly portion for Columbiana county.

The Columbiana county gentlemen who figured in the contests showed splendid generalship, and the manipulators of politics have a wholesome regard of their knowledge of the game. Columbiana had a hand in every contest of note, and was always on the winning side. The majority of the people of the county seemed to favor the candidacy of McKinnon for speaker, and Representatives Buell and Crist acquiesced in the wishes of their constituency by voting for him.

The part taken by Columbiana was largely under the direction of Hon. I. B. Cameron. Early in the fight his support was given McKinnon. The latter realizes the help he received from Columbiana has considerable to do with his success, and for this he is grateful. The presence of a delegation of Columbiana county people in Columbus during the closing hours of battle indicated the amount of interest felt in the outcome in the county. G. V. Sharp, of Salem, was the busiest man in town Friday and Saturday. He was an ardent worker for McKinnon and he is particularly pleased with the result.

Columbiana was almost, but not quite, a unit for McKinnon. From several sources came requests for the county's representatives to vote for Price, but they were not heeded. The nineteenth district secured its share of the plums. When the house caucus opened Representative Pollock was made secretary and Representative Metzger was named for teller. Both gentlemen are from Stark. The speakership vote resulted: For W. S. McKinnon, 38; for Aaron E. Price, 30. Andrew G. Cummings, of Lorain, was selected by acclamation for speaker pro tem. Burgess L. McElroy, of Knox, won out easily for clerk over Speelman, of Marietta.

Senator Archer called the senate caucus to order, and upon his motion Senator Wilhelm, of Stark, was selected as chairman. The members got down to business without loss of time. Senator Connell, of Lisbon, in a very clever little speech, presented the name of his colleague, Senator Archer, for the position of president pro tem of the senate. Senator Wirt, of Youngstown, moved the suspension of the rules in order that the selection of Archer be made by acclamation, and this was done. Senator Wirt's act was magnanimous, as he had been regarded as an opponent of Senator Archer. F. B. Scobie, of Miami county, defeated William Uhl, of Cleveland, for clerk by a vote of 14 to 7.

The name of Hon. W. V. Blake, of East Liverpool, was presented by Senator Connell for the position of engrossing clerk of the senate. On motion by Senator Wirt the rules were suspended and Mr. Blake, elected by acclamation. Mr. Blake, at one time a resident of Columbiana county, now of Akron, was selected for the position of recording clerk. Richard Lynch, of Youngstown, colored, was chosen for enrolling clerk. B. F. Sullivan, of Alliance, was nominated for fourth assistant sergeant-at-arms. The caucus nominees will be confirmed today.

One of the surprises was the defeat of Charles O. Silver, of Alliance, for journal clerk of the house. The position went to C. L. Williams, of Steubenville. The eloquent speech made by Representative Duvall, of Jefferson county, in submitting Williams' name is what turned the trick. The pages, stenographers, porters and minor clerkship jobs will be filled today.

Senators Archer and Connell are members of a committee which will make these appointments for the senate. G. Clinton Baxley, of Lisbon, will be made clerk to the senate judiciary committee.

BADLY SCARED BY A MAD DOG

NORTHSIDE RESIDENTS TERRIFIED BY A SAVAGE ANIMAL.

The Beast Dispatched After Much Excitement—Fifth Street People Frightened.

Residents of the Northside were visited by a mad dog this morning, and while, so far as could be learned, no one was bitten, a number of people were badly frightened.

The dog was a large black animal of the Newfoundland breed, and there seems to be no doubt that it was mad, as it manifested all the symptoms. The dog was noticed on the Calcutta road near Grant street, and was making its way toward Calcutta.

When at a point near the watering trough the beast was met by a party of school children. They were badly frightened, but they succeeded in avoiding the dog without being bitten.

Roy Shingleton and another man secured guns and the dog was dispatched without delay. Assisted by William Smith the men cremated the animal.

Another dog, a small black one, the owner of which could not be found, also caused some excitement on Fifth street yesterday morning because of its peculiar actions which aroused a suspicion that it was afflicted with rabies.

The animal made no effort to attack anybody, however, and finally disappeared into an alley.

FEARED TO GO TO BED

Lisbon Wife, Who Seeks Divorce, Says Her Husband Threatened to Kill Her.

Lisbon, January 6.—(Special)—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Burnip, of Lisbon, has brought suit for divorce from James Burnip. The bill of particulars states that the marriage occurred in Sunderland, England, in 1870. Two children resulted from the union. For a number of years the husband has been idle and dissipated, the wife being compelled to seek the aid of relatives. In 1897 she left him because of alleged cruelties.

The affiant states that she feared to go to bed because he threatened to kill her in her sleep.

The whereabouts of Burnip are unknown, but it is presumed that he is in England.

GRAND BEGINNING

Of Revival Services at the M. P. Church—Six Conversions Reported.

Although the services yesterday were only the initial exercises of the proposed revival in the Methodist Protestant church, six persons united with the church, and the congregations were large. Services begin tonight promptly at 8 o'clock, and each evening this week at the same time.

Found With Head Severed.

Alliance, January 6.—The dead body of an unknown man apparently about 20 years old was found lying beside the Ft. Wayne railroad track a mile east of here yesterday. The head was severed from the trunk and was found in an adjoining field about 50 feet distant from the body.

Assignee for E. N. Huntsman, Lisbon, January 6.—(Special)—George Hamilton has accepted the assignment of assignee of E. N. Huntsman, the East Liverpool grocer, and has given bond for $10,000.

FINISHED UP ITS BUSINESS

Executive Board of the N. B. of O. P. Closed Its Session.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

On the Request of Kilnmen, Dippers, Saggermakers and Oddmen of Sebring—They Will Be Allowed to Have a Local.

The national executive board of the N. B. of O. P. finished up its business at about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, and the Trenton members left for their homes the same night. Vice President F. H. Hutchins did not arrive from the east until noon Saturday and remained in this city until last night.

But few of the many questions before the board were given to the public. The most important, however, was the granting of the request of the kilnmen, dippers, saggermakers and oddmen of Sebring to form a separate local. A similar plea came from Ford City, but in their case it was refused.

It was the sense of the board that the stand taken by the printers at the Vodrey pottery, in which they refuse to perform a certain class of work at the rate proposed, was right. The board is of the opinion that the firm is violating the uniform printing list.

A recommendation was made to the national trustees that another suite of rooms be secured for the national officers, as the present quarters have been found inadequate to meet the demands. The meeting was a harmonious one.

LOVE FOUND A WAY

Andrew Weybrecht, of Alliance, Secures a License to Wed After Many Difficulties.

Canton, January 6.—Andrew Weybrecht, of Alliance, appeared at the office of Probate Judge Aungst Saturday afternoon and made application for a license to marry Miss Dollie Barnes, of the same city. He gave his age as 30 years, and his business as merchant. Her age is given at 26 and her occupation as that of housekeeper.

This is the culmination of what promised to be a very sensational case in the courts. Colonel C. C. Weybrecht and other members of the family made vigorous efforts to prevent the marriage taking place, even resorting to having Andrew declared an imbecile. The case was compromised, the guardianship dissolved and the couple have taken early advantage of their opportunities to be made one.

WATER PIPE BURST

Portion of the Stevenson Building Deluged, Considerable Damage Resulting.

A water pipe on the second floor of the Stevenson building, at the corner of Fifth and Market streets, burst last evening. The halls were badly flooded before the break was discovered and the rear portion of the room occupied by "The Fair" store was deluged, causing considerable damage.

Nobody happened to be in the part of the building where the defective pipe was located at the time it burst and the water flowed unchecked for several hours. Dr. J. M. Saint's office was also flooded, though no great damage resulted.

CONTAGION DISAPPEARING

Only One Home in the City is at the Present Time Under Quarantine.

Sanitary Officer Burgess removed the quarantine Saturday afternoon from the homes of Samuel Ammons, Pennsylvania avenue, East End, and James Fulton, Erie street, a child of each which had been suffering from the diphtheria, having recovered.

Only one case of contagion is now prevalent in the city, that of the child of William Winegartner, of Church alley, who has been undergoing a severe siege of diphtheria, but who is now rapidly improving.

Small Boy Shoots Sister.

Steubenville, Jan. 6.—Sixteen-year-old Charlie Blaine pointed a 22-caliber pistol at his 14-year-old sister Vivian Saturday and exclaimed, "Money, or your life." He pulled the trigger and the bullet lodged in the girl's arm, and she is now lying in a hospital.

HELPED TO SWELL THE CENSUS LIST

Between 150 and 200 Persons Added to This City's Population Sunday.

THEY CAME UP BY BOAT

With the Intention of Staying—Made Their Way to the East End and Found It Easy to Obtain Jobs of Work There.

As regards growth of population, Sunday was a record breaking period in East Liverpool. Between 150 and 200 persons landed here by boat, and all are reported to have secured jobs in the East End.

When the steamer Kanawha tied up to the wharf last evening about 200 persons were standing on the wharf awaiting her arrival. Not for years did a boat bring as many persons to this city as did the Kanawha yesterday.

For almost half an hour there was a steady stream of passengers passing from the packet through the wharf boat to the wharf, where friends were in waiting.

Inquiry from the clerk of the Kanawha revealed the fact that 127 passengers got off the boat at this landing, including several families who came up the river to make East Liverpool their home. These passengers began to get on the boat at Red House, where a party of eight paid their fare to this city. At almost every landing East Liverpool passengers were taken, and on Saturday night this boat had 280 passengers on board.

There were 42 passengers on the Ben Hur from the Big Sandy bottoms in "Old Kaintuck," who landed Sunday morning at the East Liverpool wharf. Each man had a grip and took a car for the East End.

They had heard that there was abundance of work at the American sewer pipe works, and they directed their course thither. A number of them slept about the yards over night and went to work this morning. The Kanawha contingent got jobs at Laughlin No. 2.

IMPORTANT MATTERS

Will Be Up for Consideration at Official Meetings to Be Held Tonight.

There will be more important official meetings held in Wellsville tonight than for many months. The city council will have before it a vast amount of business, a part of which will be the taking of decisive action on the 24-minute schedule now in operation on the street car line. One of the councilmen has stated that he would do all in his power to have the old schedule reinstated, and if need be to require the street railway company to furnish an eight-minute schedule.

The board of trade will consummate the deal which will result in the arrival of a new manufacturing concern in the city.

The board of education will accept the resignation tendered by Miss Nan Stevenson and appoint a teacher to fill the vacancy.

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL

Its Site at Canton a Spot of Remarkable Beauty.

Canton, January 6.—The mound where the body of William McKinley will eventually lie and above which will be reared the memorial of the people of the United States is in the farthest section of Westlawn cemetery. Without question it is the most beautiful spot there. Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, one of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association, which is raising the fund for the memorial tomb, said, when he first beheld it, that it was "the finest spot out of doors in all the world."

The mound rises in a gentle slope about 75 feet from the little stream that lies at its feet and curves in a similar graceful sweep to the east. A carriage road lies at its base at the edge of the water and another one mounts the hill and circles it at the back. It is purposed to use about five acres of the mound—its very best part, in fact—which will give ample room for the stately tomb that will be erected and for the grove of green trees that will surround it. The mound is built the body of William McKinley will lie is the public receiving vault, where it was placed on September 18, the day of the funeral. The massive coffin rests as it was placed there last September, encircled by the folds of the stars and stripes. This vault is a simple but effective bit of mortuary architecture. It was a gift to Westlawn cemetery a number of years ago by Mrs. Frank Mason Werts, of Canton, in honor of her husband. It is of Romanesque design, constructed of rock-faced and dressed Massillon sandstone at a cost of $5,000, and is built into the hillside. Night and day it is guarded by a detail of United States soldiers, 45 in number.

BUNCO MAN UNSUCCESSFUL IN HIS EFFORTS TO DEFRAUD

PROPOSES A SALE OF HOMELESS WAIFS

SALVATION ARMY CAPTAIN DUM. FOUNDS YOUNGSTOWN PEOPLE.

Declares His Intention to Sell Ten Children at Auction—Threats Being Made.

Youngstown, Jan. 6.—A tremendous stir has been created in this city by the announcement of Captain F. A. McDiarmid, of the Salvation Army, that he proposes to sell at auction 10 homeless children to the highest bidder.

The sale is to take place at the Park theater next Sunday night, and a coat of tar and feathers is one of the mildest forms of punishment that has been suggested for the promoter of the scheme.

The picture of 10 children, whose only crime is poverty, being dragged screaming to the footlights and knocked off to the highest bidder has not made a pronounced hit with the public and particularly with those whose duty it is to look after public charges.

Demands that have been made of the captain to explain his ante-bellum plans are being scoffed at, and regardless of dire threats being made by incensed citizens he declares positively that the auction will come off at the time and place announced.

The proposed venture has reached the ears of the humane society and that body proposes to take summary steps to stop it.

REBUILDING A RAILROAD

Extensive Improvements to Be Made By the W. & L. E. in Jefferson County.

Steubenville, January 6.—Plans for extensive improvement on the W. & L. E. are now in the hands of Chief Engineer Newhall and as soon as work on the Toledo division is completed a couple hundred men will be put to work on the line to practically rebuild it to the Ohio river. A year ago great improvements to the road were made, but the requirements of the Wabash people are such that they were small compared to what will be made the present year. The work of relaying the pipe line with new steel from Massillon to Toledo, which was begun as the preparatory step toward rebuilding the entire line, when it was purchased by the Wabash, will be completed in a few weeks and the changes on the road from Massillon to this city will then be made. In the lower end of Jefferson county the biggest changes will be made, as the company will use its property to build sidings to handle the large coal trains that carry coal from the Jefferson county mines.

The line when rebuilt will be as good as any in the country, and it is the intention of the new owners to bring its physical condition up to such a standard that the fast Wabash express trains can average 50 miles an hour with perfect safety between Toledo and the Ohio river.

THROWN FROM A CAR

Joseph Farmer, of This City Was Seriously Hurt at Akron.

Joseph Farmer, who was brought to his home in this city from Akron Saturday, is slowly recovering from the effects of injuries received in that city last week.

Farmer had left East Akron for the city proper intending to depart for East Liverpool the same day. He was standing on the rear platform of the car when a collision occurred. Farmer was thrown violently to the pavement, alighting upon his head. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the city hospital.

The gash in his head was several inches in length and quite deep.

Local Business Men Among the Intended Victims of the Sharper.

CLAIMED TO BE AN ENGINEER

And Said He Had Been Sent Here By the Government to Build River Dam.

BARGAINED WITH MERCHANTS

For the Purchase of Furniture, Etc., But When Pressed for Money He Skipped Out—Went to Pittsburg, Where He Had Better Success.

A number of local merchants, whose experiences in past years have taught them to use caution in their business dealings with strangers, are congratulating themselves on the fact that they foiled a swindler who unwisely tried to play them for easy victims.

The sharper, whose age was about 45, appeared in East Liverpool several days ago and obtained a room and boarding at the home of Mrs. Katie Seitz, whose husband conducts a saloon at the corner of Union and Second streets. He gave the name of William Werner and claimed to be a government surveyor sent here to make surveys for the Ohio river dam projected at this point.

Aside from being well dressed the stranger wore gold glasses, sported considerable jewelry and had the appearance of being a professional man. His conduct was such as to create no suspicion and his story concerning the proposed dam was taken for granted without question.

He occupied the room at the Seitz home just one night and the following morning went to the Union planing mill, where he left an order for a large drafting table. Later he presented himself at the Milligan Hardware company's store, where he ordered a lamp and a lot of expensive tools.

Securing the consent of Mrs. Seitz to accompany him, Werner on the same morning went to Frank Crook's furniture store, where he left an order for about $70 worth of furniture. In the meantime he had found time to call on John Rigot, proprietor of a saloon on East Market street, to whom he made known his business. He tried to borrow some money from Rigot, but was unsuccessful, so far as known positively.

However, it is claimed that Werner had dealings of some kind with Rigot for the reason that on the afternoon on which they first met, Rigot called at the Seitz home in search of the stranger, of whom he demanded money.

This move resulted in the disclosure of Werner's intentions. He insisted, however, that he had money in the First National bank and asked Mrs. Seitz to go with him until he drew it. She did so, but on their return at the bank it was found that Werner did not have a penny on deposit there. He made a vain effort to get a loan, but as he offered no security, was unsuccessful.

On leaving the bank the schemer started off in great haste, leaving Mrs. Seitz on the sidewalk. He has not been seen since by any of his intended victims here, but a Pittsburg paper of Saturday has an account of one of his tricks in that city by which he swindled Mrs. Mary Krupp, proprietress of a boarding house at 3617 Penn avenue, out of $16.

Werner stopped at the woman's house on New Year's day, and, the banks being closed, he asked her if she could loan him $16, exhibiting a note for $450, drawn on the First National bank of East Liverpool. She gave him the cash on the strength of the note, and the following day Werner left to get his note turned into money, but never came back.

Inquiry at the bank here on which the note was drawn developed the fact that it was bogus. The officials think the man is of weak mind. It is not known that he succeeded in swindling anybody here, excepting Mrs. Seitz, for a small board bill, and possibly John Rigot. The merchants of whom he tried to make purchases held their goods because there was no cash in sight.

COLUMBIANA COUNTY CUTS A BIG FIGURE POLITICALLY

Its Influence Patent in Deciding Contests at the State Capital.

HELPED MR. M'KINNON TO WIN

Leadership of Hon. I. B. Cameron Had Much to Do With Results.

F. B. ARCHER WAS UNOPPOSED

As Senate President Pro Tem—Senator W. V. Blake Gets a Good Position—A Lisbon Man Also Lands a Plum.

From a Staff Correspondent.
Columbus, January 6.—Columbiana county occupies an important position on the political map of Ohio. The results of the caucus meeting of the majority members of the house and senate Saturday afternoon prove this fact beyond all doubt. The influence wielded from the county had a whole lot to do with the deciding of the contests.

Columbiana's support was swung for Representative McKinnon, of Ash-tabula county, who was selected for speaker of the house over Representative Price, of Athens, the Foraker-Cox candidate. Hanna, aided by the Daugherty following and others, organized the house; Foraker, aided by Cox and other interests, organized the senate. The senators split even, and there is glory enough to go all around with a goodly portion for Columbiana county.

The Columbiana county gentlemen who figured in the contests showed splendid generalship, and the manipulators of politics have a wholesome regard of their knowledge of the game. Columbiana had a hand in every contest of note, and was always on the winning side. The majority of the people of the county seemed to favor the candidacy of McKinnon for speaker, and Representatives Buell and Crist acquiesced in the wishes of their constituency by voting for him.

The part taken by Columbiana was largely under the direction of Hon. I. B. Cameron. Early in the fight his support was given McKinnon. The latter realized the help he received from Columbiana had considerable to do with his success, and for this he is grateful. The presence of a delegation of Columbiana county people in Columbus during the closing hours of battle indicated the amount of interest felt in the outcome in the county. G. V. Sharp, of Salem, was the busiest man in town Friday and Saturday. He was an ardent worker for McKinnon and he is particularly pleased with the result.

Columbiana was almost, but not quite, a unit for McKinnon. From several sources came requests for the county's representatives to vote for Price, but they were not heeded. The nineteenth district secured its share of the plums. When the house caucus opened Representative Pollock was made secretary and Representative Metzger was named for teller. Both gentlemen are from Stark. The speakership vote resulted: For W. S. McKinnon, 38; for Aaron E. Price, 30. Andrew G. Cummings, of Lorain, was selected by acclamation for speaker pro tem. Burgess L. McElroy, of Knox, won out easily for clerk over Speelman, of Marietta.

Senator Archer called the senate caucus to order, and upon his motion Senator Wilhelm, of Stark, was selected as chairman. The members got down to business without loss of time. Senator Connell, of Lisbon, in a very clever little speech, presented the name of his colleague, Senator Archer, for the position of president pro tem of the senate. Senator Wirt, of Youngstown, moved the suspension of the rules in order that the selection of Archer be made by acclamation, and this was done. Senator Wirt's act was magnanimous, as he had been regarded as an opponent of Senator Archer. F. B. Scobie, of Miami county, defeated William Uhl, of Cleveland, for clerk by a vote of 14 to 7.

The name of Hon. W. V. Blake, of East Liverpool, was presented by Senator Connell for the position of enrolling clerk of the senate. On motion by Senator Wirt the rules were suspended and Mr. Blake selected by acclamation. H. S. Pardee, at one time a resident of East Liverpool, now of Akron, was selected for the position of recording clerk. Richard Lynch, of Youngstown, colored, was chosen for enrolling clerk. B. F. Sullivan, of Alliance, was nominated for fourth assistant sergeant-at-arms. The caucus nominees will be confirmed today.

One of the surprises was the defeat of Charles O. Silver, of Alliance, for journal clerk of the house. The position went to C. L. Williams, of Steubenville. The eloquent speech made by Representative Duvall, of Jefferson county, in submitting Williams' name is what turned the trick. The pages, stenographers, porters and minor clerkship jobs will be filled today.

Senators Archer and Connell are members of a committee which will make these appointments for the senate. G. Clinton Baxley, of Lisbon, will be made clerk of the senate judiciary committee.

BADLY SCARED BY A MAD DOG

NORTHSIDE RESIDENTS TERRIFIED BY A SAVAGE ANIMAL.

The Beast Dispatched After Much Excitement—Fifth Street People Frightened.

Residents of the Northside were visited by a mad dog this morning, and while, so far as could be learned, no one was bitten, a number of people were badly frightened.

The dog was a large black animal of the Newfoundland breed, and there seems to be no doubt that it was mad, as it manifested all the symptoms. The dog was noticed on the Calcutta road near Grant street, and was making its way toward Calcutta.

Another dog, a small black one, the owner of which could not be found, also caused some excitement on Fifth street yesterday morning because of its peculiar actions which aroused a suspicion that it was afflicted with rabies.

The animal made no effort to attack anybody, however, and finally disappeared into an alley.

FEARED TO GO TO BED

Lisbon Wife, Who Seeks Divorce, Says Her Husband Threatened to Kill Her.

Lisbon, January 6.—(Special)—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Burnip, of Lisbon, has brought suit for divorce from James Burnip. The bill of particulars states that the marriage occurred in Sunderland, England, in 1870. Two children resulted from the union. For a number of years the husband has been idle and dissipated, the wife being compelled to seek the aid of relatives. In 1897 she left him because of alleged cruelties.

The affiant states that she feared to go to bed because he threatened to kill her in her sleep.

The whereabouts of Burnip are unknown, but it is presumed that he is in England.

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL

Its Site at Canton a Spot of Remarkable Natural Beauty.

Canton, January 6.—The mound where the body of William McKinley will eventually lie and above which will be reared the memorial of the people of the United States is in the farthest section of Westlawn cemetery. Without question it is the most beautiful spot there. Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, one of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association, which is raising the fund for the memorial tomb, said, when he first beheld it, that it was "the finest spot out of doors in all the world."

The mound rises in a gentle slope about 75 feet from the little stream that lies at its feet and curves in a similar graceful sweep to the east. A carriage road lies at its base at the edge of the water and another one mounts the hill and circles it at the back. It is proposed to use about five acres of the mound—its very best part, in fact—which will give ample room for the stately tomb that will be erected and for the spread of green-sward to relieve the eyes.

Until the memorial tomb is built,

BUNCO MAN UNSUCCESSFUL IN HIS EFFORTS TO DEFRAUD

the body of William McKinley will lie in the public receiving vault, where it was placed on September 18, the day of the funeral. The massive coffin rests as it was placed there last September, encircled by the folds of the stars and stripes. This vault is a simple but effective bit of mortuary architecture. It was a gift to Westlawn cemetery a number of years ago by Mrs. Frank Mason Werts, of Canton, in honor of her husband. It is of Romanesque design, constructed of rock-faced and dressed Massillon sandstone at a cost of $5,000, and is built into the hillside. Night and day it is guarded by a detail of United States soldiers, 45 in number.

PROPOSES A SALE OF HOMELESS WAIFS

SALVATION ARMY CAPTAIN DUM-FOUNDS YOUNGSTOWN PEOPLE.

Declares His Intention to Sell Ten Children at Auction—Threats Being Made.

Youngstown, Jan. 6.—A tremendous stir has been created in this city by the announcement of Captain F. A. McDiarmid, of the Salvation Army, that he proposes to sell at auction 10 homeless children to the highest bidder.

The sale is to take place at the Park theater next Sunday night, and a coat of tar and feathers is one of the mildest forms of punishment that has been suggested for the promoter of the scheme.

The picture of 10 children, whose only crime is poverty, being dragged screaming to the footlights and knocked off to the highest bidder has not made a pronounced hit with the public and particularly with those whose duty it is to look after public charges.

Dumfries has been made of the captain to explain his ante-bellum plans are being scoffed at, and regardless of dire threats being made by incensed citizens he declares positively that the auction will come off at the time and place announced.

The proposed venture has reached the ears of the humane society and that body proposes to take summary steps to stop it.

REBUILDING A RAILROAD

Extensive Improvements to Be Made By the W. & L. E. in Jefferson County.

Steubenville, January 6.—Plans for extensive improvement on the W. & L. E. are now in the hands of Chief Engineer Newhall and as soon as work on the Toledo division is completed a couple hundred men will be put to work on the line to practically rebuild it to the Ohio river. A year ago great improvements to the road were made, but the requirements of the Wabash people are such that they were small compared to what will be made the present year. The work of relaying the pipe line with new steel from Massillon to Toledo, which was begun as the preparatory step toward rebuilding the entire line, when it was purchased by the Wabash, will be completed in a few weeks and the changes on the road from Massillon to this city will then be made. In the lower end of Jefferson county the biggest changes will be made, as the company will use its property to build sidings to handle the large coal trains that carry coal from the Jefferson county mines.

The line when rebuilt will be as good as any in the country, and it is the intention of the new owners to bring its physical condition up to such a standard that the fast Wabash express trains can average 50 miles an hour with perfect safety between Toledo and the Ohio river.

THROWN FROM A CAR

Joseph Farmer, of This City Was Seriously Hurt at Akron.

Joseph Farmer, who was brought to his home in this city from Akron Saturday, is slowly recovering from the effects of injuries received in that city last week.

Farmer had left East Akron for the city proper intending to depart for East Liverpool the same day. He was standing on the rear platform of the car when a collision occurred. Farmer was thrown violently to the pavement, alighting upon his head. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the city hospital.

The gash in his head was several inches in length and quite deep.

Local Business Men Among the Intended Victims of the Sharper.

CLAIMED TO BE AN ENGINEER

And Said He Had Been Sent Here By the Government to Build River Dam.

BARGAINED WITH MERCHANTS

For the Purchase of Furniture, Etc., But When Pressed for Money He Skipped Out—Went to Pittsburgh, Where He Had Better Success.

A number of local merchants, whose experiences in past years have taught them to use caution in their business dealings with strangers, are congratulating themselves on the fact that they foiled a swindler who unwisely tried to play them for easy victims.

The sharper, whose age was about 45, appeared in East Liverpool several days ago and obtained a room and boarding at the home of Mrs. Katie Seitz, whose husband conducts a saloon at the corner of Union and Second streets. He gave the name of William Werner and claimed to be a government surveyor sent here to make surveys for the Ohio river dam projected at this point.

Aside from being well dressed the stranger wore gold glasses, sported considerable jewelry and had the appearance of being a professional man. His conduct was such as to create no suspicion and his story concerning the proposed dam was taken for granted without question.

He occupied the room at the Seitz home just one night and the following morning went to the Union planing mill, where he left an order for a large drafting table. Later he presented himself at the Milligan Hardware company's store, where he ordered a lamp and a lot of expensive tools.

Securing the consent of Mrs. Seitz to accompany him, Werner on the same morning went to Frank Crook's furniture store, where he left an order for about $70 worth of furniture. In the meantime he had found time to call on John Rigot, proprietor of a saloon on East Market street, to whom he made known his business. He tried to borrow some money from Rigot, but was unsuccessful, so far as known positively.

However, it is claimed that Werner had dealings of some kind with Rigot for the reason that on the afternoon on which they first met, Rigot called at the Seitz home in search of the stranger, of whom he demanded money.

This move resulted in the disclosure of Werner's intentions. He insisted, however, that he had money in the First National bank and asked Mrs. Seitz to go with him until he drew it. She did so, but on their way to the bank it was found that Werner did not have a penny on deposit there. He made a vain effort to get a loan, but as he offered no security, was unsuccessful.

On leaving the bank the schemer started off in great haste, leaving Mrs. Seitz on the sidewalk. He has not been seen since by any of his intended victims here, but a Pittsburgh paper of Saturday has an account of one of the tricks in that city by which he swindled Mrs. Mary Krupp, proprietress of a boarding house at 3617 Penn. avenue, out of $16.

Werner stopped at the woman's house on New Year's day, and, the banks being closed, he asked her if she could loan him $16, exhibiting a note for $450, drawn on the First National bank of East Liverpool. She gave him the cash on the strength of the note, and the following day Werner left to get his note turned into money, but never came back.

Inquiry at the bank here on which the note was drawn developed the fact that it was bogus. The officials think the man is of weak mind. It is not known that he succeeded in swindling anybody here, excepting Mrs. Seitz, for a small board bill, and possibly John Rigot. The merchants of whom he tried to make purchases held their goods because there was no cash in sight.

THE ICE BROKE

YOUNG LADY NEARLY DROWNED WHILE SKATING.

Miss Kate Wheatley sank in Beaver Creek and Was Rescued With Difficulty.

About 15 young people went skating on Beaver creek yesterday afternoon. They were all from East Liverpool. One of the young ladies came near being drowned. She was Miss Kate Wheatley and she skated too near to an air hole near the railroad bridge pier.

Miss Wheatley found the ice breaking around her, and, although she is an expert skater, went down. Fortunately the water wasn't deep and she sank only to the head, although the water was deep enough for her to drown. There was a rush of friends to effect Miss Wheatley's rescue, and she was drawn from the water by Joseph Miller and a companion.

The accident came very nearly precipitating a score of persons into the deep water, as several persons walked on the ice and their weight would have precipitated the entire party had they not been warned back. Miss Wheatley's rare presence of mind saved her from drowning.

FOUND A FORTUNE

WHERE IT HAD BEEN STORED FOR YEARS IN A VAULT.

Administrator of the Estate of a Stark County Man Makes a Wonderful Discovery.

Alliance, Jan. 6.—J. C. Klinger, of this city, who was recently appointed administrator of the estate of Philip Yoder, who died at Louisville last November, found $16,000 in gold and paper money in a safety deposit vault in Chicago, placed there by Yoder, where it had remained for years undisturbed.

Yoder had been employed as a section foreman for about 27 years in the Chicago yards, and being of a careful saving disposition, he rented a box in a safety deposit vault and there stored his earnings. Having possession of the key to the vault, Klinger made a trip to Chicago to learn the extent of the estate.

Arriving in that city a few days ago he went to the vault, and unlocking the drawer was surprised to find in a large wallet paper currency to the amount of $11,000, which was so old that the bills crumbled in his hands when an attempt was made to smooth them out. There was also a belt such as formerly worn by prospectors, made of heavy canvas, and in this was found the sum of $5,000 in gold. The belt was so old that it could be separated with the thumb and finger.

There was also four $20 gold pieces—which by a request made in a letter left by the deceased are to be given to some friends of his in Chicago—which he had carried with him for 40 years. Among a quantity of silver coins found were some $1 pieces of larger size than those now in use.

A promissory note for $4,000 on a ranchman in Nebraska, which was unsecured, was among the collection. Klinger went to Nebraska, where he found the man who had given the note, and on presenting it was surprised beyond expression when the cash was paid over without a murmur.

Yoder's estate had not been appraised, but is estimated at $30,000.

TWIN TROUBLES

They Are Often Together These Days They Wrok Havoc All Over the Country and in East Liverpool.

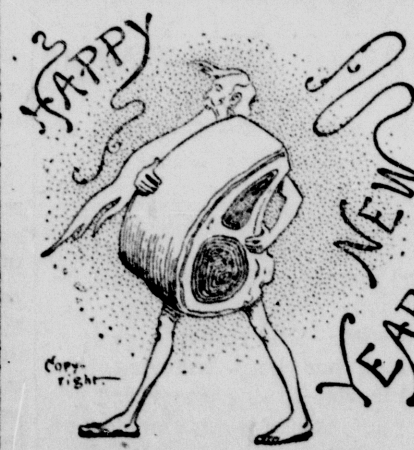

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order. That is what ails a host of people. It comes about in this way. First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is weakened. Then the stomach loses its nerve controlling power, and indigestion follows with falling strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to East Liverpool, people could hardly be convinced that this great medicine would remove these troubles. Now it is an accepted fact because of their cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence. Mrs. Margaret Tracy, of 178 Seventh street, East Liverpool, O., says: "One of my family was very nervous, subject to nervous spells weak and irritable, could not sleep and the digestion was very poor. I asked the invalid to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. The result was splendid; the medicine built her up, enriched the blood, made the nerves strong, gave restful sleep and so strengthened the stomach that digestion is perfect. The old-time languid, played-out feeling has given place to one of strength and energy, and as a result we are more than pleased with the medicine."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

TWIN TROUBLES

They Are Often Together These Days They Wrok Havoc All Over the Country and in East Liverpool.

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order. That is what ails a host of people. It comes about in this way. First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is weakened. Then the stomach loses its nerve controlling power, and indigestion follows with falling strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to East Liverpool, people could hardly be convinced that this great medicine would remove these troubles. Now it is an accepted fact because of their cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence. Mrs. Margaret Tracy, of 178 Seventh street, East Liverpool, O., says: "One of my family was very nervous, subject to nervous spells weak and irritable, could not sleep and the digestion was very poor. I asked the invalid to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. The result was splendid; the medicine built her up, enriched the blood, made the nerves strong, gave restful sleep and so strengthened the stomach that digestion is perfect. The old-time languid, played-out feeling has given place to one of strength and energy, and as a result we are more than pleased with the medicine."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

FRIENDS OF BOERS.

Great Meeting Held In Cleveland--Bryan One of the Speakers.

RESOLUTION TO ROOSEVELT.

His Attention Is Called to Denunciation of Reconciliation Camps by the Late President McKinley--Some Other Points in Resolution.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 6.—Four thousand people attended a pro-Boer meeting in Gray's armory Sunday afternoon. When the committee in charge of the meeting learned that William J. Bryan was in the city, an invitation was sent to him and Mayor Johnson to attend and address the gathering. Bryan was the guest of Johnson for a day. Both gentlemen accepted and when, towards the close of other speeches, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Johnson entered the hall the whole audience rose en masse and repeatedly shouted the names of "Bryan" and "Johnson," and greeted them with hurrahs and handclapping.

The audience was composed mostly of men, although a number of women were present. The tri-color of the Boer republic was a prominent feature of the armory's decorations and little streamers were tied in the but-tresses of many of the men. Upon the stage were seven native Boers, who had been in some of the early conflicts of their countrymen against the English soldiers. They were given from the country and are now residents of this city.

The meeting continued for four hours, the principal address being by Hon. John J. Lentz, Rev. August Franz, a local Reformed Lutheran clergyman, also spoke.

Bryan and Johnson Spoke.

When the formal speeches of the afternoon were concluded Messrs. Bryan and Johnson were called upon to address the vast audience. Mr. Bryan spoke for about five minutes, during which time he said:

"I am sure that day, fallen will be the star of our country if the time ever comes when struggling freemen feel that they cannot look upon the people of these states for sympathy."

Mr. Bryan said that he was in entire sympathy with the intent of the meeting, gloried in the fighting South African farmers and urged them to continue the struggle. He said that he was glad the war had cost England so dear and that the disastrous cost in money and life would be a much needed lesson for the English government, because it would teach, and has already caused a loss that would not soon be forgotten.

Mr. Bryan said that he considered it a compliment that the Boers looked to the United States for aid and sympathy in their struggle, and that he considered it a disgrace that no official expression of sympathy had yet been made by this government. Mr. Bryan believed that the English people are opposed to the continuance of the war because they, too, are suffering because of the unhappy conflict, and are the ones that must bear the burden of the cost.

Mayor Johnson also spoke briefly and said that he was in full sympathy with the intent of the meeting and expressed similar sentiments to those expressed by Mr. Bryan in that the English people generally are opposed to the war.

A resolution of great length was passed and will be sent to the president of the United States. The resolution calls the president's attention to the continuance of the war for the past two years and states that it has been characterized on the part of Great Britain as a conflict of savagery by the confiscation or destruction of property of inhabitants and non-combatants lying within the zone of war.

Were Denounced by McKinley.

Attention is called to the denunciation by President McKinley of the system of reconciliation camps.

A quotation from the Manchester (England) Guardian of Sept. 4, 1901, is made, which states that a degree of suffering and death exists in these camps without a parallel in history. In conclusion, the president is asked to enforce the treaty of Washington, May 8, 1871, denying to vessels operating under British authority opportunity for the augmentation of supplies of war from the United States. President Roosevelt is asked to continue the efforts of his predecessor to bring to an end the horrors of concentration camps and a warfare which by its unexampled ferocity and enormous cost of life and treasure has astonished the civilized world.

Members of German singing societies, numbering 600 voices, sang patriotic songs.

Captains of Industry

VERSUS

Those Who Toil With the Hands

By Ex-Governor JOHN P. ALTGELD of Illinois

MAN WHOSE WHOLE LIFE IS CONCENTRATED AND ABSORBED IN THE GETTING OF MONEY DOES NOT FURNISH AN EXAMPLE FOR THE YOUNG MEN OF THE LAND TO EMULATE.

As a rule, his house decays and his family goes down without waiting for the Scriptural third generation.

We all admire the captains of industry, great railroad men, great manufacturers and great merchants. They stand in place of the generals of the past, but they have no right to strangle free institutions. They did not make this continent.

It was the labor of the men and the women that were building houses, cultivating fields, glaving in factories, operating railroads, teaching school and doing the country's work that made it possible for these captains of industry to amass their gigantic fortunes.

Anarchy is not the child of free speech or of a free press or of free association. It is neither the natural nor the foster child of liberty. Anarchy grows out of conditions. Italy seems to be the mother of anarchy at present, and according to statistics 100,000 people go mad in that country every year from hunger alone.

IF THE ETERNAL PRESENCE OF THE POLICE, THE DUNGEON, THE SUPPRESSION OF NEWSPAPERS, THE DENIAL OF THE RIGHT OF ASSEMBLY AND OF FREE SPEECH WERE A REMEDY FOR ANARCHY, THERE WOULD BE NO ANARCHY IN THE OLD WORLD.

THE REAL AUTHORS OF ANARCHY ARE THE MEN WHO DESPOIL THEIR FELLOW MEN, AND IT DOES NOT MATTER HOW THIS IS DONE.

The world is beginning to see that it is the men and the women who toil with their hands who make civilization possible. We are not ready to admit that the fathers were wrong, we are not ready to apologize for their immortal work, and we will not consent to hide their graves. All of our greatness was born of liberty, even our commercialism was rocked in the cradle of democracy, and we cannot strangle the mother without destroying her children.

Caracas, of the Venezuelan minister of finance, Tello Mendoza. The explosion wrecked a considerable portion of the house, but no one was injured. The attempt has caused considerable excitement in Caracas.

General Juan Píetri (who has been active in the present revolution against President Castro) and who was arrested Friday at Antimano, was Saturday paraded as a prisoner on the Plaza de Bolívar at Caracas. General Píetri is still hostile to General Castro, and he is also opposed to General Matos.

Almost all the Venezuelan revolutionists who have lately been here have left this island to join insurgent bodies in Venezuela. General Riera (who left here last Thursday to join insurgent forces on the Venezuelan coast near Vela de Coro and who unexpectedly returned two days later) is still here.

Pittsburg, Jan. 6.—Thieves broke into the building of the First National bank of Glassport some time during Friday night and secured $2,000 from the safe, which they blew open with nitroglycerin. The safe was wrecked and the robbers escaped with their booty.

SUNDAY BY NO MEANS "DRY."

But Laws Were More Strictly Enforced in New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—The Sunday and excise laws were more strictly enforced in Greater New York Sunday than has been the custom, though there was no order from police headquarters bearing directly on the subject, and yesterday was by no means a "dry" Sunday. The better class of saloon men were told that they must not tolerate any noisy customers nor was any one to be allowed to become intoxicated in their places of business.

The lower class of saloons and resorts were told to close up and they remained closed during the day. The Raines law hotels were very careful to issue the usual sandwich with each drink.

It was the labor of the men and the women that were building houses, cultivating fields, glaving in factories, operating railroads, teaching school and doing the country's work that made it possible for these captains of industry to amass their gigantic fortunes.

Anarchy is not the child of free speech or of a free press or of free association. It is neither the natural nor the foster child of liberty. Anarchy grows out of conditions. Italy seems to be the mother of anarchy at present, and according to statistics 100,000 people go mad in that country every year from hunger alone.

IF THE ETERNAL PRESENCE OF THE POLICE, THE DUNGEON, THE SUPPRESSION OF NEWSPAPERS, THE DENIAL OF THE RIGHT OF ASSEMBLY AND OF FREE SPEECH WERE A REMEDY FOR ANARCHY, THERE WOULD BE NO ANARCHY IN THE OLD WORLD.

THE REAL AUTHORS OF ANARCHY ARE THE MEN WHO DESPOIL THEIR FELLOW MEN, AND IT DOES NOT MATTER HOW THIS IS DONE.

The world is beginning to see that it is the men and the women who toil with their hands who make civilization possible. We are not ready to admit that the fathers were wrong, we are not ready to apologize for their immortal work, and we will not consent to hide their graves. All of our greatness was born of liberty, even our commercialism was rocked in the cradle of democracy, and we cannot strangle the mother without destroying her children.

SUNDAY BY NO MEANS "DRY."

But Laws Were More Strictly Enforced In New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—The Sunday and excise laws were more strictly enforced in Greater New York Sunday than has been the custom, though there was no order from police headquarters bearing directly on the subject, and yesterday was by no means a "dry" Sunday. The better class of saloon men were told that they must not tolerate any noisy customers nor was any one to be allowed to become intoxicated in their places of business.

The lower class of saloons and resorts were told to close up and they remained closed during the day. The Rained law hotels were very careful to issue the usual sandwich with each drink.

Competent presiding officers have been chosen for both branches of the legislature. This result the Republicans of Ohio will contemplate with satisfaction. If any bitterness has been aroused by the spirited contest for legislative honors that has been in progress for the past few weeks, it will disappear as suddenly as it sprang into being. In the game of politics somebody is inevitably beaten. The wise politician accepts defeat gracefully, congratulates the victor and proceeds to help him, instead of cherishing resentment and placing stumbling blocks in his way. The Republican party, as has been demonstrated time and again, however its adherents may differ on minor questions of men and measures, is a unit when really important principles are involved. The contest that has just closed at Columbus has attracted more attention than its importance warranted, but it has ended in such an equitable division of honors that even the most contentious have no ground for promoting strife or factionalism. All is well that ends well. The Republican party has not suffered, and its little differences will soon be forgotten.

The Carnegie institution at Washington, D. C., is to be established with the $10,000,000 which the ironmaster philanthropist is to donate. Although it is to be a university national in character, the government is to have nothing to do with its establishment or its management. The corporation, a private one, includes among its members Secretary of State John Hay and other prominent officers of the government, but they are there of their own volition and in their capacity as citizens. The institution is to be kept free from politics and out of the control of politicians. Its aim will be, as far as possible, to realize the dream of Washington, of maintaining a great school for the people at the national capital. The country has no more advantageous location for such a university, and it ought to become one of the greatest and most useful of our many noble institutions of learning.

The Texas oil field, instead of petering out, is being extended by new strikes. A promising oil field has been discovered in Kentucky, and in old oil territory in Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, developments of a rich character are reported. From present indications, great opportunities are still open for those who have capital and luck which they are willing to risk in a business that has made fortunes more quickly and easily than they were ever won in the most favored gold regions of the earth.

A better summary of the business situation than that made by Bradstreet's Review would be hard to find. It says: "Satisfaction with the old and confidence in the new year are the dominant features of the entire industrial, commercial and financial situation."

The Tom Johnson Democrats cut but a sorry figure in the Ohio legislature. Even the poor consolation of naming a candidate for the empty honor of being voted for as a Democratic senatorial candidate was denied them.

Chicago has a girl novelist who writes stories in her sleep. She will probably be kept busy henceforth in disclaiming responsibility for the su-perabundant slumber-producing literature emanating from the Windy City.

William J. Bryan favors American intervention in the British South African dispute. He is always favoring something that would be useless and would involve this country in a snarl.

Fire losses in the United States in 1901 aggregated $160,000,000. Fully half this enormous waste was due to carelessness. It is a heavy price to pay for a bad habit.

The schools of the City of Mexico are to teach English hereafter. Mexicans need it in their business, which the universal Yankee is fast monopolizing.

The "battle" at Columbus was more noisy than terrible. A large part of the noise was made by Democratic newspapers.

AT THE THEATER

Frank James, brother of the once noted Jesse James, is now an actor in H. Walter Van Dyke's great American play, "Across the Desert," which will have its initial production to the patrons of the Grand opera house tonight, and is heralded as one of the best of modern sensational melodramas. The story is delightfully told, the comedy is without blemish. Sensational plays that are consistent in plot, sympathetic in every word and action, tender in pathetic scenes, exciting great enthusiasm in climaxes, spirited comedy and good humor that can rejuvenate the listener, require a good acting company. "Across the Desert" in its climaxes raises the audience to feverish excitement. Its comedy, one of the best treatments ever offered to a tired patron in the way of good humor and genuine laughter. This new production has proven a big winner financially and artistically in every theater this company of artists has played.

TALK OF THE PAST

FRANK JAMES, EX-OUTLAW.
TELLS OF HIS CAREER.

His Old Missouri Home to Be a Feature at the St. Louis Exposition.

Frank James, the noted Missourian, is a modest appearing man, who does not look like an outlaw. At his hotel this morning he talked entertainingly of his past career. He does not claim to be an actor. He has been on the stage since November 27.

Mr. James long since determined to show the world that one who has been looked upon as a monster can lead a correct life. He is very fond of his aged mother. He described her home eight miles from Excelsior Springs, Clay county, Mo. The building remains the same as when the two sons were outlaws, and all will be moved to the St. Louis exposition intact. In it will be displayed a great many of the relics of the James' boys' outlaw experience.

Mr. James related many interesting incidents in connection with his surrender and subsequent imprisonment. While in jail at Independence he was visited by Prof. Bowser, a very prominent colored man of the state, who tried to get bail for him. Bowser explained his interest in him by saying that he had a record of all the deeds alleged to have been committed by the James brothers, but in no case could he find where they had molested negroes or women and stated he could raise $30,000 for Frank's release.

Mr. James referred to his connection with the confederate army and said his family could now boast of both the blue and the gray. His son, Robert F. James, now in business in St. Louis, was in the service during the Spanish war and made an enviable record.

POTTERY NEWS

Michael J. Conley, a packer at the K. T. & K. pottery, formerly a celebrated buck and wing dancer, has received an offer and may again go on the road. G. H. Cooper was in the city Saturday from Chicago, and it is understood the offer made Mr. Conley was a tempting one. Cooper is manager of a high-class vaudeville aggregation.

Two weeks from last Saturday Robert Hawkins, of the Union pottery, will sever his connection with that plant and about March 1 he will become affiliated with the company erecting a pottery at Barberton.

The G. F. Brunt Porcelain company has issued and is distributing to its friends and customers one of the largest and handsomest calendars ever sent out by an East Liverpool firm. It is a true work of art.

Oddman Connell, of the Union pottery, who accidentally ran a nail in his left foot last week, causing him to lay off from work for a few days, resumed his duties this morning. The injury was very painful.

Ambrose Cartwright, of the Cartwright Bros. Pottery company, is confined to his home on account of illness. He is suffering from tonsillitis.

A. Wasson, Jr., of Toronto, has accepted a position as kiln setter in the R. Thomas & Sons' plant.

A LIBERAL OF ER

Made by the Pittsburg Gazette to its Friends in This Locality.

The Pittsburg Gazette, with its usual enterprise, has planned for its readers and friends an offer which in scope and liberality far surpasses any proposition heretofore submitted by any newspaper.

It proposes to give absolutely free to 25 most popular school teachers in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia a trip through England, Scotland and the continent, lasting over six weeks and comprising every point of interest possible. Accompanied by competent conductors this trip will be a source of instruction as well as pleasure, and will be appreciated by anyone.

Not only will absolutely every contingent expense be paid, but a purse of $50 will be given every successful contestant for personal expenses during the trip.

Voting blanks will be printed in every issue of the Pittsburg Gazette and the Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph, which should be filled out with the name of your favorite teacher and sent to the office of the papers (Excursion department), where they will be properly filed and recorded to the credit of the teacher voted for.

INSURANCE AGENT

At Allentown, Pa., Asks for Information Concerning the Wife of a Former Resident.

Chief Thompson received a letter this morning from Edwin Gully, who represents an insurance company at Allentown, Pa., asking for information concerning the wife of one Thomas M. Scammeron. The communication states that Scammeron formerly resided in East Liverpool and the writer is desirous of learning whether or not his wife is living or divorced from him.

It is also stated in the letter that Scammeron is at present engaged in the lumber business at Bethlehem, Pa., and a full description of him is given. No reason is given as to why the information asked for is desired. None of the local officials know anything about either Mr. or Mrs. Scammeron.

His Idea of Heaven.

The lad was about five years of age and naturally inquisitive. He asked his father questions he had never heard before, and the fond parent was a perplexed man.

The youngster got on the subject of the next world one day and wanted to know a lot of things. "Will you wear a mustache in heaven, papa?" he asked.

"I suppose I will, my son," replied the father.

"You'll make a funny angel."

There was a long pause, and finally the boy asked what kind of a place heaven was. The father in order to satisfy his son went into lengthy details in describing its beauty.

The lad listened with open mouth and finally said, "Why, papa, heaven must look like the ten cent store!"—Pittsburg Press.

CALIFORNIA OLIVES

HOW THE TASTY FRUIT IS CULTIVATED IN THE GOLDEN STATE.

A Visit to the Biggest Olive Farm in the World—The Harvesting of the Crop—Processes of Picking and Oil Extracting.

[Special Correspondence.]

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Although California has long been famed for peaches and oranges, little is generally known of a fruit industry which is peculiar to and takes a leading position in that state—the cultivation of olives. The olive has been garnered for more than 4,000 years and has been a staple food for races long forgotten, but it has remained for southern California to conduct olive raising on an American scale and to show the vast possibilities of the industry. Oriental countries raise olives by the tree, California raises them by the square mile.

The largest olive grove in the world is situated in this state at the head of the San Fernando valley. The estimated number of trees in the whole state is 2,500,000, with a crop, at the very lowest estimate, of 250,000,000 pounds of olives. That this is really marvelous is evident when it is stated that olive raising on a wholesale scale is only fourteen years old in southern California.

The value of the San Fernando crop this season is estimated at more than $100,000. To properly treat the enormous yield the first harvest of this grove, which is only seven years old, the company owning the ranch has built a fifteen thousand dollar factory, a neat brick structure, well equipped for meeting all the demands that will be made upon it.

The olive harvest is gathered in the months of November, December and January, and sometimes picking continues into February. At the San Fernando ranch a hundred men are employed in harvest time to pick the olives at an average wage of $1.50 per day. Twelve to fifteen men are employed the year round, and eight teams are worked, and, including the factory men, there is an average all year of twenty-five men upon the ranch.

The olives are carefully gathered in canvas buckets made for the purpose and are brought to the factory in spring wagons to keep them from bruising. After reaching the factory they are thoroughly cleaned and are then run through a grader, which separates them into three sizes. They are next put into vats of water, where they stand over night, and if the olives are to be pickled as "split" olives they are then either pricked with a needle or are run through an aperture the sides of which are lined with several fine blades.

Whether "split" or not, the olives are next put into a solution of one pound of lye to ten gallons of water. After they have remained in the lye solution until it is seen by examination that the lye has percolated to the pit they are put into fresh water, where they remain from seven to ten days. The next step is the brine solution, where the olives remain permanently until ready for the table. The large casks

OLIVE PICKERS AT WORK.

In which they "mellow up" for market are thoroughly disinfected and are thinly coated with paraffin.

Pickled olives are said to improve with age. Those cured by the lye process bleach to a light color, although they may have been dark when picked. Olives are also pickled by the brine process, which takes longer. The black olives are not subjected to the lye treatment.

The manufacture of olive oil is as interesting a process as the pickling. The older olives are used for this purpose, as the oil does not develop in the berry until the ripe stage has been well passed. In extracting the oil the olives are first subjected to a cutter, which chops them into minute pieces, and are next put into hydraulic presses with a pressure of 200 tons. The oil resultant from this treatment after being purified is termed oil of the first grade. Second grade oil is obtained from the pulp remaining from the first pressure, which is put under a heavy cylinder, similar to a millstone, and then squeezed by a hydraulic press with a pressure of 3,000 pounds to the square inch.

Oil of the first grade is bottled, while oil of the second grade is sold in bulk. Of the first grade is used chiefly in the culinary arts. It is claimed that California olive oil is eminently superior to the foreign article, for of forty or fifty grades of foreign olive oils it is stated that not one of them has been found unadulterated, while few have withstood the test for cottonseed oil. Olive oil of the second grade is used for lubricating, in the manufacture of soap and in an emulsion for pulmonary diseases.

Competent presiding officers have been chosen for both branches of the legislature. This result the Republicans of Ohio will contemplate with satisfaction. If any bitterness has been aroused by the spirited contest for legislative honors that has been in progress for the past few weeks, it will disappear as suddenly as it sprang into being. In the game of politics somebody is inevitably beaten. The wise politician accepts defeat gracefully, congratulates the victor and proceeds to help him, instead of cherishing resentment and placing stumbling blocks in his way. The Republican party, as has been demonstrated time and again, however its adherents may differ on minor questions of men and measures, is a unit when really important principles are involved. The contest that has just closed at Columbus has attracted more attention than its importance warranted, but it has ended in such an equitable division of honors that even the most contentious have no ground for promoting strife or factionalism. All is well that ends well. The Republican party has not suffered, and its little differences will soon be forgotten.

The Carnegie institution at Washington, D. C., is to be established with the $10,000,000 which the ironmaster philanthropist is to donate. Although it is to be a university national in character, the government is to have nothing to do with its establishment or its management. The corporation, a private one, includes among its members Secretary of State John Hay and other prominent officers of the government, but they are there of their own volition and in their capacity as citizens. The institution is to be kept free from politics and out of the control of politicians. Its aim will be, as far as possible, to realize the dream of Washington, of maintaining a great school for the people at the national capital. The country has no more advantageous location for such a university, and it ought to become one of the greatest and most useful of our many noble institutions of learning.

The Texas oil field, instead of petering out, is being extended by new strikes. A promising oil field has been discovered in Kentucky, and in old oil territory in Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, developments of a rich character are reported. From present indications, great opportunities are still open for those who have capital and luck which they are willing to risk in a business that has made fortunes more quickly and easily than they were ever won in the most favored gold regions of the earth.

A better summary of the business situation than that made by Bradstreet's Review would be hard to find. It says: "Satisfaction with the old and confidence in the new year are the dominant features of the entire industrial, commercial and financial situation."

The Tom Johnson Democrats cut but a sorry figure in the Ohio legislature. Even the poor consolation of naming a candidate for the empty honor of being voted for as a Democratic senatorial candidate was denied them.

Chicago has a girl novelist who writes stories in her sleep. She will probably be kept busy henceforth in disclaiming responsibility for the su-

perabundant slumber-producing literature emanating from the Windy City.

William J. Bryan favors American intervention in the British South African dispute. He is always favoring something that would be useless and would involve this country in a snarl.

Fire losses in the United States in 1901 aggregated $160,000,000. Fully half this enormous waste was due to carelessness. It is a heavy price to pay for a bad habit.

The schools of the City of Mexico are to teach English hereafter. Mexicans need it in their business, which the universal Yankee is fast monopolizing.

The "battle" at Columbus was more noisy than terrible. A large part of the noise was made by Democratic newspapers.

AT THE THEATER

Frank James, brother of the once noted Jesse James, is now an actor in H. Walter Van Dyke's great American play, "Across the Desert," which will have its initial production to the patrons of the Grand opera house tonight, and is heralded as one of the best of modern sensational melodramas. The story is delightfully told, the comedy is without blemish. Sensational plays that are consistent in plot, sympathetic in every word and action, tender in pathetic scenes, exciting great enthusiasm in climaxes, spirited comedy and good humor that can rejuvenate the listener, require a good acting company. "Across the Desert" in its climaxes raises the audience to feverish excitement. Its comedy, one of the best treatments ever offered to a tired patron in the way of good humor and genuine laughter. This new production has proven a big winner financially and artistically in every theater this company of artists has played.

TALK OF THE PAST

FRANK JAMES, EX-OUTLAW.
TELLS OF HIS CAREER.

His Old Missouri Home to Be a Feature at the St. Louis Exposition.

Frank James, the noted Missourian, is a modest appearing man, who does not look like an outlaw. At his hotel this morning he talked entertainingly of his past career. He does not claim to be an actor. He has been on the stage since November 27.

Mr. James long since determined to show the world that one who has been looked upon as a monster can lead a correct life. He is very fond of his aged mother. He described her home eight miles from Excelsior Springs, Clay county, Mo. The building remains the same as when the two sons were outlaws, and all will be moved to the St. Louis exposition intact. In it will be displayed a great many of the relics of the James boys' outlaw experience.

Mr. James related many interesting incidents in connection with his surrender and subsequent imprisonment. While in jail at Independence he was visited by Prof. Bowser, a very prominent colored man of the state, who tried to get bail for him. Bowser explained his interest in him by saying that he had a record of all the deeds alleged to have been committed by the James brothers, but in no case could he find where they had molested negroes or women and stated he could raise $30,000 for Frank's release.

Mr. James referred to his connection with the confederate army and said his family could now boast of both the blue and the gray. His son, Robert F. James, now in business in St. Louis, was in the service during the Spanish war and made an enviable record.

POTTERY NEWS

Michael J. Conley, a packer at the K. T. & K. pottery, formerly a celebrated buck and wing dancer, has received an offer and may again go on the road. G. H. Cooper was in the city Saturday from Chicago, and it is understood the offer made Mr. Conley was a tempting one. Cooper is manager of a high-class vaudeville aggregation.

Two weeks from last Saturday Robert Hawkins, of the Union pottery, will sever his connection with that plant and about March 1 he will become affiliated with the company erecting a pottery at Barborton.

The G. F. Brunt Porcelain company has issued and is distributing to its friends and customers one of the largest and handsomest calendars ever sent out by an East Liverpool firm. It is a true work of art.

Oddman Connell, of the Union pottery, who accidentally ran a nail in his left foot last week, causing him to lay off from work for a few days, resumed his duties this morning. The injury was very painful.

Ambrose Cartwright, of the Cartwright Bros. Pottery company, is confined to his home on account of illness. He is suffering from tonsillitis.

A. Wasson, Jr., of Toronto, has accepted a position as kiln setter in the R. Thomas & Sons' plant.

A LIBERAL OF ER

Accompanied by competent conductors this trip will be a source of instruction as well as pleasure, and will be appreciated by anyone.

Not only will absolutely every contingent expense be paid, but a purse of $50 will be given every successful contestant for personal expenses during the trip.

Voting blanks will be printed in every issue of the Pittsburg Gazette and the Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph, which should be filled out with the name of your favorite teacher and sent to the office of the papers (Excursion department), where they will be properly filed and recorded to the credit of the teacher voted for.

It is also stated in the letter that Scammon is at present engaged in the lumber business at Bethlehem, Pa., and a full description of him is given. No reason is given as to why the information asked for is desired. None of the local officials know anything about either Mr. or Mrs. Scammon.

LYTH WORKS TO START

The Plant Will Hereafter Manufacture Brick Instead of Terra Cotta.

The clay plant known as the John Lyth terra cotta works, which is situated on the east border of the city limits, is soon to resume operation. This information was imparted by a prominent business man Saturday evening. He further stated that the present owners of the plant would not manufacture anything in the terra cotta line, but would remove the old and place in enough new machinery to guarantee the output of thousands of brick per month, which means that a strictly modern brick yard will supplant the present works.

The plant has been idle for the past 18 months, having been bought by a trust. The change, which will likely go into effect in a few weeks, will receive the hearty commendation of Wellsville residents, as it will be the means of furnishing employment to 100 or more men.

TOO DRUNK TO RIDE

East Liverpool Men Refused as Passengers on the Street Railway.

A number of drunks from East Liverpool visited Wellsville yesterday afternoon and of course acted in a very ungentlemanly and obnoxious manner. They were not molested by the city police, but were made aware of their condition when they attempted to board a street car. The conductor flatly refused to let them on, but experienced some difficulty in enforcing his commands.

The men made all sorts of pleas and threats, but to no avail. They had the pleasure of roaming the streets until their jags disappeared.

EXTENDING THE LINE

Work on the Street Railway Line to the West End Now in Progress.

The work of extending the street railway out Eighteenth street and thence to the corporation line was started this morning. A gang of linemen are now busy erecting poles and stringing wire. The laying of track will commence in a few days.

According to the contract with the city the company will be compelled to have the extension finished by April 1.

ZANESVILLE CLOSED TIGHT.

Retaliation by Liquor Men, Through Mayor Holden and Chief Tracy.

Zanesville, O., Jan. 6.—Never before were the Sunday laws observed more closely in Zanesville than yesterday. This was because Judge Frazier, of the common pleas court, put the leading saloon keepers under bond for a year to keep their places closed on Sunday.

The saloonkeepers, through Mayor Holden and Chief Tracy, retaliated on the common Sunday law violators and yesterday it was impossible to buy a cigar or get into a drug store without a prescription. Fruit stands, soda fountains and candy and tobacco stores were all closed. The mayor declared last night that next Sunday he will stop the street cars, milk wagons, and the publication of local and sale of outside newspapers.

Impossible to foresee an accident. Not impossible to be prepared for it. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Monarch over pain.

OFFICER ATTACKED

CONSTABLE J. H. ALLISON'S EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Man on Whom He Was Serving Papers Made a Vicious Assault.

Constable J. Hiram Allison will vouch for the fact that the life of a municipal officer is not one always to be desired. Official duties often provide troubles.

Last evening Mr. Allison went to the home of W. A. Hines for the purpose of serving attachment papers which had been written by 'Squire Johnston in compliance with an order of C. A. Smith, who in the writ alleges that Hines owes him $60 for rent.

Upon arriving at the Hines home the constable saw two moving vans in waiting for a load and quickened his steps. He unceremoniously entered the house. Before he got a chance to state his business, Hines leaped from a chair and made a vicious assault on the unsuspecting officer.

Luckily for Allison a street car employee by the name of Williams interfered and prevented a possible murder, as Hines was terribly enraged and afterward boasted of what he would have done to Allison. After an exciting scramble Allison and Williams subdued the angry man and the papers were served.

As a result of the attack Allison swore out a warrant for the arrest of Hines this morning, charging him with unlawfully attacking an officer while in the discharge of his duties. The man will be given a hearing this evening.

G. A. Arner, learning this morning that Hines was preparing to leave, also had attachment papers served. He claims that Hines owes him over $20.

DESERVED PROMOTION

J. H. Stewart Leaves Chester Depot for a Fine Position at Carnegie.

J. H. Stewart has resigned his position as ticket and freight agent at the Pennsylvania depot. His resignation went into effect today and he will leave tomorrow morning for Carnegie to accept a similar but more profitable position. His new position is that of general freight agent and is considered as a plum in the railroad business, as it pays a salary of $125 per month.

Mr. Stewart has been in charge of the Chester depot for two years and it was through his untiring efforts for the benefit of the company that he placed himself in line for such a speedy promotion. At Carnegie much responsibility will rest upon Mr. Stewart, as he will have control of all freight passing into and out of Pittsburgh, this point being where all transfers are made by the Pennsylvania company. While a resident of Chester Mr. Stewart has made a legion of friends, all of whom regret very much that he is going away, yet they are glad of his success.

A. L. Skinner, of Coshocton, arrived this morning and is making himself acquainted with the business affairs of the depot, having been appointed to fill the place of Mr. Stewart.

Will Quit the River.

Captain George Conn, who has been for years in the employment of the Pittsburgh coal combine in the capacity of a pilot on tow boats, has decided to quit the river and has accepted a position with the American Tin Plate company. Owing to the promotion of Mayor R. H. Dunn to the night superintendency of the mill it was made necessary to appoint a man to the vacancy and Captain Conn received the appointment.

Will Go to Collier's.

C. L. Walton, who has been the assistant freight agent at the depot for nearly two years, will leave tomorrow for Collier's Scales, where he will accept a position as assistant weighmaster for the Pennsylvania lines.

Hearing Postponed.

The case of the Lyons boys, charged with disturbing a religious meeting, was continued by 'Squire Johnston until next Wednesday morning, one of the boys being reported sick.

A Lucky Bargain.

It is said that a foreman stereotyper in a London printing works had a curious windfall. Going to a sale of musical instruments, he purchased an old harpsichord for 20 shillings, because, having a hobby for fretwork, he fancied the wood of the front panel. When he got his purchase home, he dissected it. He then discovered that the harpsichord had a double back, and presently between the boards he found very old Bank of England notes the total face value of which amounted to £20,000.

NEW CABINET OFFICER.

Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin Now Postmaster General.

In selecting Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin to succeed Charles Emory Smith as postmaster general the president has appointed a man who has had no little experience in postal matters. For twelve years he was postmaster of Milwaukee, Wis., and conducted the affairs of the office in a manner that gave great satisfaction to the people of that enterprising city. Probably he is better known for his activity in politics, having long been one of the leaders of his party in Wisconsin.

Mr. Payne was born in Ashfield, Mass., in 1843, and after graduating from the Shelburne Falls academy in 1863 he removed to Milwaukee and became cashier of a dry goods store in that city. He first went into politics in 1872, reorganizing the party in Milwaukee. Mr. Payne has long been a member of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Payne is president of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company and president of the Wisconsin Telephone company. He was for two years president of the American Street Railway association and was at one time receiver of the Northern Pacific railroad. Mr. Payne was appointed postmaster of Milwaukee in 1876 and served twelve years, and it is said he was the best postmaster that city ever had.

The new postmaster general is of small stature, but squarely and compactly built. He is sociable, open hearted, approachable and genial.

ANOTHER FORAKER BRIDE.

Youngest Daughter of the Senator to Wed Soon.

Another of Senator Foraker's handsome daughters is about to become a bride. A few weeks ago his daughter Florence was married to Randolph Matthews, and now Miss Julia Foraker will become the wife of Francis King Wainwright of Philadelphia. The wedding will take place in Washington on Jan. 8, and the young couple will reside in the Quaker City, where Mr. Wainwright has lived for a number of years and is very well known.

The bride elect is a strikingly handsome girl. She is twenty years old, tall and graceful and is extremely popular in society. In appearance Miss Foraker resembles her mother, but is like her father in courage, brilliancy and conversational charm. She is fond of all outdoor sports and is a fine horsewoman and one of the best women golfers.

players in Washington. She has the name of wearing the "smartest" gowns of almost any member of the young society set.

Francis King Wainwright, who will wed Miss Foraker, is the son of Joseph Reeves Wainwright, president of the Pennsylvania Chemical company. When the young man was graduated with the Princeton class of 1899, he set to work to learn the business his father is engaged in and now holds a responsible position with the Pennsylvania Chemical company. He is twenty-three years old and belongs to all the leading Philadelphia clubs as well as some suburban organizations.

Hard Work Ahead

FOR SOCIETY WOMEN

Who Seek the Stage

By CLARA BLOODGOOD, Society Woman and Actress

"WORK, work, work." That is my message to society women who adopt the stage. Social experience counts for nothing. That may sound strange, but it is logical. There is no logic in the contention that because a woman is an adept in ballroom manners she will appear at ease in a ballroom scene behind the footlights. The only advantage the society woman possesses is that from familiarity, she may learn more easily how to do certain things. On the other hand, her experience may cause her greater difficulties. A society woman has been trained to repress her feelings. On the stage she has to give expression to her emotions.

I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT A CAST OF SOCIETY WOMEN WOULD BE BETTER ABLE TO GIVE THE ATMOSPHERE OF SOCIETY TO A PLAY THAN A CAST MADE UP OF THOSE WHO LACKED THEIR SOCIAL EXPERIENCE.

The atmosphere is created mainly by the author's lines and incidentally by the stage management. Believe me, intelligence is of more avail than all the social experience in the world. A well trained, intelligent actress, though she may never have seen the inside of a drawing room, will do just the right thing and give the correct impression.

I have been asked for advice by many women who looked to the stage as an easy means of obtaining a livelihood. I have warned them that unless they were willing to work hard, to rely on perseverance and energy to win advancement, they had better keep out of it. I won my way up by hard work and a good share of luck.

Origin of Absinth.

Absinth, the green fiend that saturates fashionable France, was originally an extremely harmless medical remedy.

It was a French physician who first used it. His name was Ordinaire, and he was living as a refugee at Couvet, in Switzerland, at the close of the eighteenth century. Like many other country doctors at that time, he was also a druggist, and his favorite remedy was a certain elixir of absinth of which he alone had the secret.

At his death he bequeathed the formula to his housekeeper, Mlle. Grandpierre, and she sold it to the daughters of Lieutenant Henriod. They cultivated in their little garden the herbs necessary for concocting it, and after they had distilled a certain quantity of the liquid they sold it on commission to itinerant peddlers, who quickly disposed of it in the adjacent towns and villages.

Finally, during the first decade of the nineteenth century, a wealthy distiller purchased the formula, and very soon afterward he placed on the market the modern absinth, which differs greatly from the old medical remedy, since the latter contained no alcohol and very little absinth.

LATE AND IMPORTANT PHASES OF CHILD STUDY.

BY COLIN A. SCOTT, PH. D.,

Professor of Psychology and Child Study in the Wisconsin Normal School.

I.—Prenatal Influences.

It is a very old notion that the impressions received by a mother during pregnancy are of the greatest importance for her child. The author of the book of Genesis represents Jacob as familiar with this conception in the breeding of animals.

Plato, in harmony with the general Greek sentiment, recommended that beautiful statues should be frequent in public places in order to impress the finest forms on the imagination of mothers.

In the middle ages psychic qualities were also believed to be impressed. The fear of James I for a naked sword due to fright on his mother's part is a typical case. At the present day the belief is widespread. Mrs. Marholme attributes the deficient forms of the present generation of men to modern clothing, which, as a series of shapeless cylinders expressing nothing but the power of the money bag, conceals the masculine forms which, through the imagination of the enclente woman, ought to be transmitted to future generations.

Dr. Drzewiecki of the University of Warsaw cites the case of his own child, which was born with a mark on its leg in the same place where he himself had been wounded while swimming. This accident occurred during the first month of his wife's pregnancy, and she had been shocked and frightened by the sight of the wound.

Supplementing the evidence of this character, Dr. Hunter has collected 2,000 cases where mothers were asked in every instance before the birth of the child if they had experienced any apprehension or mental emotion which they might think would cause any mark or deformity, and, although admissions of this kind were very frequent and although many of the 2,000 children were marked in some way or another, in not one single case did the resulting mark correspond with the apprehension of the mother. It is easy to see that if the opportunity had been given after instead of before the appearance of the child it would be a very unimaginative woman indeed who would not be able to remember something in her experience which the irregularity of development could not suggest.

It must be observed that a very slight acquaintance with the science of embryology discounts a large number of these stories. Different organs have different periods of development. The skin is not differentiated as a special organ until comparatively late. The most distant portions of the extremities are developed first, the fingers before the palm, the hand before the forearm, the forearm before the arm proper. Generally speaking, the portions at the sides of the body are developed before the parts in the middle, the joining of the two halves occurring later. Each outer half of the eye develops before the inner half. The various organs and even parts of organs have their nascent periods, and if we hear of a shock which is said to have occasioned harelip, for example, which has been received after the period when the two separately developed halves of the palate normally unite to form a single palate (between the ages of 8 and 10 weeks of fetal life), we can be absolutely certain that this shock has had no effect in producing the deformity, since the deformity has already been in existence in the form presented at birth before the advent of the so called impression. Harelip and cleft palate are very common defects, occurring, according to Dr. Hattfield of Chicago, in 22 out of 100 cases of maternal impression reported to him. They are plainly instances of arrested development, taking place at the time when the two halves of the palate should have been joined together. Lack of developmental energy on the part of the child at this time from whatever cause finds its expression in this defect. No shock or fright on the part of the mother, even if it were possible to communicate it to the child, could possibly have any effect after this time.

Cyclops, or one eyed monsters, to take another example, are due to an arrest in development after the two outer halves, but before the two inner halves, of the eyes are developed. The arrest of development at this point then ceases, and at the proper time the two outer halves are joined. The single eye is thus derived from two outer halves of separate eyes, and the organs between, including the nose, are absent.

As Dr. Kiernan of Chicago has forcibly pointed out, the most of the cases reported are distinctly arrests of development and do not represent even remotely photographic reproductions of impressions. A woman sees her enraged husband cut off three toes from the right foot of a chicken. She fears her child will be marked. As anticipated, her child is born with three stubs of fingers on his right hand. Further examination, however, reveals the fact that the fingers are perfectly formed, with complete nails, and do not represent anything cut off. It is an arrest of development occurring at a definite period in embryonic life, and only if the shock occurred at this special time, which does not appear, could it have anything to do with the deformity.

The conception of arrest of development focuses the attention upon the inner forces of growth rather than upon the external impressions. Parental influences from this standpoint extend far beyond the period of gestation or the life of the individual. The germ plasma from which every human being develops has lived for many millions of years. In the line of descent, between the first germ cell and every cell which now composes human bodies, there has never been a single cell which has ever died. The cells which did die are not the ancestors of any of those which are now alive. We do not inherit death, but life, and death of certain groups of cells is only an acquisition in the struggle for existence to permit of larger life. The germ plasma may be regarded as a continuous race root stock from which individuals bud, like the shoots which come up from an underground stem in spring. Individuals are expressions of the root stock or germ plasma. The germ plasma is not the expression of individuals. It is nearly as true to say that a man inherits from his immediate children as to say that his immediate children inherit from him. The truth is that every individual inherits not from another individual, but from the race stock of which they are both expressions. When hereditary blindness appears in a family, statistics show that it is as likely to be transmitted by the brother or sister who is not blind as by the one who is. Individuals are thus produced as experiments by the race stock or germ plasma and are thrown off and die.

The germ plasma, however, as Weismann himself admits, is subject to influence by its environment in the bodies of individuals which contain it. These influences, however, are never special and can all be regarded as either producing better nutrition or arresting development by interfering with nutrition. The same thing is true of the embryo.

It is perfectly true that psychic disturbances, if sufficiently severe and continued for a sufficient length of time, are associated with and may occasion a defective nutritive condition of the blood and thus cause an arrest of development. The progress of the race is dependent upon the increase of and the perfection of the embryonic processes. To add to nature in nature's way we must increase the protecting influences. Not only the embryo, but for its sake the mother also must be removed from the strain. This does not mean inertia, but a hygienic life, which will produce a well aerated, pure and healthy blood, capable of supplying the best nutritive material for the independent organizing forces of the child. The superstition in favor of photographic maternal impressions, apart from natural maternal conceit, has probably also had some biological significance in emphasizing the protection of the mother, not so much through her imagination, but through that of the husband and the rest of society. When the vast range of heredity was undreamed of, it was natural to overestimate the period of gestation. At present, however, we see that the continuous fears of psychic impressions, by lowering nutritive vigor, are likely to be more injurious than any irregular impressions themselves can possibly be. Mothers should be protected from this fear of fears.

The facts of science imply as follows: The impressions which a mother receives have no direct bearing on the child. The function of the mother during gestation is simply the passive production of nourishment. It is before conception rather than after and not directly, but by a process of sexual selection pertaining to all the powers involved in falling in love or other means of mating, that the real psychic influences that will affect the next generation are determined. The constitution, both physical and psychic; the imagination, the intellect, the emotions revealed and appreciated in this golden aura of life, are the most decisive prenatal influences within the life of the individual. The full discussion of this, however, must be reserved for another lesson.

CONGRESS TO MEET.

To Re-Convene Today---Canal

Bill Due In House

Tomorrow.

IN MEMORY OF SEN. SEWELL.

Senate Likely to Adjourn Today---Rumored Intended Proposal of Panama Company to Sell May Figure In Debate on Isthmian Canal Measure.

Washington, Jan. 6.—After a recess of almost three weeks, both houses of congress will reconvene today. The principal item on the house program for the week is the Hepburn isthmian canal bill, which is the special order for Tuesday. No limit has been fixed as to the time for debate upon this measure, but Mr. Hepburn does not contemplate a prolonged discussion of it. It is surmised in some quarters, however, that if the proposition of the Panama Canal company to sell its property and franchises for $40,000,000 should be made today, as promised, this may have the effect of opening a wider field of discussion than at first seemed probable, and if this should prove to be the case the bill may be before the house for a longer time than is now contemplated. Mr. Burton has given notice of a speech on the bill, and it is understood that there also will be other speeches in criticism of special features of the measure, but its friends are very sanguine, not only that the bill will pass, but it will pass speedily. Mr. Hepburn, the author of the bill, thinks that only a few days of debate will be necessary.

It is said that by the time the canal bill is disposed of there will be one or more appropriation bills ready for consideration by the house. None of the appropriation bills has yet been passed on by the appropriations committee, but both the urgent deficiency and the pension bills are in a forward state, and the expectation is that they will be considered by the committee during the current week. The present intention is to give first attention to the deficiency bill. The estimates for that bill aggregate $12,000,000, and it is not believed that these figures will be scaled down materially.

No Program For Senate.

The senate has no program for the week and very little business on its calendar, as the reorganization of the senate committees did not take place until just before the holidays. There are, however, a few bridge bills reported, and Senator Morgan's bill for the acquisition of right of way for the Nicaragua canal is among the measures in position to receive attention. It is not probable, however, that the right of way bill will receive a consideration at this time, the disposition being rather to await the action of the house upon the general subject and then have the senate predicate its action on the house bill. If this course should be decided on the discussion of the canal question in the senate will be postponed for a few weeks. The committee on the Philippines will take up the Philippine tariff question very soon, but there is yet no indication as to how much time the matter may consume in committee. Hence there is no probability that the senate itself will be able to reach that question for some time. Senator Frye is engaged on his report on the shipping bill, but is not yet able to fix the time for its completion.

The announcement of Senator Sewell's death probably will be made today, in which event there will be an immediate adjournment for the day. An adjournment from Thursday until the following Monday is contemplated.

AS MEMORIAL TO LINCOLN.

Congregational Churches, Sabbath Schools and Endeavor Societies
Asked to Observe Feb. 12.

New York, Jan. 6.—The American Missionary association has issued an appeal to the Congregational churches of the country to observe Sunday, Feb. 9, as a memorial of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday is Feb. 12. The churches, and especially their Sabbath schools and Endeavor societies, are urged to emphasize Christian patriotism.

"Abraham Lincoln," says this appeal, "was born in the mountains of the south, where schools and churches have been established by this association. The negroes have grown into a great multitude of more than 8,000,000, among whom this association has planted its institutions and missions. Through its missionaries the colored people are being trained in shop, on the farm, in the school and church and home, for safe citizenship and Christian responsibility. President Lincoln urged the kind and Christian treatment of the Indians. The negro and Indian dependents of missionary work carried on by this association are therefore naturally suggested by his name."

TO SUCCEED REV. PURVES.

Congregational Meeting to Be Held to Invite Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, of Chicago.

New York, Jan. 6.—A meeting of the congregation of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church will be held on the eve of Jan. 15 for the purpose of extending a call to the Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, of Chicago.

Dr. Stevenson has for the last five years been filling the chair of church history at McCormick Theological seminary. He is not quite 36, graduating from McCormick in 1889, and after studying in Germany had a charge in Sedalia, Mo. He is one of the members of the committee on revision of the creed.

The pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church has been vacant since the death of the former pastor, the late Dr. George T. Purves, Sept. 17 last.

The FLAG, Not the CONSTITUTION,

Represents the Sovereignty of the Nation

By Hon. GALUSHA A. GROW, Ex-Speaker House of Representatives

IN OUR TRIPLE FORM OF GOVERNMENT IT IS NOT NECESSARY FOR ANY PURPOSE WHATEVER THAT THE CONSTITUTION SHOULD EXTEND BEYOND THE LIMITS OF THE STATES. On all questions outside of the limits of the States over territory belonging to the United States and in the intercourse of this nation with all other nations the legislative department of the government of the Union was created by the people to execute their will.

THE FLAG, NOT THE CONSTITUTION, REPRESENTS THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE NATION.

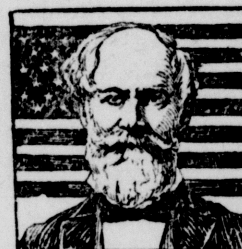

The legislative power of congress, clothed with the treaty making and war powers of the government—powers not necessarily derived from the constitution, for they are inherent in every sovereign nation—follows the flag wherever it floats, at home or abroad, on land or sea, for its protection and for the protection of every human being owing it allegiance. Our flag is in Cuba, but the constitution is not there.

OUR FLAG FLOATED OVER THE EMBATTLED WALLS OF THE CHINESE EMPIRE, AND THE LEGISLATIVE POWER OF CONGRESS, NOT THE CONSTITUTION, WAS BEHIND IT. That power follows the flag everywhere. The constitution, without legislation by congress, follows nothing outside the limits of the states for which it was made and the states admitted into the Union by act of congress.

Under the general power to acquire territory and the specific power to make all needful rules and regulations respecting it, congress, if there are no treaty conditions, can, in its own sound discretion, establish one form of government for one territory and a different one for other territories, adapting each to the climatic conditions and the habits of life of the inhabitants of the respective territories.

For 2,000 years civilization has been moving westward from the westward confines of Asia, and TODAY THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC HOLDS THE TORCH OF THE WORLD'S ADVANCING CIVILIZATION, having carried it westward across the Pacific ocean and planted it on the eastern confines of Asia, where its illuminating rays light up with the brightness of a morning sun the Chinese sky, which canopies one-third the population of the globe.

IN THE OVERHANGING FUTURE NO PROPHET CAN NOW FORETELL WHAT WILL BE ITS NOONDAY SPLENDORS IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, TRUE TO THEIR MANIFEST DESTINY, MARKED OUT BY THE MIGHTY EVENTS OF 400 YEARS, SHALL FAITHFULLY DISCHARGE THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES TO LIBERTY AND THE RIGHTS OF A COMMON HUMANITY IN THE ONWARD PROGRESS OF THE RACE TO A HIGHER AND BETTER CIVILIZATION.

ON HUMBLE LINES.

How Three Working Women Keep the Wolf From the Door.

SOMETIMES along the humblest lines of manual labor a member of the great sisterhood of wage earners achieves a result which opens the eyes of women to the opportunities that lie around them every day waiting to be grasped. In one of the great cities of the Union a certain bakery company's wagons dart along the streets bearing upon their sides in large letters the trademark "Mrs. Blank's Homemade Pies." Everybody thereabout who is honest enough to own that he is fond of our delicious American fruit pies knows Mrs. Blank's pies. I saw those wagons so often and the horses attached thereto seemed so well taken care of, the plenum themselves looked so attractively clean and were so polite, that I was interested to know more of worthy Mrs. Blank.

She began in a very small way making pies for sale, but making them so wanted, and the bakery gradually became one of the largest bread, pastry and cake establishments in the city.

Mrs. Blank herself conducted the large business till she made a considerable fortune; then, wearying of so much care, the capable woman, who had worked her way to both competency and a business reputation on the strength of pie, sold the business to a stock company which is shrewd enough to still keep her name on its wagons.

The original Mrs. Blank retired to a pleasant seaside resort, a quiet place. There, after a time, because idleness was unendurable and making pies was the pleasantest way of passing the time that she knew, she opened another bakery, a small one.

There, too, is Joe. She is gray haired now—grown gray in the service of the restaurant firm for whom she began working twenty years ago, but they called her Joe when she began with them as a young woman, and Joe she will be to the end of the chapter. The restaurant in which she works is a large one, furnishing meals certainly to a thousand people daily. It has the name of serving the best coffee in New York city.

One who is a judge of good coffee and had sampled repeatedly that made in this place was curious enough to inquire as to the brand used and the method of preparation. He found that every cup of coffee furnished there was made and for years had been made by one person, a little widow called Joe for short. She began first in the establishment as a laundress, then was promoted to coffee maker. She does nothing but brew the amber liquid which has become noted. Day in and day out the pleasant faced little woman stands at her coffee urn, a genuine artist in her line. She must be happy if she knows how well the customers of the establishment appreciate her skill.

Oddly enough, at the same restaurant there is a woman bartender. She is a young woman still, but she, too, has been in the service of the firm and given satisfaction wherever she was set to work ever since she was a girl in short dresses. When a diner calls for any vinous, malt or spirituous liquor with his food, it is swiftly prepared by this young woman, who stands behind a screen door.

I confess I have never sampled any of her drinks, but if they are as good as Mme. Joe's coffee they must be unsurpassed.

These three women took the task that lay nearest them, the work they knew how to do, and performed it so well that they raised it to an art.

good and so above suspicion that customers rapidly increased for the toothsome confections. She at length added other baker's stuffs, proportionally good, to the pumpkin, mince and apple products, and these became the fashion too. Mrs. Blank's family lived handsomely and had everything they

I.—Prenatal Influences.

LATE AND IMPORTANT PHASES OF CHILD STUDY.

BY COLIN A. SCOTT, PH. D.,

Professor of Psychology and Child Study in the Wisconsin Normal School.

That beautiful statues should be frequent in public places in order to impress the finest forms on the imagination of mothers.

In the middle ages psychic qualities were also believed to be impressed. The fear of James I for a naked sword due to fright on his mother's part is a typical case. At the present day the belief is widespread. Mrs. Marholme attributes the deficient forms of the present generation of men to modern clothing, which, as a series of shapeless cylinders expressing nothing but the power of the money bag, conceals the masculine forms which, through the imagination of the enclente woman, ought to be transmitted to future generations.

Dr. Drzewiecki of the University of Warsaw cites the case of his own child, which was born with a mark on its leg in the same place where he himself had been wounded while swimming. This accident occurred during the first month of his wife's pregnancy, and she had been shocked and frightened by the sight of the wound.

Supplementing the evidence of this character, Dr. Hunter has collected 2,000 cases where mothers were asked in every instance before the birth of the child if they had experienced any apprehension or mental emotion which they might think would cause any mark or deformity, and, although admissions of this kind were very frequent and although many of the 2,000 children were marked in some way or another, in not one single case did the resulting mark correspond with the apprehension of the mother. It is easy to see that if the opportunity had been given after instead of before the appearance of the child it would be a very unimagineable woman indeed who would not be able to remember something in her experience which the irregularity of development could not suggest.

It must be observed that a very slight acquaintance with the science of embryology discounts a large number of these stories. Different organs have different periods of development. The skin is not differentiated as a special organ until comparatively late. The most distant portions of the extremities are developed first, the fingers before the palm, the hand before the forearm, the forearm before the arm proper. Generally speaking, the portions at the sides of the body are developed before the parts in the middle, the joining of the two halves occurring later. Each outer half of the eye develops before the inner half. The various organs and even parts of organs have their nascent periods, and if we hear of a shock which is said to have occasioned harelip, for example, which has been received after the period when the two separately developed halves of the palate normally unite to form a single palate (between the ages of 8 and 10 weeks of fetal life), we can be absolutely certain that this shock has had no effect in producing the deformity, since the deformity has already been in existence in the form presented at birth before the advent of the so called impression. Harelip and cleft palate are very common defects, occurring, according to Dr. Hatfield of Chicago, in 22 out of 100 cases of maternal impression reported to him. They are plainly instances of arrested development, taking place at the time when the two halves of the palate should have been joined together. Lack of developmental energy on the part of the child at this time from whatever cause finds its expression in this defect. No shock or fright on the part of the mother, even if it were possible to communicate it to the child, could possibly have any effect after this time.

Cyclops, or one eyed monsters, to take another example, are due to an arrest in development after the two outer halves, but before the two inner halves, of the eyes are developed. The arrest of development at this point then ceases, and at the proper time the two outer halves are joined. The single eye is thus derived from two outer halves of separate eyes, and the organs between, including the nose, are absent.

As Dr. Kiernan of Chicago has forcibly pointed out, the most of the cases reported are distinctly arrests of development and do not represent even remotely photographic reproductions of impressions. A woman sees her enraged husband cut off three toes from the right foot of a chicken. She fears her child will be marked. As anticipated, her child is born with three stubs of fingers on his right hand. Further examination, however, reveals the fact that the fingers are perfectly formed, with complete nails, and do not represent anything cut off. It is an arrest of development occurring at a definite period in embryonic life, and only if the shock occurred at this special time, which does not appear, could it have anything to do with the deformity.

The conception of arrest of development focuses the attention upon the inner forces of growth rather than upon the external impressions. Parental influences from this standpoint extend far beyond the period of gestation or the life of the individual. The germ plasma from which every human being develops has lived for many millions of years. In the line of descent, between the first germ cell and every cell which now composes human bodies, there has never been a single cell which has ever died. The cells which did die are not the ancestors of any of those which are now alive. We do not inherit death, but life, and death of certain groups of cells is only an acquisition in the struggle for existence to permit of larger life. The germ plasma may be regarded as a continuous race root stock from which individuals bud, like the shoots which come up from an underground stem in spring. Individuals are expressions of the root stock or germ plasma. The germ plasma is not the expression of individuals. It is nearly as true to say that a man inherits from his immediate children as to say that his immediate children inherit from him. The truth is that every individual inherits not from another individual, but from the race stock of which they are both expressions. When hereditary blindness appears in a family, statistics show that it is as likely to be transmitted by the brother or sister who is not blind as by the one who is. Individuals are thus produced as experiments by the race stock or germ plasma and are thrown off and die.

The germ plasma, however, as Weismann himself admits, is subject to influence by its environment in the bodies of individuals which contain it. These influences, however, are never special and can all be regarded as either producing better nutrition or arresting development by interfering with nutrition. The same thing is true of the embryo.

It is perfectly true that psychic disturbances, if sufficiently severe and continued for a sufficient length of time, are associated with and may occasion a defective nutritive condition of the blood and thus cause an arrest of development. The progress of the race is dependent upon the increase of and the perfection of the embryonic processes. To add to nature in nature's way we must increase the protecting influences. Not only the embryo, but for its sake the mother also must be removed from the strain. This does not mean inertia, but a hygienic life, which will produce a well aerated, pure and healthy blood, capable of supplying the best nutritive material for the independent organizing forces of the child. The superstition in favor of photographic maternal impressions, apart from natural maternal conceit, has probably also had some biological significance in emphasizing the protection of the mother, not so much through her imagination, but through that of the husband and the rest of society. When the vast range of heredity was undreamed of, it was natural to overestimate the period of gestation. At present, however, we see that the continuous fears of psychic impressions, by lowering nutritive vigor, are likely to be more injurious than any irregular impressions themselves can possibly be. Mothers should be protected from this fear of fears.

The facts of science imply as follows: The impressions which a mother receives have no direct bearing on the child. The function of the mother during gestation is simply the passive production of nourishment. It is before conception rather than after and not directly, but by a process of sexual selection pertaining to all the powers involved in falling in love or other means of mating, that the real psychic influences that will affect the next generation are determined. The constitution, both physical and psychic; the imagination, the intellect, the emotions revealed and appreciated in this golden aura of life, are the most decisive prenatal influences within the life of the individual. The full discussion of this, however, must be reserved for another lesson.

CONGRESS TO MEET.

To Re-Convene Today---Canal Bill Due In House Tomorrow.

IN MEMORY OF GEN. SEWELL.

Senate Likely to Adjourn Today---Remembered Intended Proposal of Panama Company to Sell May Figure In Debate on Isthmian Canal Measure.

Washington, Jan. 6.—After a recess of almost three weeks, both houses of congress will reconvene today. The principal item on the house program for the week is the Hepburn Isthmian canal bill, which is the special order for Tuesday. No limit has been fixed as to the time for debate upon this measure, but Mr. Hepburn does not contemplate a prolonged discussion of it. It is surmised in some quarters, however, that if the proposition of the Panama Canal company to sell its property and franchises for $40,000,000 should be made today, as promised, this may have the effect of opening a wider field of discussion than at first seemed probable, and if this should prove to be the case the bill may be before the house for a longer time than is now contemplated. Mr. Burton has given notice of a speech on the bill, and it is understood that there also will be other speeches in criticism of special features of the measure, but its friends are very sanguine, not only that the bill will pass, but it will pass speedily. Mr. Hepburn, the author of the bill, thinks that only a few days of debate will be necessary.

It is said that by the time the canal bill is disposed of there will be one or more appropriation bills ready for consideration by the house. None of the appropriation bills has yet been passed on by the appropriations committee, but both the urgent deficiency and the pension bills are in a forward state, and the expectation is that they will be considered by the committee during the current week. The present intention is to give first attention to the deficiency bill. The estimates for that bill aggregate $12,000,000, and it is not believed that these figures will be scaled down materially.

No Program For Senate.

The senate has no program for the week and very little business on its calendar, as the reorganization of the senate committees did not take place until just before the holidays. There are, however, a few bridge bills reported, and Senator Morgan's bill for the acquisition of right of way for the Nicaragua canal is among the measures in position to receive attention. It is not probable, however, that the right of way bill will receive a consideration at this time, the disposition being rather to await the action of the house upon the general subject and then have the senate predicate its action on the house bill. If this course should be decided on the discussion of the canal question in the senate will be postponed for a few weeks. The committee on the Philippines will take up the Philippine tariff question very soon, but there is yet no indication as to how much time the matter may consume in committee. Hence there is no probability that the senate itself will be able to reach that question for some time. Senator Frye is engaged on his report on the shipping bill, but is not yet able to fix the time for its completion.

The announcement of Senator Sewell's death probably will be made today, in which event there will be an immediate adjournment for the day. An adjournment from Thursday until the following Monday is contemplated.

AS MEMORIAL TO LINCOLN.

Congregational Churches, Sabbath Schools and Endeavor Societies Asked to Observe Feb. 12.

New York, Jan. 6.—The American Missionary association has issued an appeal to the Congregational churches of the country to observe Sunday, Feb. 9, as a memorial of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday is Feb. 12. The churches, and especially the Sabbath schools and Endeavor societies, are urged to emphasize Christian patriotism.

"Abraham Lincoln," says this appeal, "was born in the mountains of the south, where schools and churches have been established by this association. The negroes have grown into a great multitude of more than 8,000,000, among whom this association has planted its institutions and missions. Through its missionaries the colored people are being trained in shop, on the farm, in the school and church and home, for safe citizenship and Christian responsibility. President Lincoln urged the kind and Christian treatment of the Indians. The negro and Indian departments of missionary work carried on by this association are therefore naturally suggested by his name."

TO SUCCEED REV. PURVES.

Congregational Meeting to Be Held to Invite Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, son of Chicago.

New York, Jan. 6.—A meeting of the congregation of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church will be held on the eve of Jan. 15 for the purpose of extending a call to the Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, of Chicago.

Dr. Stevenson has for the last five years been filling the chair of church history at McCormick Theological seminary. He is not quite 36, graduating from McCormick in 1889, and after studying in Germany had a charge in Sedalia, Mo. He is one of the members of the committee on revision of the creed.

The pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church has been vacant since the death of the former pastor, the late Dr. George T. Purves, Sept. 17 last.

The FLAG, Not the CONSTITUTION.

Represents the Sovereignty of the Nation

By Hon. GALUSHA A. GROW, Ex-Speaker House of Representatives

IN OUR TRIPLE FORM OF GOVERNMENT IT IS NOT NECESSARY FOR ANY PURPOSE WHATSOEVER THAT THE CONSTITUTION SHOULD EXTEND BEYOND THE LIMITS OF THE STATES. On all questions outside of the limits of the States over territory belonging to the United States and in the intercourse of this nation with all other nations the legislative department of the government of the Union was created by the people to execute their will.

THE FLAG, NOT THE CONSTITUTION, REPRESENTS THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE NATION.

The legislative power of congress, clothed with the treaty making and war powers of the government—powers not necessarily derived from the constitution, for they are inherent in every sovereign nation—follows the flag wherever it floats, at home or abroad, on land or sea, for its protection and for the protection of every human being owing it allegiance. Our flag is in Cuba, but the constitution is not there.

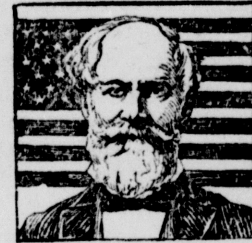

OUR FLAG FLOATED OVER THE EMBATTLED WALLS OF THE CHINESE EMPIRE, AND THE LEGISLATIVE POWER OF CONGRESS, NOT THE CONSTITUTION, WAS BEHIND IT. That power follows the flag everywhere. The constitution, without legislation by congress, follows nothing outside the limits of the states for which it was made and the states admitted into the Union by act of congress.

Under the general power to acquire territory and the specific power to make all needful rules and regulations respecting it, congress, if there are no treaty conditions, can, in its own sound discretion, establish one form of government for one territory and a different one for other territories, adapting each to the climatic conditions and the habits of life of the inhabitants of the respective territories.

For 2,000 years civilization has been moving westward from the westward confines of Asia, and TODAY THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC HOLDS THE TORCH OF THE WORLD'S ADVANCING CIVILIZATION, having carried it westward across the Pacific ocean and planted it on the eastern confines of Asia, where its illuminating rays light up with the brightness of a morning sun the Chinese sky, which canopies one-third the population of the globe.

IN THE OVERHANGING FUTURE NO PROPHET CAN NOW FORETELL WHAT WILL BE ITS NOONDAY

SPLENDORS IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, TRUE TO THEIR MANIFEST DESTINY, MARKED OUT BY THE MIGHTY EVENTS OF 400 YEARS, SHALL FAITHFULLY DISCHARGE THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES TO LIBERTY AND THE RIGHTS OF A COMMON HUMANITY IN THE ONWARD PROGRESS OF THE RACE TO A HIGHER AND BETTER CIVILIZATION.

ON HUMBLE LINES.

How Three Working Women Keep the Wolf From the Door.

SOMETIMES along the humblest lines of manual labor a member of the great sisterhood of wage earners achieves a result which opens the eyes of women to the opportunities that lie around them every day waiting to be grasped.

In one of the great cities of the Union a certain bakery company's wagons dart along the streets bearing upon their sides in large letters the trademark "Mrs. Blank's Homemade Pies." Everybody thereabout who is honest enough to own that he is fond of our delicious American fruit pies knows Mrs. Blank's pies. I saw those wagons so often and the horses attached thereto seemed so well taken care of, the plenum themselves looked so attractively clean and were so polite, that I was interested to know more of worthy Mrs. Blank.

She began in a very small way making pies for sale, but making them so wanted, and the bakery gradually became one of the largest bread, pastry and cake establishments in the city.

Mrs. Blank herself conducted the large business till she made a considerable fortune; then, wearying of so much care, the capable woman, who had worked her way to both competency and a business reputation on the strength of pie, sold the business to a stock company which is shrewd enough to still keep her name on its wagons.

The original Mrs. Blank retired to a pleasant seaside resort, a quiet place. There after a time, because idleness was unendurable and making pies was the pleasantest way of passing the time that she knew, she opened another bakeshop, a small one.

There, too, is Joe. She is gray haired now—grown gray in the service of the restaurant firm for whom she began working twenty years ago, but they called her Joe when she began with them as a young woman, and Joe she will be to the end of the chapter. The restaurant in which she works is a large one, furnishing meals certainly to a thousand people daily. It has the name of serving the best coffee in New York city.

One who is a judge of good coffee and had sampled repeatedly that made in this place was curious enough to inquire as to the brand used and the method of preparation. He found that every cup of coffee furnished there was made and for years had been made by one person, a little widow called Joe for short. She began first in the establishment as a laundress, then was promoted to coffee maker. She does nothing but brew the amber liquid which has become noted. Day in and day out the pleasant faced little woman stands at her coffee urn, a genuine artist in her line. She must be happy if she knows how well the customers of the establishment appreciate her skill.

Oddly enough, at the same restaurant there is a woman bartender. She is a young woman still, but she, too, has been in the service of the firm and given satisfaction wherever she was set to work ever since she was a girl in short dresses. When a diner calls for any vinous, malt or spirituous liquor with his food, it is swiftly prepared by this young woman, who stands behind a screen door.

I confess I have never sampled any of her drinks, but if they are as good as Mme. Joe's coffee they must be unsurpassed.

These three women took the task that lay nearest them, the work they knew how to do, and performed it so well that they raised it to an art.

PROMOTE HARMONY.

Proposed to Have a Republican Demonstration, at Columbus.

WAS WON IN HOUSE,

And Foraker Ticket Won in Senate, Result of the Caucus, Saturday Night—The Defeated Price to Be Chairman of Judiciary Committee.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—The Republican caucus Saturday night nominated the Foraker ticket for the senate and the Hanna ticket for the house. The contest was continued yesterday on the same lines over the makeup of the standing committees, and it is evident that the chairmanships and preferred places will go the same way as the offices. Price, who was defeated for speaker by McKinnon, will be shown consideration as chairman of the judiciary committee, and the chairmanship of one of the committees on municipal affairs, in deference to George B. Cox, will go to some member from Cincinnati, but the courtesy will not be extended further. The senate committees are being apportioned by a special committee on the lines of the Republican caucus, with the Democrats co-operating.

As the liquor associations threw their influence to Price, that interest is now attempting a fusion of the Democrats with such Republicans as are opposed to local bills.

Senator Foraker is not expected here until next week, when all the committees will be made up. It is supposed, therefore, to have a demonstration in the interest of harmony. Tuesday of next week, the two houses will vote separately for United States senator and the next day, in joint session, they will declare the result. Then Foraker is expected to make a speech of acceptance. As he was endorsed by resolution at the last state convention for re-election the joint senatorial caucus this week will be merely a formal affair.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson, who came here Saturday with the Cuyahoga delegation to attend the opening of the legislature, has returned to Cleveland to meet William J. Bryan there.

FOR THE MCKINLEY ARCH.

A Bill Drafted to Be Introduced in Congress This Week.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The William McKinley National Memorial Arch Association has drafted the following bill, which will be introduced in congress this week and supported by a petition signed by the members of the association and also the members of the McKinley National Memorial Association, formed to erect a monument in Canton, to which the arch association yielded the field of popular subscription.

A bill to provide a commission to select a site and secure plans for a memorial arch in honor of William McKinley, late president of the United States, to be erected in the District of Columbia.

Be it enacted, etc., that the chairman of the joint committee on the library, the secretary of state, and the secretary of war, be and are hereby created a commission to select a site and secure plans and designs for a memorial arch in honor of William McKinley, late president of the United States.

Sec. 2. That said commission is authorized to select any unoccupied land belonging to the United States, in the District of Columbia, except the grounds of the capitol and the library of congress, on which to erect the said memorial arch.

Sec. 3. That said commission is authorized and required to obtain, by any form of competition which may seem advisable, plans, specifications, and models for said memorial, provided for in section 1, and may pay for the same to competing artists not exceeding $25,000, which sum is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. The said commission may select any of the plans, specifications or models that it may prefer or any part of them.

Sec. 4. That as soon as practicable after the selections authorized by sections 2 and 3 are made, said commission shall report its action to the congress of the United States.

city, in a badly disabled condition. The steamer George W. Elder, from Portland, reports that she passed the Max Sunday morning, in tow of the steamer Acme and the United States revenue cutter McCulloch, 18 miles northwest of Point Reyes. The Max's bowsprit was carried away and her bow was stove in, both above and below the water line. Her water-tight compartments alone were keeping her afloat. Ninety-two survivors of the Walla Walla arrived here Sunday from Eureka on the steamer Pomona. There is still some discrepancy in the list of dead and missing. This discrepancy is due to the fact that several passengers boarded the vessel just as she was leaving port. Others who were traveling second class gave assumed names in order to hide their identity. By striking out what are possible duplicates the number of lost stands at 42, classed as follows: Known dead, 9; missing, passengers, 13; crew, 20.

42 Dead or Missing. One life raft is unaccounted for, and it is feared that all the missing are lost.

Rev. Henry Erickson, who was among the six survivors brought to this city by the steamer Nome City, Saturday night, is at the hospital, a physical and almost a mental wreck. His wife and three children are among the dead and missing.

Father and son floated around for some time and finally were picked up by the life raft. The boy was too weak to stand the exposure. A few hours later he died in his father's arms, and after the heartbroken man had bowed his head in silent prayer the body was consigned to the waves. It is thought Rev. Erickson will recover from the terrible effects of the exposure.

Boston, Jan. 6.—The announcement was made Sunday by Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, D. Bishop Brent made the announcement in a sermon which he made Sunday morning. It is proposed to use the income from an endowment fund for the maintenance of a staff of assistants which the bishop hopes to take with him when he leaves, early in the spring, for Manila.

MISS STONE'S CAPTORS FORCED

Turks Hostile to Them—Rumors of American Woman's Release Quite Unfounded.

Constantinople, Jan. 6.—The news that the brigands holding Miss Stone captive are being hustled by the inhabitants of the Turkish territory, in which they are said to be in hiding, has created considerable sensation here. A deadly feud is said to subsist between the leaders of the hostile bands, some of whom are reported to have deserted and are attempting to re-enter Bulgaria. Much anxiety is felt here with regard to the outcome of these developments.

The American legation here has not yet received news from M. Garguilo, the dragoman of the legation (who left Salonika for the interior the latter part of last month with the purpose of meeting Miss Stone's captors). Members of the legation say the rumors of Miss Stone's release are quite unfounded. No direct news has been received from the American captive since Nov. 13, the date of the last letter from Miss Stone to Mr. Dickinson, consul general at Constantinople, who was then acting as diplomatic agent of the United States at Sofia.

WARRING ON REBELS.

BELL CONDUCTS VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN IN BATANGAS.

Conditions on Samar Unsatisfactory. Civil Authorities Declare Leyte Peaceful—Other Points.

Manila, Jan. 6.—General J. Franklin Bell is conducting a vigorous campaign in Batangas province. Every available soldier is in the field. The columns under the command of Colonels Wain and Dougherty are doing excellent work and driving the rumpuses in all directions. A number of the latter are meeting to Tayabas province, where the native constabulary are rendering valuable assistance in capturing men and rines.

The arrest of members of the wealthy Lopez family and the confiscation of their steamers and rice, as well as the arrest of three members of the religious corporations, who were known to be insurgents of the insurrection, has had an excellent effect upon the natives.

Conditions in the island of Samar are still unsatisfactory, owing to the difficulty of moving the insurgents. Captain Schoenei, of the Ninth infantry (who was wounded in a severe hand-to-hand fight last month at Dapdap, Samar island, between 15 men of Company E, of his regiment, and a large force of bolomen), has practically recovered from the effects of his wound. In an official report of the encounter in which Captain Schoenei was hurt, it is said that Schoenei killed three men before he received his wound and that the remnants of the detachment of 18 men with him were saved by his personal courage and daring.

The civil authorities say that the island of Leyte is now perfectly peaceful. On the other hand, the military authorities consider Leyte to be dangerous on account of its proximity to Samar, it for no other reason.

Last Friday Major Albert L. Myer, of the Eleventh infantry, captured quite an extensive arsenal and plant for the making of cartridges at Ormoc, on the northwest coast of Leyte. Major Myer also captured another powder factory, large quantities of ammunition, four cannon and several rifles.

Major Henry T. Allen (ex-governor of the island of Leyte, now on a tour of inspection through that island and Mindoro), reported that the majority of the signal corps wires on Leyte had been cut and that this action was evidently preconcerted.

Captain Pitcher reports that he is rapidly ridding the island of Mindoro of insurgents.

The constabulary of Tarlac, Luzon, have captured a number of members of the Filipino secret society called the "Guardia de Honor." The prisoners intended moving to the island of Polillo (off the east coast of Luzon), where they expected to be free of American interference, temporarily at least, and where they had decided to resist American invasion to the uttermost. Twenty members of the "Guardia de Honor" are charged with sedition.

CITIZENS TO PATROL.

Denver People Organize Against Criminals—Due to Brutal Crimes Committed.

Denver, Jan. 6.—At a mass meeting of citizens here a committee of safety was organized as a protection against criminals with which the city has been infested for the past year or more. The streets will be patrolled at night by armed citizens, and any person who may fail to give a satisfactory reason for being in the streets will be arrested. This action has been made necessary in the opinion of the citizens by criminal assaults on women, holdups and robberies, which have been of almost daily occurrence. Magistrates will be urged to impose the severest penalties allowed by law to check the prevalence of these crimes.

The action was incited by the murder of 14-year-old Harold Fridborn and an assault on his sister on New Year's night.

NEW POLICE HEAD.

The Man Who Will Govern Greater New York's Bluecoats.

If to be a trained soldier, a successful disciplinarian, an experienced man of affairs and a conscientious public servant counts for anything, then Greater New York is going to have at the head of its police force the best man it ever had. Colonel John Nelson Partridge, Mayor Low's appointee for this position, has a public and private record that any individual might well be proud of. It has long been contended that the ideal police commissioner should be an army officer of thorough military training, and such a man is Colonel Partridge.

He was born in Massachusetts sixty-two years ago, but looks much younger. He is a soldier, a veteran of the civil war, has been a colonel of a regiment of the national guard and has had experience in managing important departments of municipal governments. In the war Colonel Partridge served as lieutenant and captain and while leading his company in the battle of Drury's Bluff was wounded, but not seriously. Contracting rheumatism in the trenches about Petersburg, he was mustered out of the service in 1864. In 1869 he joined the Twenty-third regiment, N. G. N. Y., and rose from a lieutenant to a colonel.

Colonel Partridge has served as fire commissioner and also police commissioner of Brooklyn. As head of the police department he carried out several reforms. Among other things he established a civil service and a river patrol system, the latter system stamping out river piracy to a great extent. He has been the New York state superintendent of public works and has proved a good administrator.

The new police commissioner for Greater New York is a widower and has one grown son, Nelson Partridge, who lives in Colorado Springs. He has distinguished family connections on every side, and the family has records of more than 300 ancestors, all born in Massachusetts or Connecticut. When not in Albany, he lives with his mother in Brooklyn.

PROMOTE HARMONY.

HAVE WON IN HOUSE.

And Foraker Ticket Won in Senate, Result of the Caucus, Saturday Night—The Defeated Price to Be Chairman of Judiciary Committee.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—The Republican caucus Saturday night nominated the Foraker ticket for the senate and the Hanna ticket for the house. The contest was continued yesterday on the same lines over the makeup of the standing committees, and it is evident that the chairmanships and preferred places will go the same way as the offices. Price, who was defeated by McKinney, will be chairman of the judiciary committee, and the chairmanship of one of the committees on municipal affairs, in deference to George B. Cox, will go to some member from Cincinnati, but the courtesy will not be extended further. The senate committees are being appointed by a special committee on the lines of the Republican caucus, with the Democrats co-operating.

As the liquor associations threw their influence to Price, that interest is now attempting a fusion of the Democrats with such Republicans as are opposed to local bills. Senator Foraker is not expected here until next week, when all the committees will be made up. It is supposed, therefore, to have a demonstration in the interest of harmony. On Tuesday of next week, the two houses will vote separately for United States senator and the next day, in joint session, they will declare the result. Then Foraker is expected to make a speech of acceptance. As he was endorsed by resolution at the last state convention for re-election the joint senatorial caucus this week will be merely a formal affair.

Mayor Tom L. Johnson, who came here Saturday with the Cuyahoga delegation to attend the opening of the legislature, has returned to Cleveland to meet William J. Bryan there.

FOR THE MCKINLEY ARCH.

A Bill Drafted to Be Introduced in Congress This Week.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The William McKinley National Memorial Arch association has drafted the following bill, which will be introduced in congress this week and supported by a petition signed by the members of the association and also the members of the McKinley National Memorial association, located to erect a monument in Canton, to which the arch association yielded the field of popular subscription.

A bill to provide a commission to select a site and secure plans for a memorial arch in honor of William McKinley, late president of the United States, to be erected in the District of Columbia.

Be it enacted, etc., that the chairman of the joint committee on the library, the secretary of state, and the secretary of war, be and are hereby created a commission to select a site and secure plans and designs for a memorial arch in honor of William McKinley, late president of the United States.

Sec. 2. That said commission is authorized to select any unoccupied land belonging to the United States, in the District of Columbia, except the grounds of the capitol and the library of congress, on which to erect the said memorial arch.

Sec. 3. That said commission is authorized and required to obtain, by any form of competition which may seem advisable, plans, specifications, and models for said memorial, provided for in section 1, and may pay for the same to competing artists not exceeding $25,000, which sum is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. The said commission may select any of the plans, specifications or models that it may prefer or any part of them.

Sec. 4. That as soon as practicable after the selections authorized by sections 2 and 3 are made, said commission shall report its action to the congress of the United States.

city, in a badly disabled condition. The steamer George W. Elder, from Portland, reports that she passed the Max Sunday morning, in tow of the steamer Acme and the United States revenue cutter McCulloch, 18 miles northwest of Point Reyes. The Max's bowsprit was carried away and her bow was stove in, both above and below the water line. Her water-tight compartments alone were keeping her afloat. Ninety-two survivors of the Walla Walla arrived here Sunday from Eureka on the steamer Pomona. There is still some discrepancy in the list of dead and missing. This discrepancy is due to the fact that several passengers boarded the vessel just as she was leaving port. Others who were traveling second class gave assumed names in order to hide their identity. By striking out what are possible duplicates the number of lost stands at 42, classed as follows: Known dead, 9; missing, passengers, 13; crew, 20.

42 Dead or Missing.

One life raft is unaccounted for, and it is feared that all the missing are lost.

Rev. Henry Erickson, who was among the six survivors brought to this city by the steamer Nome City, Saturday night, is at the hospital, a physical and almost a mental wreck. His wife and three children are among the dead and missing.

Father and son floated around for some time and finally were picked up by the life raft. The boy was too weak to stand the exposure. A few hours later he died in his father's arms, and after the heartbroken man had bowed his head in silent prayer the body was consigned to the waves. It is thought Rev. Erickson will recover from the terrible effects of the exposure.

Boston, Jan. 6.—The announcement was made Sunday by Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, D. Bishop Brent made the announcement in a sermon which he made Sunday morning. It is proposed to use the income from an endowment fund for the maintenance of a staff of assistants which the bishop hopes to take with him when he leaves, early in the spring, for Manila.

MISS STONE'S CAPTORS FORCED

Turks Hostile to Them—Rumors of American Woman's Release Quite Unfounded.

Constantinople, Jan. 6.—The news that the brigands holding Miss Stone captive are being hustled by the inhabitants of the Turkish territory, in which they are said to be in hiding, has created considerable sensation here. A deadly feud is said to subsist between the leaders of the hostile bands, some of whom are reported to have deserted and are attempting to re-enter Bulgaria. Much anxiety is felt here with regard to the outcome of these developments.

The American legation here has not yet received news from M. Gargulio, the dragoman of the legation (who left Salonika for the interior the latter part of last month with the purpose of meeting Miss Stone's captors). Members of the legation say the rumors of Miss Stone's release are quite unfounded. No direct news has been received from the American captive since Nov. 13, the date of the last letter from Miss Stone to Mr. Dickinson, consul general at Constantinople, who was then acting as diplomatic agent of the United States at Soha.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

William Lyth's Funeral—The funeral of William Lyth, who died Saturday, will be held on Tuesday at 2 o'clock from St. Stephen's Episcopal church.

Series of Sermons—Next Sunday evening Rev. Edwin Weary will begin a very interesting series of sermons upon the following subjects: "What Am I?" "Where Am I?" "Whither Am I Going?"

Friendly Society Meeting—The Girls' Friendly Society of the Episcopal church will hold special services this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The society will be addressed by Rev. Edwin Weary.

Removed to Riverview—The remains of Mrs. John Larkins were removed from the old cemetery to Riverview today. Mr. Larkins was a former East Liverpool lawyer, now a resident of San Francisco.

Ladies' Auxiliary Meeting—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will meet at the association rooms tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is looked for, as arrangements for the coming of the Fadettes' orchestra are to be on the tapis, as also some other important business.

Robbed at a Dance—A Beaver Falls paper contains a long account about the supposed theft of a hat belonging to an East Liverpool lady at a dance in Beaver Falls. It is said an arrest may follow, although the East Liverpool young woman recovered her hat. Other articles were missed from the hat.

Police Aid Asked—A communication has been received at the mayor's office asking the police to assist in locating Walter F. Bolger, who disappeared from his home at Yonkers, N. Y., several weeks ago and who is thought to have come to Ohio. The boy is 18 years of age and ran away from home without any known cause.

One Sunday Arrest—A single culprit was taken into the police fold Sunday. The unfortunate was James McCormick, who was arrested in the East End by Officer John Spence and taken to jail in the patrol on a charge of intoxication. He pleaded guilty this morning and paid a fine of $2 and costs. There were no arrests Saturday night.

Interesting Services—Services at the McKinley avenue Union chapel last evening were immensely interesting. E. Kelsey Bennett, of the First M. P. church, addressed the congregation and made a good impression. The supply committee of the chapel has a treat in store for the members of the little flock, having secured the services of an individual whom the congregation has never before had the pleasure of listening to.

Watch and wait for our announcement next week. It will pay you.

LEONARD IN POSSESSION

Delay in Swearing in the Subordinates of the New Sheriff.

Lisbon, January 6.—(Special)—The first Democratic sheriff in half a century is now in charge of the sheriff's office. Sheriff Noragon turned the office over to Charles P. Leonard at 1 o'clock today. The absence of Judge Hole delayed the ceremonies till then. Clerk McNutt administered the oath to Deputies D. A. Davidson and Lawrence Allison. Davidson will be office man and Allison turnkey. Sheriff Noragon will sell his livery stable in the spring. Deputy Chris Bick has been appointed by the commissioners night watchman at the court house. Two years hence, he says, he will run for sheriff. He has been a popular deputy seven years.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Of Great Interest at the M. E. Church. Half a Dozen New Members.

The interest in the revival services at the First M. E. church reached a culminating point yesterday. Both morning and evening unusually large congregations were present. At the evening service in particular, the church was filled, both upstairs and down. It was a day filled with spiritual enthusiasm.

A half dozen new members were added to the church, and the prospects are excellent for a continuance of the good work.

Price of Justice Raised.

Mayor Davidson announces that hereafter all persons arrested for drunkenness on Sunday will be fined $2 and costs, at least. Heretofore the "boozers" usually got off with $1 and costs.

Twain and the Rivermen.

Mark Twain once told to a party of friends the following story on himself: On one occasion when he started on a trip down the Mississippi river on a flatboat he was advised never to answer the questions asked by rivermen on other boats and never to bandy words with them, as he would be sure always to come out second best. He followed the advice religiously for a time, but one day he thought he saw a chance to get the better of a riverman who called out: "Hey, thar, what yer loaded with?" "Jackasses. Don't you want to come aboard?" yelled back Twain. "That's what I reckoned, seein' as how they let their biggest donkey hev their run of the deck!" came back Twain made a dive below as all the rivermen in the neighborhood set up a derisive laugh at his expense.

Got His Money.

When King Edward VII. was an undergraduate at Oxford, he was a great huntsman, and few men could beat him across country. On one occasion his royal highness and some other riders galloped into a farmyard by way of a short cut. The farmer, a sturdy yeoman, closed the gates and told the huntsmen they must pay £1 apiece for trespass.

One of the gentlemen smiled indulgently at the rustic and said, "But, my good man, this is the Prince of Wales." The good man was in no wise abashed and retorted, "Prince or no prince, I'll have my money." And he got it.

LITTLE LEAKS.

What They May Lead to and How They May Be Stopped.

It is possible to lose much by little. A classic case is that of the royal granary which was depleted of its stores by a succession of "one rat came and took one grain away, and another rat came and took another grain away." So fortunes are dissipated, and reputations are destroyed, and health is ruined and character itself lost—by little extravagances, little indiscretions, little negligences, little obliquities.

Benjamin Franklin was a great economist not alone of money, but of time. He said, "To teach a young man to shave himself is as good as to give him a purse of gold." He had reference to the minutes as well as the dimes it costs to patronize the barber.

Elihu Burritt stopped the leak in his time and taught himself a dozen languages. Gladstone was equally wise, for he read Plato in his carriage between Carleton terrace and the parliamentary buildings.

A prosperous man ascribed his success in business to his habit of permitting no particle of material to be unproductive. He experimented and elaborated until he found a method of disposing profitably of every atom left over.

There is a man in New York who has in bank a goodly sum of money which he calls his "tis but fund." When tempted to needless expenditure by the specious plea, "Tis but a nickel or a quarter or a dollar," he denies himself and drops the amount he would have spent into a portable bank, which is filled with amazing rapidity. That is one way to stop a leak.

More serious than any prudential matter are the little leaks in life by which vital energy is squandered and moral force is diminished, imperceptibly it may be, through what we sometimes regard as inconsequential acts. Lack of order in our methods of labor, indifference to the "minor morals" of hygiene and the "major morals" of honesty and truth, the practical repudiation of personal responsibility, the neglect of duties which arise from our ethical and religious nature—these are the leaks which we must stop or be bankrupt in the world's eyes and in God's.—Saturday Evening Post.

FISH AS FOOD.

The Best Kinds to Eat and the Way to Cook Them.

Fish constitutes one of the most valuable articles of diet for mankind, although the popular notion that it is a good brain food because of the phosphorus it contains is incorrect. As a matter of fact fish meat in general contains less phosphorus than most kinds of flesh meat. But it is good for the brain indirectly, for it is less stimulating than flesh meat, is usually digested more easily and causes the production in the system of fewer of the waste products which, if not at once eliminated, act injuriously upon the delicate nervous system.

The last mentioned property is one which renders fish of especial value in the diet of persons suffering from Bright's disease and other affections of the kidneys, from rheumatism, gout, and all those diseases which many physicians regard as the result of excessive formation or retention of uric acid. For convalescents also it is most useful, as it supplies a fair amount of nutritive material in palatable form, with a minimum of tax on the digestive organs.

Among the most nourishing and at the same time digestible fish are bluefish, shad, red snapper, fresh codfish, whitefish, striped bass, halibut and flounders. And equally nutritious, although perhaps less digestible, are brook trout, lake trout, salmon, mackerel and eels. Roe is not particularly nutritious, but it is agreeable to the taste and fairly digestible.

The mode of preparation has much to do with the digestibility of fish, as it has with that of all other foods. Boiling and broiling are better modes of cooking than frying.

The chief objection to fish is its proneness to decomposition, even when kept on ice. It may be free from any taste or odor, and yet it may have undergone changes which make it poisonous. Some fish are poisonous in themselves, containing in the natural state some substance which will cause alarming symptoms, or even death, if eaten. With some persons fish in any form does not agree, causing digestive disorders or skin eruptions. This is notably true of lobsters and crabs.

19TH YEAR. NO. 4.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, JANUARY 6, 1902.

TWO CENTS.

COLUMBIANA COUNTY CUTS A BIG FIGURE POLITICALLY

Its Influence Patent in Deciding Contests at the State Capital.

HELPED MR. M'KINNON TO WIN

Leadership of Hon. I. B. Cameron Had Much to Do With Results.

F. B. ARCHER WAS UNOPPOSED

As Senate President Pro Tem—Senator W. V. Blake Gets a Good Position—A Lisbon Man Also Lands a Plum.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 6.—Columbiana county occupies an important position in the political map of Ohio. The results of the caucus meeting of the majority members of the house and senate Saturday afternoon prove this fact beyond all doubt. The influence wielded from the county had a whole lot to do with the deciding of the contests.

Columbiana's support was swung for Representative McKinnon, of Ash-tabula county, who was selected for speaker of the house over Representative Price, of Athens, the Foraker-Cox candidate. Hanna, aided by the Daugherty following and others, organized the house; Foraker, aided by Cox and other interests, organized the senate. The senators split even, and there is glory enough to go all around with a goodly portion for Columbiana county.

The Columbiana county gentlemen who figured in the contests showed splendid generalship, and the manipulators of politics have a wholesome regard of their knowledge of the game. Columbiana had a hand in every contest of note, and was always on the winning side. The majority of the people of the county seemed to favor the candidacy of McKinnon for speaker, and Representatives Buell and Crist acquiesced in the wishes of their constituency by voting for him.

The part taken by Columbiana was largely under the direction of Hon. I. B. Cameron. Early in the fight his support was given McKinnon. The latter realizes the help he received from Columbiana had considerable to do with his success, and for this he is grateful. The presence of a delegation of Columbiana county people in Columbus during the closing hours of battle indicated the amount of interest felt in the outcome in the county. G. V. Sharp, of Salem, was the busiest man in town Friday and Saturday. He was an ardent worker for McKinnon and he is particularly pleased with the result.

Columbiana was almost, but not quite, a unit for McKinnon. From several sources came requests for the county's representatives to vote for Price, but they were not heeded. The Eighteenth district secured its share of the plums. When the house caucus opened Representative Pollock was made secretary and Representative Metzger was named for teller. Both gentlemen are from Stark. The speakership vote resulted: For W. S. McKinnon, 38; for Aaron E. Price, 33. Andrew G. Cummings, of Lorain, was selected by acclamation for speaker pro tem. Burgess L. McElroy, of Knox, won out easily for clerk over Speelman, of Marietta.

Senator Archer called the senate caucus to order, and upon his motion Senator Wilhelm, of Stark, was selected as chairman. The members got down to business without loss of time. Senator Connell, of Lisbon, in a very clever little speech, presented the name of his colleague, Senator Archer, for the position of president pro tem of the senate. Senator Wirt, of Youngstown, moved the suspension of the rules in order that the selection of Archer be made by acclamation, and this was done. Senator Wirt's act was magnanimous, as he had been regarded as an opponent of Senator Archer. F. B. Scobie of Miami county, defeated William Uhl, of Cleveland, for clerk by a vote of 14 to 7.

The name of Hon. W. V. Blake, of East Liverpool, was presented by Senator Connell for the position of engrossing clerk of the senate. On motion by Senator Wirt the rules were suspended and Mr. Blake selected by acclamation. L. S. Pardee, at one time a resident of East Liverpool, now of Akron, was selected for the position of recording clerk. Richard Lynch, of Youngstown, colored, was chosen for enrolling clerk. B. F. Sullivan, of Alliance, was nominated for fourth assistant sergeant-at-arms. The caucus nominees will be confirmed today.

One of the surprises was the defeat of Charles O. Silver, of Alliance, for journal clerk of the house. The position went to C. L. Williams, of Steubenville. The eloquent speech made by Representative Duvall, of Jefferson county, in submitting Williams' name is what turned the trick. The pages, stenographers, porters and minor clerkship jobs will be filled today.

Senators Archer and Connell are members of a committee which will make these appointments for the senate. G. Clinton Baxley, of Lisbon, will be made clerk to the senate judiciary committee.

BADLY SCARED BY A MAD DOG

NORTHSIDE RESIDENTS TERRIFIED BY A SAVAGE ANIMAL.

The Beast Dispatched After Much Excitement—Fifth Street People Frightened.

Residents of the Northside were visited by a mad dog this morning, and while, so far as could be learned, no one was bitten, a number of people were badly frightened.

The dog was a large black animal of the Newfoundland breed, and there seems to be no doubt that it was mad, as it manifested all the symptoms. The dog was noticed on the Calcutta road near Grant street, and was making its way toward Calcutta.

When at a point near the watering trough the beast was met by a party of school children. They were badly frightened, but they succeeded in avoiding the dog without being bitten.

Roy Shingleton and another man secured guns and the dog was dispatched without delay. Assisted by William Smith the men cremated the animal.

Another dog, a small black one, the owner of which could not be found, also caused some excitement on Fifth street yesterday morning because of its peculiar actions which aroused a suspicion that it was afflicted with rabies.

The animal made no effort to attack anybody, however, and finally disappeared into an alley.

FEARED TO GO TO BED

Lisbon Wife, Who Seeks Divorce, Says Her Husband Threatened to Kill Her.

Lisbon, January 6.—(Special)—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Burnip, of Lisbon, has brought suit for divorce from James Burnip. The bill of particulars states that the marriage occurred in Sunderland, England, in 1870. Two children resulted from the union. For a number of years the husband has been idle and dissipated, the wife being compelled to seek the aid of relatives. In 1897 she left him because of alleged cruelties.

The affiant states that she feared to go to bed because he threatened to kill her in her sleep.

The whereabouts of Burnip are unknown, but it is presumed that he is in England.

GRAND BEGINNING

Found With Head Severed. Alliance, January 6.—The dead body of an unknown man apparently about 20 years old was found lying beside the Ft. Wayne railroad track a mile east of here yesterday. The head was severed from the trunk and was found in an adjoining field about 50 feet distant from the body.

FINISHED UP ITS BUSINESS

Executive Board of the N. B. of O. P. Closed Its Session.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

On the Request of Kilnmen, Dippers, Saggermakers And Oddmen of Sebring—They Will Be Allowed to Have a Local.

The national executive board of the N. B. of O. P. finished up its business at about 7 o'clock Saturday evening, and the Trenton members left for their homes the same night. Vice President F. H. Hutchins did not arrive from the east until noon Saturday and remained in this city until last night.

But few of the many questions before the board were given to the public. The most important, however, was the granting of the request of the kilnmen, dippers, saggermakers and oddmen of Sebring to form a separate local. A similar plea came from Ford City, but in their case it was refused.

It was the sense of the board that the stand taken by the printers at the Vodrey pottery, in which they refuse to perform a certain class of work at the rate proposed, was right. The board is of the opinion that the firm is violating the uniform printing list. A recommendation was made to the national trustees that another suite of rooms be secured for the national officers, as the present quarters have been found inadequate to meet the demands. The meeting was a harmonious one.

LOVE FOUND A WAY

Andrew Weybrecht, of Alliance, Secures a License to Wed After Many Difficulties.

Canton, January 6.—Andrew Weybrecht, of Alliance, appeared at the office of Probate Judge Augst Saturday afternoon and made application for a license to marry Miss Dollie Barnes, of the same city. He gave his age as 30 years, and his business as merchant. Her age is given at 26 and her occupation as that of housekeeper.

This is the culmination of what promised to be a very sensational case in the courts. Colonel C. C. Weybrecht and other members of the family made vigorous efforts to prevent the marriage taking place, even resorting to having Andrew declared an imbecile. The case was compromised, the guardianship dissolved and the couple have taken early advantage of their opportunities to be made one.

WATER PIPE BURST

Portion of the Stevenson Building Deluged, Considerable Damage Resulting.

A water pipe on the second floor of the Stevenson building, at the corner of Fifth and Market streets, burst last evening. The halls were badly flooded before the break was discovered and the rear portion of the room occupied by "The Fair" store was deluged, causing considerable damage.

Nobody happened to be in the part of the building where the defective pipe was located at the time it burst and the water flowed unchecked for several hours. Dr. J. M. Saint's office was also flooded, though no great damage resulted.

CONTAGION DISAPPEARING

Only One Home in the City is at the Present Time Under Quarantine.

Sanitary Officer Burgess removed the quarantine Saturday afternoon from the homes of Samuel Ammons, Pennsylvania avenue, East End, and James Fulton, Erie street, a child of each which had been suffering from the diphtheria, having recovered.

Only one case of contagion is now prevalent in the city, that of the child of William Winegartner, of Church alley, who has been undergoing a severe siege of diphtheria, but who is now rapidly improving.

Small Boy Shoots Sister. Steubenville, Jan. 6.—Sixteen-year-old Charlie Blaine pointed a 22-caliber pistol at his 14-year-old sister Vivian Saturday and exclaimed, "Money, or your life." He pulled the trigger and the bullet lodged in the little girl's head over the left eye, inflicting a wound from which she died.

HELPED TO SWELL THE CENSUS LIST

Between 150 and 200 Persons Added to This City's Population Sunday.

THEY CAME UP BY BOAT

With the Intention of Staying—Made Their Way to the East End And Found It Easy to Obtain Jobs of Work There.

As regards growth of population, Sunday was a record breaking period in East Liverpool. Between 150 and 200 persons landed here by boat, and all are reported to have secured jobs in the East End.

When the steamer Kanawha tied up to the wharf last evening about 200 persons were standing on the wharf awaiting her arrival. Not for years did a boat bring as many persons to this city as did the Kanawha yesterday.

For almost half an hour there was a steady stream of passengers passing from the packet through the wharf boat to the wharf, where friends were in waiting.

Inquiry from the clerk of the Kanawha revealed the fact that 127 passengers got off the boat at this landing, including several families who came up the river to make East Liverpool their home. These passengers began to get on the boat at Red House, where a party of eight paid their fare to this city. At almost every landing East Liverpool passengers were taken, and on Saturday night this boat had 280 passengers on board.

There were 42 passengers on the Ben Hur from the Big Sandy bottoms in "Old Kaintuck," who landed Sunday morning at the East Liverpool wharf. Each man had a grip and took a car for the East End.

They had heard that there was abundance of work at the American sewer pipe works, and they directed their course thither. A number of them slept about the yards over night and went to work this morning. The Kanawha contingent got jobs at Laughlin No. 2.

IMPORTANT MATTERS

Will Be Up for Consideration at Official Meetings to Be Held Tonight.

There will be more important official meetings held in Wellsville tonight than for many months. The city council will have before it a vast amount of business, a part of which will be the taking of decisive action on the 24-minute schedule now in operation on the street car line. One of the councilmen has stated that he would do all in his power to have the old schedule reinstated, and if need be to require the street railway company to furnish an eight-minute schedule.

The board of trade will consummate the deal which will result in the arrival of a new manufacturing concern in the city.

The board of education will accept the resignation tendered by Miss Nan Stevenson and appoint a teacher to fill the vacancy.

M'KINLEY MEMORIAL

Its Site at Canton a Spot of Remarkable Natural Beauty.

Canton, January 6.—The mound where the body of William McKinley will eventually lie and above which will be reared the memorial of the people of the United States is in the farthest section of Westlawn cemetery. Without question it is the most beautiful spot there. Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, one of the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial association, which is raising the fund for the memorial tomb, said, when he first beheld it, that it was "the finest spot out of doors in all the world."

The mound rises in a gentle slope about 75 feet from the little stream that lies at its feet and curves in a similar graceful sweep to the east. A carriage road lies at its base at the edge of the water and another one mounts the hill and circles it at the back. It is purposed to use about five acres of the mound—its very best part, in fact—which will give ample room for the stately tomb that will be erected and for the spread of green-sward to relieve and soften it.

Until the memorial tomb is built,

BUNCO MAN UNSUCCESSFUL IN HIS EFFORTS TO DEFRAUD

the body of William McKinley will lie is the public receiving vault, where it was placed on September 18, the day of the funeral. The massive coffin rests as it was placed there last September, encircled by the folds of the stars and stripes. This vault is a simple but effective bit of mortuary architecture. It was a gift to Westlawn cemetery a number of years ago by Mrs. Frank Mason Werts, of Canton, in honor of her husband. It is of Romanesque design, constructed of rock-faced and dressed Massillon sandstone at a cost of $5,000, and is built into the hillside. Night and day it is guarded by a detail of United States soldiers, 45 in number.

PROPOSES A SALE OF HOMELESS WAIFS

SALVATION ARMY CAPTAIN DUM-FOUNDS YOUNGSTOWN PEOPLE.

Declares His Intention to Sell Ten Children at Auction—Threats Being Made.

Youngstown, Jan. 6.—A tremendous stir has been created in this city by the announcement of Captain F. A. McDiarmid, of the Salvation Army, that he proposes to sell at auction 10 homeless children to the highest bidder.

The sale is to take place at the Park theater next Sunday night, and a coat of tar and feathers is one of the mildest forms of punishment that has been suggested for the promoter of the scheme.

The picture of 10 children, whose only crime is poverty, being dragged screaming to the footlights and knocked off to the highest bidder has not made a pronounced hit with the public and particularly with those whose duty it is to look after public charities.

Demands that have been made of the captain to explain his ante-bellum plans are being scoffed at, and regardless of dire threats being made by incensed citizens he declares positively that the auction will come off at the time and place announced.

The proposed venture has reached the ears of the humane society and that body proposes to take summary steps to stop it.

REBUILDING A RAILROAD

Extensive Improvements to Be Made By the W. & L. E. in Jefferson County.

Steubenville, January 6.—Plans for extensive improvement on the W. & L. E. are now in the hands of Chief Engineer Newhall and as soon as work on the Toledo division is completed a couple hundred men will be put to work on the line to practically rebuild it to the Ohio river. A year ago great improvements to the road were made, but the requirements of the Wabash people are such that they were small compared to what will be made the present year. The work of relaying the pipe line with new steel from Massillon to Toledo, which was begun as the preparatory step toward rebuilding the entire line, when it was purchased by the Wabash, will be completed in a few weeks and the changes on the road from Massillon to this city will then be made. In the lower end of Jefferson county the biggest changes will be made, as the company will use its property to build sidings to handle the large coal trains that carry coal from the Jefferson county mines.

The line when rebuilt will be as good as any in the country, and it is the intention of the new owners to bring its physical condition up to such a standard that the fast Wabash express trains can average 50 miles an hour with perfect safety between Toledo and the Ohio river.

THROWN FROM A CAR

Joseph Farmer, of This City Was Seriously Hurt at Akron.

Joseph Farmer, who was brought to his home in this city from Akron Saturday, is slowly recovering from the effects of injuries received in that city last week.

Farmer had left East Akron for the city proper intending to depart for East Liverpool the same day. He was standing on the rear platform of the car when a collision occurred. Farmer was thrown violently to the pavement, alighting upon his head. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the city hospital.

The gash in his head was several inches in length and quite deep.

Local Business Men Among the Intended Victims of the Sharper.

CLAIMED TO BE AN ENGINEER

And Said He Had Been Sent Here By the Government to Build River Dam.

BARGAINED WITH MERCHANTS

For the Purchase of Furniture, Etc., But When Pressed for Money He Skipped Out—Went to Pittsburgh, Where He Had Better Success.

A number of local merchants, whose experiences in past years have taught them to use caution in their business dealings with strangers, are congratulating themselves on the fact that they foiled a swindler who unwittingly tried to play them for easy victims.

The sharper, whose age was about 45, appeared in East Liverpool several days ago and obtained a room and boarding at the home of Mrs. Katie Seitz, whose husband conducts a saloon at the corner of Union and Second streets. He gave the name of William Werner and claimed to be a government surveyor sent here to make surveys for the Ohio river dam projected at this point.

Aside from being well dressed the stranger wore gold glasses, sported considerable jewelry and had the appearance of being a professional man. His conduct was such as to create no suspicion and his story concerning the proposed dam was taken for granted without question.

He occupied the room at the Seitz home just one night and the following morning went to the Union planing mill, where he left an order for a large drafting table. Later he presented himself at the Milligan Hardware company's store, where he ordered a lamp and a lot of expensive tools.

Securing the consent of Mrs. Seitz to accompany him, Werner on the same morning went to Frank Crook's furniture store, where he left an order for about $70 worth of furniture. In the meantime he had found time to call on John Rigot, proprietor of a saloon on East Market street, to whom he made known his business. He tried to borrow some money from Rigot, but was unsuccessful, so far as known positively.

However, it is claimed that Werner had dealings of some kind with Rigot for the reason that on the afternoon on which they first met, Rigot called at the Seitz home in search of the stranger, of whom he demanded money.

This move resulted in the disclosure of Werner's intentions. He insisted, however, that he had money in the First National bank and asked Mrs. Seitz to go with him until he drew it. She did so, but on their arrival at the bank it was found that Werner did not have a penny on deposit there. He made a vain effort to get a loan, but as he offered no security, was unsuccessful.

On leaving the bank the schemer started off in great haste, leaving Mrs. Seitz on the sidewalk. He has not been seen since by any of his intended victims here, but a Pittsburgh paper of Saturday has an account of one of the tricks in that city by which he swindled Mrs. Mary Krupp, proprietress of a boarding house at 3417 Penn avenue, out of $16.

Werner stopped at the woman's house on New Year's day, and the banks being closed, he asked her if she could loan him $16, exhibiting a note for $450, drawn on the First National bank of East Liverpool. She gave him the cash on the strength of the note, and the following day Werner left to get his note turned into money, but never came back.

Inquiry at the bank here on which the note was drawn developed the fact that it was bogus. The officials think the man is of weak mind. It is not known that he succeeded in swindling anybody here, excepting Mrs. Seitz, for a small board bill, and possibly John Rigot. The merchants of whom he tried to make purchases held their goods because there was no cash in sight.

EAST END

THE ICE BROKE

YOUNG LADY NEARLY DROWNED WHILE SKATING.

Miss Kate Wheatley Sank In Beaver Creek and Was Rescued With Difficulty.

About 15 young people went skating on Beaver creek yesterday afternoon. They were all from East Liverpool. One of the young ladies came near being drowned. She was Miss Kate Wheatley and she skated too near to an air hole near the railroad bridge pier.

Miss Wheatley found the ice breaking around her, and, although she is an expert skater, went down. Fortunately the water wasn't deep and she sank only to the head, although the water was deep enough for her to drown. There was a rush of friends to effect Miss Wheatley's rescue, and she was drawn from the water by Joseph Miller and a companion.

The accident came very nearly precipitating a score of persons into the deep water, as several persons walked on the ice and their weight would have precipitated the entire party had they not been warned back. Miss Wheatley's rare presence of mind saved her from drowning.

ARM IN SLING

And Face a Panorama of Patches. John Rinehart Gets a Bad Fall.

Misfortune befel John Rinehart, the undertaker, who was in the East End last evening. It was very dark when Mr. Rinehart descended from the Boydville Heights to Pennsylvania avenue. When he reached the street the first thing he stepped into was one of the East Liverpool street railway trenches. He scrambled up in an endeavor to reach a street car and fell into another hole, where he was knocked senseless and was in a state of coma for several hours, when he was brought around.

Mr. Rinehart was picked up by friends and brought to his down town home. He was able to be at his place of business this morning with his right arm in a sling and his face a panorama of patches.

Fire Quickly Put Out.

The East End fire department had a run to the residence of W. M. Jackson on Erie street at 9 a. m. today. It was a chimney blaze and garret fire. Before the blaze had made any headway, Captain Terrance and Fireman John Spence were on hand with extinguishers and the fire was promptly put out, with very little damage resulting. Opposite the same place a fire was narrowly averted. Plasterers had a fire in Henry Chambers' new house to dry mortar. The mortar box got on fire and hasty action prevented a blaze.

P. H. C. Lodge Meeting.

NO SETTLEMENT REACHED

Convention of Operators And Striking Miners at East Palestine Devoid of Result.

East Palestine, January 6.—(Special)—The conference which was held here Saturday by the mine owners of this district and the employees who have been on strike for several months, came to a close before any agreement could be reached.

Sessions were held in the afternoon and evening, but nothing whatever was accomplished to further the interests of either the miners or operators. It is probable that neither of the mines will be put into operation this winter, as the strikers are determined to hold out until their demands are ceded.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India, Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

FOUND A FORTUNE

WHERE IT HAD BEEN STORED FOR YEARS IN A VAULT.

Administrator of the Estate of a Stark County Man Makes a Wonderful Discovery.

Alliance, Jan. 6.—J. C. Klinger, of this city, who was recently appointed administrator of the estate of Philip Yoder, who died at Louisville last November, found $16,000 in gold and paper money in a safety deposit vault in Chicago, placed there by Yoder, where it had remained for years undisturbed.

Yoder had been employed as a section foreman for about 27 years in the Chicago yards, and being of a careful, saving disposition, he rented a box in a safety deposit vault and there stored his earnings. Having possession of the key to the vault, Klinger made a trip to Chicago to learn the extent of the estate.

Arriving in that city a few days ago he went to the vault, and unlocking the drawer was surprised to find in a large wallet paper currency to the amount of $11,000, which was so old that the bills crumbled in his hands when an attempt was made to smooth them out. There was also a belt such as formerly worn by prospectors, made of heavy canvas, and in this was found the sum of $5,000 in gold. The belt was so old that it could be separated with the thumb and finger.

There was also four $20 gold pieces—which by a request made in a letter left by the deceased are to be given to some friends of his in Chicago—which he had carried with him for 40 years. Among a quantity of silver coins found were some $1 pieces of larger size than those now in use.

A promissory note for $4,000 on a ranchman in Nebraska, which was unsecured, was among the collection. Klinger went to Nebraska, where he found the man who had given the note, and on presenting it was surprised beyond expression when the cash was paid over without a murmur.

Yoder's estate had not been appraised, but is estimated at $30,000.

TWIN TROUBLES

They Are Often Together These Days They Wrok Havoc All Over the Country and In East Liverpool.

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order. That is what ails a host of people. First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is weakened. Then the stomach loses its nerve controlling power, and indigestion follows with failing strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to East Liverpool, people could hardly be convinced that this great medicine would remove these troubles. Now it is an accepted fact because of their cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence. Mrs. Margaret Tracy, of 178 Seventh street, East Liverpool, O., says: "One of my family was very nervous, subject to nervous spells, weak and irritable, could not sleep and the digestion was very poor. I asked the invalid to take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. The result was splendid; the medicine built her up, enriched the blood, made the nerves strong, gave restful sleep and so strengthened the stomach that digestion is perfect. The old-time languid, played-out feeling has given place to one of strength and energy, and as a result we are more than pleased with the medicine."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

FRIENDS OF BOERS.

Great Meeting Held In Cleveland—Bryan One of the Speakers.

RESOLUTION TO ROOSEVELT.

His Attention Is Called to Denunciation of Reconciliation Camps by the Late President McKinley—Some Other Points in Resolution.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 6.—Four thousand people attended a pro-Boer meeting in Gray's armory Sunday afternoon. When the committee in charge announced the meeting, an invitation was sent to him and Mayor Johnson to attend and address the gathering. Bryan was the guest of Johnson for a day. Both gentlemen accepted and when, towards the close of other speeches, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Johnson entered the hall the whole audience rose en masse and repeatedly shouted the names of "Bryan" and "Johnson," and greeted them with hurrahs and handclapping.

The audience was composed mostly of men, although a number of women were present. The tri-color of the Boer republic was a prominent feature of the armory's decorations and little streamers were tied in the buttnoses of many of the men. Upon the stage were seven native Boers, who had been in some of the early conflicts of their countrymen against the English soldiers. They were given from the country and are now residents of this city.

The meeting continued for four hours, the principal address being by Hon. John J. Lentz, Rev. August Franz, a local Reformed Lutheran clergyman, also spoke.

Bryan and Johnson Spoke.

When the formal speeches of the afternoon were concluded Messrs. Bryan and Johnson were called upon to address the vast audience. Mr. Bryan spoke for about five minutes, during which time he said:

"I wish to say that, fallen will be the star of our destiny if the time ever comes when struggling freemen feel that they cannot look upon the people of these states for sympathy."

Mr. Bryan said that he was in entire sympathy with the intent of the meeting, eulogized the fighting South African farmers and urged them to continue the struggle. He said that he was glad the war had cost England so dear and that the disastrous cost in money and life would be a much needed lesson for the English government, because it would teach, and has already caused a loss that would not soon be forgotten.

Mr. Bryan said that he considered it a compliment that the Boers looked to the United States for aid and sympathy in their struggle, and that he considered it a disgrace that no official expression of sympathy had yet been made by this government. Mr. Bryan believed that the English people are opposed to the continuance of the war because they, too, are suffering because of the unhappy conflict, and are the ones that must bear the burden of the cost.

Mayor Johnson also spoke briefly and said that he was in full sympathy with the intent of the meeting and expressed similar sentiments to those expressed by Mr. Bryan in that the English people generally are opposed to the war.

A resolution of great length was passed and will be sent to the president of the United States. The resolution calls the president's attention to the continuance of the war for the past two years and states that it has been characterized on the part of Great Britain as a conflict of savagery by the confiscation or destruction of property of inhabitants and non-combatants lying within the zone of war.

Were Denounced by McKinley.

Attention is called to the denunciation by President McKinley of the system of reconciliation camps. A quotation from the Manchester (England) Guardian of Sept. 4, 1901, is made, which states that a degree of suffering and death exists in these camps without a parallel in history. In conclusion, the president is asked to enforce the treaty of Washington, May 8, 1871, denying to vessels operating under British authority opportunity for the augmentation of supplies of war from the United States. President Roosevelt is asked to continue the efforts of his predecessor to bring to an end the horrors of concentration camps and a warfare which by its unexampled ferocity and enormous cost of life and treasure has astounded the civilized world."

Members of German singing societies, numbering 600 voices, sang patriotic songs.

Captains of Industry

VERSUS

Those Who Toil With the Hands

By Ex-Governor JOHN P. ALTGELD of Illinois

MAN WHOSE WHOLE LIFE IS CONCENTRATED AND ABSORBED IN THE GETTING OF MONEY DOES NOT FURNISH AN EXAMPLE FOR THE YOUNG MEN OF THE LAND TO EMULATE.

As a rule, his house decays and his family goes down without waiting for the Scriptural third generation.

We all admire the captains of industry, great railroad men, great manufacturers and great merchants. They stand in place of the generals of the past, but they have no right to strangle free institutions. They did not make this continent.

It was the labor of the men and the women that were building houses, cultivating fields, glaving in factories, operating railroads, teaching school and doing the country's work that made it possible for these captains of industry to amass their gigantic fortunes.

Anarchy is not the child of free speech or of a free press or of free association. It is neither the natural nor the foster child of liberty. Anarchy grows out of conditions. Italy seems to be the mother of anarchy at present, and according to statistics 100,000 people go mad in that country every year from hunger alone.

IF THE ETERNAL PRESENCE OF THE POLICE, THE DUNGEON, THE SUPPRESSION OF NEWSPAPERS, THE DENIAL OF THE RIGHT OF ASSEMBLY AND OF FREE SPEECH WERE A REMEDY FOR ANARCHY, THERE WOULD BE NO ANARCHY IN THE OLD WORLD.

THE REAL AUTHORS OF ANARCHY ARE THE MEN WHO DESPOIL THEIR FELLOW MEN, AND IT DOES NOT MATTER HOW THIS IS DONE.

The world is beginning to see that it is the men and the women who toil with their hands who make civilization possible. We are not ready to admit that the fathers were wrong, we are not ready to apologize for their immortal work, and we will not consent to hide their graves. All of our greatness was born of liberty, even our commercialism was rocked in the cradle of democracy, and we cannot strangle the mother without destroying her children.

Caracas, of the Venezuelan minister of finance, Tello Mendoza. The explosion wrecked a considerable portion of the house, but no one was injured. The attempt has caused considerable excitement in Caracas.

General Juan Píetri (who has been active in the present revolution against President Castro) and who was arrested Friday at Antimano, was Saturday paraded as a prisoner on the Plaza de Bolívar at Caracas. General Píetri is still hostile to General Castro, and he is also opposed to General Matos.

Almost all the Venezuelan revolutionists who have lately been here have left this island to join insurgent bodies in Venezuela. General Riera (who left here last Thursday to join insurgent forces on the Venezuelan coast near Vela de Coro and who unexpectedly returned two days later) is still here.

Pretoria, Jan. 6.—The Boers ambushed a party of the Scots Greys last Saturday, near Bronkhorst spruit (about 40 miles east of Pretoria on the railroad). The British casualties were six men killed and 13 wounded.

Bank Robbed of $2,000.

Pittsburg, Jan. 6.—Thieves broke into the building of the First National bank of Glassport some time during Friday night and secured $2,000 from the safe, which they blew open with nitroglycerin. The safe was wrecked and the robbers escaped with their booty.

COUNTY AND NEIGHBORHOOD

Charles Stoddard was thrown from a buggy at Youngstown and sustained fatal injuries.

Arthur Dustman, aged 18, while skating on a reservoir at Alliance collided with a barbed wire fence, his face being terribly lacerated.

A Slav laborer, while attempting to couple cars at the Migo steel plant Saturday, had his arm caught between the bumpers and mashed into a jelly. The workmen of Youngstown are to be asked to contribute a day's wages, the money to be added to a fund already started for the establishment of a hospital.

The leasing by eastern capitalists of a large section of land in Brooke county, W. Va., opposite Steubenville, is causing much speculation in the Jefferson county metropolis. It is thought the Wabash railroad company will build a car works on the new site.

Eli Slabaugh, foreman of the carpenters' department in the Alliance railroad shops, was struck in the face by a piece of a pulley which burst while revolving rapidly. A fearful gash was cut above the right eye and it is feared the sight is destroyed.

A motorman on the Youngstown electric line lost control of his car on a steep hill and a collision with a freight train on a crossing was narrowly averted. About 50 passengers were aboard the car and a panic ensued. Nobody was seriously hurt, however.

SUNDAY BY NO MEANS "DRY."

But Laws Were More Strictly Enforced in New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—The Sunday and excise laws were more strictly enforced in Greater New York Sunday than has been the custom, though there was no order from police headquarters bearing directly on the subject, and yesterday was by no means a "dry" Sunday. The better class of saloon men were told that they must not tolerate any noisy customers nor was any one to be allowed to become intoxicated in their places of business.

The lower class of saloons and resorts were told to close up and they remained closed during the day. The Rialto law hotels were very careful to issue the usual sandwich with each drink.

Competent presiding officers have been chosen for both branches of the legislature. This result the Republicans of Ohio will contemplate with satisfaction. If any bitterness has been aroused by the spirited contest for legislative honors that has been in progress for the past few weeks, it will disappear as suddenly as it sprang into being. In the game of politics somebody is inevitably beaten. The wise politician accepts defeat gracefully, congratulates the victor and proceeds to help him, instead of cherishing resentment and placing stumbling blocks in his way. The Republican party, as has been demonstrated time and again, however its adherents may differ on minor questions of men and measures, is a unit when really important principles are involved. The contest that has just closed at Columbus has attracted more attention than its importance warranted, but it has ended in such an equitable division of honors that even the most contentious have no ground for promoting strife or factionalism. All is well that ends well. The Republican party has not suffered, and its little differences will soon be forgotten.

The Carnegie institution at Washington, D. C., is to be established with the $10,000,000 which the ironmaster philanthropist is to donate. Although it is to be a university national in character, the government is to have nothing to do with its establishment or its management. The corporation, a private one, includes among its members Secretary of State John Hay and other prominent officers of the government, but they are there of their own volition and in their capacity as citizens. The institution is to be kept free from politics and out of the control of politicians. Its aim will be, as far as possible, to realize the dream of Washington, of maintaining a great school for the people at the national capital. The country has no more advantageous location for such a university, and it ought to become one of the greatest and most useful of our many noble institutions of learning.

The Texas oil field, instead of petering out, is being extended by new strikes. A promising oil field has been discovered in Kentucky, and in old oil territory in Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana, developments of a rich character are reported. From present indications, great opportunities are still open for those who have capital and luck which they are willing to risk in a business that has made fortunes more quickly and easily than they were ever won in the most favored gold regions of the earth.

A better summary of the business situation than that made by Bradstreet's Review would be hard to find. It says: "Satisfaction with the old and confidence in the new year are the dominant features of the entire industrial, commercial and financial situation."

The Tom Johnson Democrats cut but a sorry figure in the Ohio legislature. Even the poor consolation of naming a candidate for the empty honor of being voted for as a Democratic senatorial candidate was denied them.

Chicago has a girl novelist who writes stories in her sleep. She will probably be kept busy henceforth in disclaiming responsibility for the su-

perabundant slumber-producing literature emanating from the Windy City.

William J. Bryan favors American intervention in the British South African dispute. He is always favoring something that would be useless and would involve this country in a snarl.

Fire losses in the United States in 1901 aggregated $160,000,000. Fully half this enormous waste was due to carelessness. It is a heavy price to pay for a bad habit.

The schools of the City of Mexico are to teach English hereafter. Mexicans need it in their business, which the universal Yankee is fast monopolizing.

The "battle" at Columbus was more noisy than terrible. A large part of the noise was made by Democratic newspapers.

AT THE THEATER

Frank James, brother of the once noted Jesse James, is now an actor in H. Walter Van Dyke's great American play, "Across the Desert," which will have its initial production to the patrons of the Grand opera house to night, and is heralded as one of the best of modern sensational melodramas. The story is delightfully told, the comedy is without blemish. Sensational plays that are consistent in plot, sympathetic in every word and action, tender in pathetic scenes, exciting great enthusiasm in climaxes, spirited comedy and good humor that can rejuvenate the listener, require a good acting company. "Across the Desert" in its climaxes raises the audience to feverish excitement. Its comedy, one of the best treatments ever offered to a tired patron in the way of good humor and genuine laughter. This new production has proven a big winner financially and artistically in every theater this company of artists has played.

TALK OF THE PAST

FRANK JAMES, EX-OUTLAW,
TELLS OF HIS CAREER.

His Old Missouri Home to Be a Feature at the St. Louis Exposition.

Frank James, the noted Missourian, is a modest appearing man, who does not look like an outlaw. At his hotel this morning he talked entertainingly of his past career. He does not claim to be an actor. He has been on the stage since November 27.

Mr. James long since determined to show the world that one who has been looked upon as a monster can lead a correct life. He is very fond of his aged mother. He described her home eight miles from Excelsior Springs, Clay county, Mo. The building remains the same as when the two sons were outlaws, and all will be moved to the St. Louis exposition intact. In it will be displayed a great many of the relics of the James boys' outlaw experience.

Mr. James related many interesting incidents in connection with his surrender and subsequent imprisonment. While in jail at Independence he was visited by Prof. Bowser, a very prominent colored man of the state, who tried to get bail for him. Bowser explained his interest in him by saying that he had a record of all the deeds alleged to have been committed by the James brothers, but in no case could he find where they had molested negroes or women and stated he could raise $30,000 for Frank's release.

Mr. James referred to his connection with the confederate army and said his family could now boast of both the blue and the gray. His son, Robert F. James, now in business in St. Louis, was in the service during the Spanish war and made an enviable record.

POTTERY NEWS

Michael J. Conley, a packer at the K. T. & K. pottery, formerly a celebrated buck and wing dancer, has received an offer and may again go on the road. G. H. Cooper was in the city Saturday from Chicago, and it is understood the offer made Mr. Conley was a tempting one. Cooper is manager of a high-class vaudeville aggregation.

Two weeks from last Saturday Robert Hawkins, of the Union pottery, will sever his connection with that plant and about March 1 he will become affiliated with the company erecting a pottery at Barberton.

The G. F. Brunt Porcelain company has issued and is distributing to friends and customers one of the largest and handsomest calendars ever sent out by an East Liverpool firm. It is a true work of art.

Oddman Connell, of the Union pottery, who accidentally ran a nail in his left foot last week, causing him to lay off from work for a few days, resumed his duties this morning. The injury was very painful.

Ambrose Cartwright, of the Cartwright Bros. Pottery company, is confined to his home on account of illness. He is suffering from tonsillitis.

A. Wasson, Jr., of Toronto, has accepted a position as kiln setter in the R. Thomas & Sons' plant.

His Idea of Heaven.

The lad was about five years of age and naturally inquisitive. He asked his father questions he had never heard before, and the fond parent was a perplexed man.

The youngster got on the subject of the next world one day and wanted to know a lot of things. "Will you wear a mustache in heaven, papa?" he asked.

"I suppose I will, my son," replied the father.

"You'll make a funny angel."

There was a long pause, and finally the boy asked what kind of a place heaven was. The father in order to satisfy his son went into lengthy details in describing its beauty.

The lad listened with open mouth and finally said, "Why, papa, heaven must look like the ten cent store!"—Pittsburg Press.

CALIFORNIA OLIVES

HOW THE TASTY FRUIT IS CULTIVATED IN THE GOLDEN STATE.

A Visit to the Biggest Olive Farm in the World—The Harvesting of the Crop—Processes of Picking and Oil Extracting.

[Special Correspondence.]

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Although California has long been famed for peaches and oranges, little is generally known of a fruit industry which is peculiar to and takes a leading position in that state—the cultivation of olives. The olive has been garnered for more than 4,000 years and has been a staple food for races long forgotten, but it has remained for southern California to conduct olive raising on an American scale and to show the vast possibilities of the industry. Oriental countries raise olives by the tree. California raises them by the square mile.

The largest olive grove in the world is situated in this state at the head of the San Fernando valley. The estimated number of trees in the whole state is 2,500,000, with a crop, at the very lowest estimate, of 250,000,000 pounds of olives. That this is really marvelous is evident when it is stated that olive raising on a wholesale scale is only fourteen years old in southern California.

The value of the San Fernando crop this season is estimated at more than $100,000. To properly treat the enormous yield the first harvest of this grove, which is only seven years old, the company owning the ranch has built a fifteen thousand dollar factory, a neat brick structure, well equipped for meeting all the demands that will be made upon it.

The olive harvest is gathered in the months of November, December and January, and sometimes picking continues into February. At the San Fernando ranch a hundred men are employed in harvest time to pick the olives at an average wage of $1.50 per day. Twelve to fifteen men are employed the year round, and eight teams are worked, and, including the factory men, there is an average all year of twenty-five men upon the ranch.

The olives are carefully gathered in canvas buckets made for the purpose and are brought to the factory in spring wagons to keep them from bruising. After reaching the factory they are thoroughly cleaned and are then run through a grader, which separates them into three sizes. They are next put into vats of water, where they stand over night, and if the olives are to be pickled as "split" olives they are then either pricked with a needle or are run through an aperture the sides of which are lined with several fine blades.

Whether "split" or not, the olives are next put into a solution of one pound of lye to ten gallons of water. After they have remained in the lye solution until it is seen by examination that the lye has percolated to the pit they are put into fresh water, where they remain from seven to ten days. The next step is the brine solution, where the olives remain permanently until ready for the table. The large casks

OLIVE PICKERS AT WORK.

In which they "mellow up" for market are thoroughly disinfected and are thinly coated with paraffin.

Pickled olives are said to improve with age. Those cured by the lye process bleach to a light color, although they may have been dark when picked. Olives are also pickled by the brine process, which takes longer. The black olives are not subjected to the lye treatment.

The manufacture of olive oil is as interesting a process as the pickling. The older olives are used for this purpose, as the oil does not develop in the berry until the ripe stage has been well passed. In extracting the oil the olives are first subjected to a cutter, which chops them into minute pieces, and are next put into hydraulic presses with a pressure of 200 tons. The oil resultant from this treatment after being purified is termed oil of the first grade. Second grade oil is obtained from the pulp remaining from the first pressure, which is put under a heavy cylinder, similar to a millstone, and then squeezed by a hydraulic press with a pressure of 3,000 pounds to the square inch.

Oil of the first grade is bottled, while oil of the second grade is sold in bulk. Oil of the first grade is used chiefly in the culinary arts. It is claimed that California olive oil is eminently superior to the foreign article, for of forty or fifty grades of foreign olive oils it is stated that not one of them has been found unadulterated, while few have withstood the test for cottonseed oil. Olive oil of the second grade is used for lubricating, in the manufacture of soap and in an emulsion for pulmonary diseases.

LYTH WORKS TO START

The Plant Will Hereafter Manufacture Brick Instead of Terra Cotta.

The clay plant known as the John Lyth terra cotta works, which is situated on the east border of the city limits, is soon to resume operation. This information was imparted by a prominent business man Saturday evening. He further stated that the present owners of the plant would not manufacture anything in the terra cotta line, but would remove the old and place in enough new machinery to guarantee the output of thousands of brick per month, which means that a strictly modern brick yard will supplant the present works.

The plant has been idle for the past 18 months, having been bought by a trust. The change, which will likely go into effect in a few weeks, will receive the hearty commendation of Wellsville residents, as it will be the means of furnishing employment to 100 or more men.

TOO DRUNK TO RIDE

East Liverpool Men Refused as Passengers on the Street Railway.

A number of drunks from East Liverpool visited Wellsville yesterday afternoon and of course acted in a very ungentlemanly and obnoxious manner. They were not molested by the city police, but were made aware of their condition when they attempted to board a street car. The conductor flatly refused to let them on, but experienced some difficulty in enforcing his commands.

The men made all sorts of pleas and threats, but to no avail. They had the pleasure of roaming the streets until their jags disappeared.

EXTENDING THE LINE

According to the contract with the city the company will be compelled to have the extension finished by April 1.

ZANESVILLE CLOSED TIGHT.

Retaliation by Liquor Men, Through Mayor Holden and Chief Tracy.

Zanesville, O., Jan. 6.—Never before were the Sunday laws observed more closely in Zanesville than yesterday. This was because Judge Frazier, of the common pleas court, put the leading saloon keepers under bond for a year to keep their places closed on Sunday.

The saloonkeepers, through Mayor Holden and Chief Tracy, retaliated on the common Sunday law violators and yesterday it was impossible to buy a cigar or get into a drug store without a prescription. Fruit stands, soda fountains and candy and tobacco stores were all closed. The mayor declared last night that next Sunday he will stop the street cars, milk wagons, and the publication of local and sale of outside newspapers.

OFFICER ATTACKED

CONSTABLE J. H. ALLISON'S EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Man on Whom He Was Serving Papers Made a Vicious Assault.

Constable J. Hiram Allison will vouch for the fact that the life of a municipal officer is not one always to be desired. Official duties often provide troubles.

Last evening Mr. Allison went to the home of W. A. Hines for the purpose of serving attachment papers which had been written by Squire Johnston in compliance with an order of C. A. Smith, who in the writ alleges that Hines owes him $60 for rent.

Upon arriving at the Hines home the constable saw two moving vans in waiting for a load and quickened his steps. He unceremoniously entered the house. Before he got a chance to state his business, Hines leaped from a chair and made a vicious assault on the unsuspecting officer.

Luckily for Allison a street car employee by the name of Williams interfered and prevented a possible murder, as Hines was terribly enraged and afterward boasted of what he would have done to Allison. After an exciting scramble Allison and Williams subdued the angry man and the papers were served.

As a result of the attack Allison swore out a warrant for the arrest of Hines this morning, charging him with unlawfully attacking an officer while in the discharge of his duties. The man will be given a hearing this evening.

G. A. Arner, learning this morning that Hines was preparing to leave, also had attachment papers served. He claims that Hines owes him over $20.

DESERVED PROMOTION

J. H. Stewart Leaves Chester Depot for a Fine Position at Carnegie.

J. H. Stewart has resigned his position as ticket and freight agent at the Pennsylvania depot. His resignation went into effect today and he will leave tomorrow morning for Carnegie to accept a similar but more profitable position. His new position is that of general freight agent and is considered as a plum in the railroad business, as it pays a salary of $125 per month.

Mr. Stewart has been in charge of the Chester depot for two years and it was through his untiring efforts for the benefit of the company that he placed himself in line for such a speedy promotion. At Carnegie much responsibility will rest upon Mr. Stewart, as he will have control of all freight passing into and out of Pittsburgh, this point being where all transfers are made by the Pennsylvania company. While a resident of Chester Mr. Stewart has made a legion of friends, all of whom regret very much that he is going away, yet they are glad of his success.

A. L. Skinner, of Coshocton, arrived this morning and is making himself acquainted with the business affairs of the depot, having been appointed to fill the place of Mr. Stewart.

Will Quit the River.

Captain George Conn, who has been for years in the employment of the Pittsburg coal combine in the capacity of a pilot on tow boats, has decided to quit the river and has accepted a position with the American Tin Plate company. Owing to the promotion of Mayor R. H. Dunn to the night superintendency of the mill it was made necessary to appoint a man to the vacancy and Captain Conn received the appointment.

Will Go to Collier's.

C. L. Walton, who has been the assistant freight agent at the depot for nearly two years, will leave tomorrow for Collier's Scales, where he will accept a position as assistant weighmaster for the Pennsylvania lines.

Hearing Postponed.

The case of the Lyons boys, charged with disturbing a religious meeting, was continued by Squire Johnston until next Wednesday morning, one of the boys being reported sick.

A Lucky Bargain.

It is said that a foreman stereotyper in a London printing works has had a curious windfall. Going to a sale of musical instruments, he purchased an old harpsichord for 20 shillings, because, having a hobby for fretwork, he fancied the wood of the front panel. When he got his purchase home, he dissected it. He then discovered that the harpsichord had a double back, and presently between the boards he found very old Bank of England notes the total face value of which amounted to £20,000.

NEW CABINET OFFICER.

Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin Now Postmaster General.

In selecting Henry C. Payne of Wisconsin to succeed Charles Emory Smith as postmaster general the president has appointed a man who has had no little experience in postal matters. For twelve years he was postmaster of Milwaukee, Wis., and conducted the affairs of the office in a manner that gave great satisfaction to the people of that enterprising city. Probably he is better known for his activity in politics, having long been one of the leaders of his party in Wisconsin.

Mr. Payne was born in Ashfield, Mass., in 1843, and after graduating from the Shelburne Falls academy in 1863 he removed to Milwaukee and became cashier of a dry goods store in that city. He first went into politics in 1872, reorganizing the party in Milwaukee. Mr. Payne has long been a member of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Payne is president of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company and president of the Wisconsin Telephone company. He was for two years president of the American Street Railway association and was at one time receiver of the Northern Pacific railroad. Mr. Payne was appointed postmaster of Milwaukee in 1876 and served twelve years, and it is said he was the best postmaster that city ever had.

The new postmaster general is of small stature, but squarely and compactly built. He is sociable, open hearted, approachable and genial.

ANOTHER FORAKER BRIDE.

The bride elect is a strikingly handsome girl. She is twenty years old, tall and graceful and is extremely popular in society. In appearance Miss Foraker resembles her mother, but is like her father in courage, brilliancy and conversational charm. ## Hard Work Ahead FOR SOCIETY WOMEN Who Seek the Stage

By CLARA BLOODGOOD, Society Woman and Actress

"WORK, work, work." That is my message to society women who adopt the stage. Social experience counts for nothing. That may sound strange, but it is logical. There is no logic in the contention that because a woman is an adept in ballroom manners she will appear at ease in a ballroom scene behind the footlights. The only advantage the society woman possesses is that from familiarity she may learn more easily how to do certain things. On the other hand, her experience may cause her greater difficulties. A society woman has been trained to repress her feelings. On the stage she has to give expression to her emotions.

I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT A CAST OF SOCIETY WOMEN WOULD BE BETTER ABLE TO GIVE THE ATMOSPHERE OF SOCIETY TO A PLAY THAN A CAST MADE UP OF THOSE WHO LACKED THEIR SOCIAL EXPERIENCE.

The atmosphere is created mainly by the author's lines and incidentally by the stage management. Believe me, intelligence is of more avail than all the social experience in the world. A well trained, intelligent actress, though she may never have seen the inside of a drawing room, will do just the right thing and give the correct impression.

I have been asked for advice by many women who looked to the stage as an easy means of obtaining a livelihood. I have warned them that unless they were willing to work hard, to rely on perseverance and energy to win advancement, they had better keep out of it. I won my way up by hard work and a good share of luck.

Origin of Absinth.

Absinth, the green fiend that saturates fashionable France, was originally an extremely harmless medical remedy.

It was a French physician who first used it. His name was Ordinaire, and he was living as a refugee at Couvet, in Switzerland, at the close of the eighteenth century. Like many other country doctors at that time, he was also a druggist, and his favorite remedy was a certain elixir of absinth of which he alone had the secret.

At his death he bequeathed the formula to his housekeeper, Mlle. Grandpierre, and she sold it to the daughters of Lieutenant Henriod. They cultivated in their little garden the herbs necessary for concocting it, and after they had distilled a certain quantity of the liquid they sold it on commission to itinerant peddlers, who quickly disposed of it in the adjacent towns and villages.

Finally, during the first decade of the nineteenth century, a wealthy distiller purchased the formula, and very soon afterward he placed on the market the modern absinth, which differs greatly from the old medical remedy, since the latter contained no alcohol and very little absinth.

LATE AND IMPORTANT PHASES OF CHILD STUDY.

BY COLIN A. SCOTT, PH. D.,

Professor of Psychology and Child Study in the Wisconsin Normal School.

I.—Prenatal Influences.

IT is a very old notion that the impressions received by a mother during pregnancy are of the greatest importance for her child. The author of the book of Genesis represents Jacob as familiar with this conception in the breeding of animals.

Plato, in harmony with the general Greek sentiment, recommended that beautiful statues should be frequent in public places in order to impress the finest forms on the imagination of mothers.

In the middle ages psychic qualities were also believed to be impressed. The fear of James I for a naked sword due to fright on his mother's part is a typical case. At the present day the belief is widespread. Mrs. Marholme attributes the deficient forms of the present generation of men to modern clothing, which, as a series of shapeless cylinders expressing nothing but the power of the money bag, conceals the masculine forms which, through the imagination of the enervate woman, ought to be transmitted to future generations.

Dr. Drzewiecki of the University of Warsaw cites the case of his own child, which was born with a mark on its leg in the same place where he himself had been wounded while swimming. This accident occurred during the first month of his wife's pregnancy, and she had been shocked and frightened by the sight of the wound.

Supplementing the evidence of this character, Dr. Hunter has collected 2,000 cases where mothers were asked in every instance before the birth of the child if they had experienced any apprehension or mental emotion which they might think would cause any mark or deformity, and, although admissions of this kind were very frequent and although many of the 2,000 children were marked in some way or another, in not one single case did the resulting mark correspond with the apprehension of the mother. It is easy to see that if the opportunity had been given after instead of before the appearance of the child it would be a very unimaginative woman indeed who would not be able to remember something in her experience which the irregularity of development could not suggest.

It must be observed that a very slight acquaintance with the science of embryology discounts a large number of these stories. Different organs have different periods of development. The skin is not differentiated as a special organ until comparatively late. The most distant portions of the extremities are developed first, the fingers before the palm, the hand before the forearm, the forearm before the arm proper. Generally speaking, the portions at the sides of the body are developed before the parts in the middle, the joining of the two halves occurring later. Each outer half of the eye develops before the inner half. The various organs and even parts of organs have their nascent periods, and if we hear of a shock which is said to have occasioned harelip, for example, which has been received after the period when the two separately developed halves of the palate normally unite to form a single palate (between the ages of 8 and 10 weeks of fetal life), we can be absolutely certain that this shock has had no effect in producing the deformity, since the deformity has already been in existence in the form presented at birth before the advent of the so-called impression. Harelip and cleft palate are very common defects, occurring, according to Dr. Hatfield of Chicago, in 22 out of 100 cases of maternal impression reported to him. They are plainly instances of arrested development, taking place at the time when the two halves of the palate should have been joined together. Lack of developmental energy on the part of the child at this time from whatever cause finds its expression in this defect. No shock or fright on the part of the mother, even if it were possible to communicate it to the child, could possibly have any effect after this time.

Cyclops, or one eyed monsters, to take another example, are due to an arrest in development after the two outer halves, but before the two inner halves, of the eyes are developed. The arrest of development at this point then ceases, and at the proper time the two outer halves are joined. The single eye is thus derived from two outer halves of separate eyes, and the organs between, including the nose, are absent.

As Dr. Kiernan of Chicago has forcibly pointed out, the most of the cases reported are distinctly arrests of development and do not represent even remotely photographic reproductions of impressions. A woman sees her enraged husband cut off three toes from the right foot of a chicken. She fears her child will be marked. As anticipated, her child is born with three stubs of fingers on his right hand. Further examination, however, reveals the fact that the fingers are perfectly formed, with complete nails, and do not represent anything cut off. It is an arrest of development occurring at a definite period in embryonic life, and only if the shock occurred at this special time, which does not appear, could it have anything to do with the deformity.

The conception of arrest of development focuses the attention upon the inner forces of growth rather than upon the external impressions. Parental influences from this standpoint extend far beyond the period of gestation or the life of the individual. The germ plasma from which every human being develops has lived for many millions of years. In the line of descent, between the first germ cell and every cell which now composes human bodies, there has never been a single cell which has ever died. The cells which did die are not the ancestors of any of those which are now alive. We do not inherit death, but life, and death of certain groups of cells is only an acquisition in the struggle for existence to permit of larger life. The germ plasma may be regarded as a continuous race root stock from which individuals bud, like the shoots which come up from an underground stem in spring. Individuals are expressions of the root stock or germ plasma. The germ plasma is not the expression of individuals. It is nearly as true to say that a man inherits from his immediate children as to say that his immediate children inherit from him. The truth is that every individual inherits not from another individual, but from the race stock of which they are both expressions. When hereditary blindness appears in a family, statistics show that it is as likely to be transmitted by the brother or sister who is not blind as by the one who is. Individuals are thus produced as experiments by the race stock or germ plasma and are thrown off and die.

The germ plasma, however, as Weismann himself admits, is subject to influence by its environment in the bodies of individuals which contain it. These influences, however, are never special and can all be regarded as either producing better nutrition or arresting development by interfering with nutrition. The same thing is true of the embryo.

It is perfectly true that psychic disturbances, if sufficiently severe and continued for a sufficient length of time, are associated with and may occasion a defective nutritive condition of the blood and thus cause an arrest of development. The progress of the race is dependent upon the increase of and the perfection of the embryonic processes. To add to nature's way we must increase the protecting influences. Not only the embryo, but for its sake the mother also must be removed from the strain. This does not mean inertia, but a hygienic life, which will produce a well aerated, pure and healthy blood, capable of supplying the best nutritive material for the independent organizing forces of the child. The superstition in favor of photographic maternal impressions, apart from natural maternal conceal, has probably also had some biological significance in emphasizing the protection of the mother, not so much through her imagination, but through that of the husband and the rest of society. When the vast range of heredity was undreamed of, it was natural to overestimate the period of gestation. At present, however, we see that the continuous fears of psychic impressions, by lowering nutritive vigor, are likely to be more injurious than any irregular impressions themselves can possibly be. Mothers should be protected from this fear of fears.

The facts of science imply as follows: The impressions which a mother receives have no direct bearing on the child. The function of the mother during gestation is simply the passive production of nourishment. It is before conception rather than after and not directly, but by a process of sexual selection pertaining to all the powers involved in falling in love or other means of mating, that the real psychic influences that will affect the next generation are determined. The constitution, both physical and psychic; the imagination, the intellect, the emotions revealed and appreciated in this golden aura of life, are the most decisive prenatal influences within the life of the individual. The full discussion of this, however, must be reserved for another lesson.

CONGRESS TO MEET.

To Re-Convene Today--Canal

Bill Due in House

Tomorrow.

IN MEMORY OF SEN. SEWELL,

Senate Likely to Adjourn Today--Remembered Intended Proposal of Panama Company to Sell May Figure in Debate on Isthmian Canal Measure.

Washington, Jan. 6.—After a recess of almost three weeks, both houses of congress will reconvene today. The principal item on the house program for the week is the Hepburn isthmian canal bill, which is the special order for Tuesday. No limit has been fixed as to the time for debate upon this measure, but Mr. Hepburn does not contemplate a prolonged discussion of it. It is surmised in some quarters, however, that if the proposition of the Panama Canal company to sell its property and franchises for $40,000,000 should be made today, as promised, this may have the effect of opening a wider field of discussion than at first seemed probable, and if this should prove to be the case the bill may be before the house for a longer time than is now contemplated. Mr. Burton has given notice of a speech on the bill, and it is understood that there also will be other speeches in criticism of special features of the measure, but its friends are very sanguine, not only that the bill will pass, but it will pass speedily. Mr. Hepburn, the author of the bill, thinks that only a few days of debate will be necessary.

It is said that by the time the canal bill is disposed of there will be one or more appropriation bills ready for consideration by the house. None of the appropriation bills has yet been passed on by the appropriations committee, but both the urgent deficiency and the pension bills are in a forward state, and the expectation is that they will be considered by the committee during the current week. The present intention is to give first attention to the deficiency bill. The estimates for that bill aggregate $12,000,000, and it is not believed that these figures will be scaled down materially.

No Program For Senate.

The senate has no program for the week and very little business on its calendar, as the reorganization of the senate committees did not take place until just before the holidays. There are, however, a few bridge bills reported, and Senator Morgan's bill for the acquisition of right of way for the Nicaragua canal is among the measures in position to receive attention. It is not probable, however, that the right of way bill will receive a consideration at this time, the disposition being rather to await the action of the house upon the general subject and then have the senate predicate its action on the house bill. If this course should be decided on the discussion of the canal question in the senate will be postponed for a few weeks. The committee on the Philippines will take up the Philippine tariff question very soon, but there is yet no indication as to how much time the matter may consume in committee. Hence there is no probability that the senate itself will be able to reach that question for some time. Senator Frye is engaged on his report on the shipping bill, but is not yet able to fix the time for its completion.

The announcement of Senator Sewell's death probably will be made today, in which event there will be an immediate adjournment for the day. An adjournment from Thursday until the following Monday is contemplated.

AS MEMORIAL TO LINCOLN.

Congregational Churches, Sabbath Schools and Endeavor Societies Asked to Observe Feb. 12.

New York, Jan. 6.—The American Missionary association has issued an appeal to the Congregational churches of the country to observe Sunday, Feb. 9, as a memorial of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday is Feb. 12. The churches, and especially their Sabbath schools and Endeavor societies, are urged to emphasize Christian patriotism.

"Abraham Lincoln," says this appeal, "was born in the mountains of the south, where schools and churches have been established by this association. The negroes have grown into a great multitude of more than 8,000,000, among whom this association has planted its institutions and missions. Through its missionaries the colored people are being trained in shop, on the farm, in the school and church and home, for safe citizenship and Christian responsibility. President Lincoln urged the kind and Christian treatment of the Indians. The negro and Indian departments of missionary work carried on by this association are therefore naturally suggested by his name."

TO SUCCEED REV. PURVES.

Congregational Meeting to Be Held to Invite Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, of Chicago.

New York, Jan. 6.—A meeting of the congregation of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church will be held on the eve of Jan. 15 for the purpose of extending a call to the Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, of Chicago.

Dr. Stevenson has for the last five years been filling the chair of church history at McCormick Theological seminary. He is not quite 36, graduating from McCormick in 1889, and after studying in Germany had a charge in Sedalia, Mo. He is one of the members of the committee on revision of the creed.

The pulpit of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church has been vacant since the death of the former pastor, the late Dr. George T. Purves, Sept. 17 last.

The FLAG, Not the CONSTITUTION,

Represents the Sovereignty of the Nation

By Hon. GALUSHA A. GROW, Ex-Speaker House of Representatives

IN OUR TRIPLE FORM OF GOVERNMENT IT IS NOT NECESSARY FOR ANY PURPOSE WHATSOEVER THAT THE CONSTITUTION SHOULD EXTEND BEYOND THE LIMITS OF THE STATES. On all questions outside of the limits of the States over territory belonging to the United States and in the intercourse of this nation with all other nations the legislative department of the government of the Union was created by the people to execute their will.

THE FLAG, NOT THE CONSTITUTION, REPRESENTS THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE NATION.

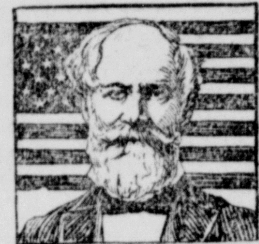

The legislative power of congress, clothed with the treaty making and war powers of the government—powers not necessarily derived from the constitution, for they are inherent in every sovereign nation—follows the flag wherever it floats, at home or abroad, on land or sea, for its protection and for the protection of every human being owing it allegiance. Our flag is in Cuba, but the constitution is not there.

OUR FLAG FLOATED OVER THE EMBATTLED WALLS OF THE CHINESE EMPIRE, AND THE LEGISLATIVE POWER OF CONGRESS, NOT THE CONSTITUTION, WAS BEHIND IT. That power follows the flag everywhere. The constitution, without legislation by congress, follows nothing outside the limits of the states for which it was made and the states admitted into the Union by act of congress.

Under the general power to acquire territory and the specific power to make all needful rules and regulations respecting it, congress, if there are no treaty conditions, can, in its own sound discretion, establish one form of government for one territory and a different one for other territories, adapting each to the climatic conditions and the habits of life of the inhabitants of the respective territories.

For 2,000 years civilization has been moving westward from the westward confines of Asia, and TODAY THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC HOLDS THE TORCH OF THE WORLD'S ADVANCING CIVILIZATION, having carried it westward across the Pacific ocean and planted it on the eastern confines of Asia, where its illuminating rays light up with the brightness of a morning sun the Chinese sky, which canopies one-third the population of the globe.

IN THE OVERHANGING FUTURE NO PROPHET CAN NOW FORETELL WHAT WILL BE ITS NOONDAY SPLENDORS IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, TRUE TO THEIR MANIFEST DESTINY, MARKED OUT BY THE MIGHTY EVENTS OF 400 YEARS, SHALL FAITHFULLY DISCHARGE THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES TO LIBERTY AND THE RIGHTS OF A COMMON HUMANITY IN THE ONWARD PROGRESS OF THE RACE TO A HIGHER AND BETTER CIVILIZATION.

ON HUMBLE LINES.

How Three Working Women Keep the Wolf From the Door.

SOMETIMES along the humblest lines of manual labor a member of the great sisterhood of wage earners achieves a result which opens the eyes of women to the opportunities that lie around them every day waiting to be grasped.

In one of the great cities of the Union a certain bakery company's wagons dart along the streets bearing upon their sides in large letters the trademark "Mrs. Blank's Homemade Pies." Everybody thereabout who is honest enough to own that he is fond of our delicious American fruit pies knows Mrs. Blank's pies. I saw those wagons so often and the horses attached thereto seemed so well taken care of, the pie-men themselves looked so attractively clean and were so polite, that I was interested to know more of worthy Mrs. Blank.

She began in a very small way making pies for sale, but making them so

good and so above suspicion that customers rapidly increased for the toothsome confections. She at length added other baker's stuffs, proportionally good, to the pumpkin, mince and apple products, and these became the fashion too. Mrs. Blank's family lived handsomely and had everything they wanted, and the bakery gradually became one of the largest bread, pastry and cake establishments in the city.

Mrs. Blank herself conducted the large business till she made a considerable fortune; then, wearying of so much care, the capable woman, who had worked her way to both competency and a business reputation on the strength of pie, sold the business to a stock company which is shrewd enough to still keep her name on its wagons.

The original Mrs. Blank retired to a pleasant seaside resort, a quiet place. There after a time, because idleness was unendurable and making pies was the pleasantest way of passing the time that she knew, she opened another bakeshop, a small one.

There, too, is Joe. She is gray haired now—grown gray in the service of the restaurant firm for whom she began working twenty years ago, but they called her Joe when she began with them as a young woman, and Joe she will be to the end of the chapter. The restaurant in which she works is a large one, furnishing meals certainly to a thousand people daily. It has the name of serving the best coffee in New York city.

One who is a judge of good coffee and had sampled repeatedly that made in this place was curious enough to inquire as to the brand used and the method of preparation. He found that every cup of coffee furnished there was made and for years had been made by one person, a little widow called Joe for short. She began first in the establishment as a laundress, then was promoted to coffee maker. She does nothing but brew the amber liquid which has become noted. Day in and day out the pleasant faced little woman stands at her coffee urn, a genuine artist in her line. She must be happy if she knows how well the customers of the establishment appreciate her skill.

Oddly enough, at the same restaurant there is a woman bartender. She is a young woman still, but she, too, has been in the service of the firm and given satisfaction wherever she was set to work ever since she was a girl in short dresses. When a diner calls for any vinous, malt or spirituous liquor with his food, it is swiftly prepared by this young woman, who stands behind a screen door.

I confess I have never sampled any of her drinks, but if they are as good as Mme. Joe's coffee they must be unsurpassed.

These three women took the task that lay nearest them, the work they knew how to do, and performed it so well that they raised it to an art.

PROMOTE HARMONY.

Proposed to Have a Republican Demonstration, at Columbus.

HAYES WON IN HOUSE.

And Foraker Ticket Won in Senate, Result of the Caucus, Saturday Night—The Dearest Price to Be Chairman of Judiciary Committee.

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—The Republican caucus Saturday night nominated the Foraker ticket for the senate and the Hanna ticket for the house. The contest was continued yesterday on the same lines over the makeup of the standing committees, and it is evident that the chairmanships and preferred places will go the same way as the offices. Price, who was defeated for speaker by McKinnon, will be shown consideration as chairman of the judiciary committee, and the chairmanship of one of the committees on municipal affairs, in deference to George B. Cox, will go to some member from Cincinnati, but the courtesy will not be extended further.

The senate committees are being appointed by a special committee on the lines of the Republican caucus, with the Democrats co-operating.

As the liquor associations threw their influence to Price, that interest is now attempting a fusion of the Democrats with such Republicans as are opposed to local bills.

Senator Foraker is not expected here until next week, when all the committees will be made up. It is proposed, therefore, to have a demonstration in the interest of harmony.

On Tuesday of next week, the two houses will vote separately for United States senator and the next day, in joint session, they will declare the result. Then Foraker is expected to make a speech of acceptance. As he was endorsed by resolution at the last state convention for re-election the joint senatorial caucus this week will be merely a formal affair.

FOR THE MCKINLEY ARCH.

A Bill Drafted to Be Introduced in Congress This Week.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The William McKinley National Memorial Arch Association has drafted the following bill, which will be introduced in congress this week and supported by a petition signed by the members of the association and also the members of the McKinley National Memorial Association, formed to erect a monument in Canton, to which the arch association yielded the field of popular subscription:

A bill to provide a commission to select a site and secure plans for a memorial arch in honor of William McKinley, late president of the United States, to be erected in the District of Columbia.

Be it enacted, etc., that the chairman of the joint committee on the library, the secretary of state, and the secretary of war, be and are hereby created a commission to select a site and secure plans and designs for a memorial arch in honor of William McKinley, late president of the United States.

Sec. 2. That said commission is authorized to select any unoccupied land belonging to the United States, in the District of Columbia, except the grounds of the capitol and the library of congress, on which to erect the said memorial arch.

Sec. 3. That said commission is authorized and required to obtain, by any form of competition which may seem advisable, plans, specifications, and models for said memorial, provided for in section 1, and may pay for the same to competing artists not exceeding $25,000, which sum is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated. The said commission may select any of the plans, specifications or models that it may prefer or any part of them.

Sec. 4. That as soon as practicable after the selections authorized by sections 2 and 3 are made, said commission shall report its action to the congress of the United States.

city, in a badly disabled condition. The steamer George W. Elder, from Portland, reports that she passed the Max Sunday morning, in tow of the steamer Acme and the United States revenue cutter McCulloch, 18 miles northwest of Point Reyes. The Max's bowsprit was carried away and her bow was stove in, both above and below the water line. Her water-tight compartments alone were keeping her afloat. Ninety-two survivors of the Walla Walla arrived here Sunday from Eureka on the steamer Pomona. There is still some discrepancy in the list of dead and missing. This discrepancy is due to the fact that several passengers boarded the vessel just as she was leaving port. Others who were traveling second class gave assumed names in order to hide their identity. By striking out what are possible duplicates the number of lost stands at 42, classed as follows: Known dead, 9; missing, passengers, 13; crew, 20.

Bishop Brent made the announcement in a sermon which he made Sunday morning. It is proposed to use the income from an endowment fund for the maintenance of a staff of assistants which the bishop hopes to take with him when he leaves, early in the spring, for Manila.

MISS STONE'S CAPTORS FORCED

Turks Hostile to Them—Rumors of American Woman's Release Quite Unfounded.

Constantinople, Jan. 6.—The news that the brigands holding Miss Stone captive are being hustled by the inhabitants of the Turkish territory, in which they are said to be in hiding, has created considerable sensation here. A deadly feud is said to subsist between the leaders of the hostile bands, some of whom are reported to have deserted and as attempting to re-enter Bulgaria. Much anxiety is felt here with regard to the outcome of these developments.

The American legation here has not yet received news from M. Gagulio, the dragoman of the legation (who left Salonika for the interior the latter part of last month with the purpose of meeting Miss Stone's captors). Members of the legation say the rumors of Miss Stone's release are quite unfounded. No direct news has been received from the American captive since Nov. 13, the date of the last letter from Miss Stone to Mr. Dickinson, consul general at Constantinople, who was then acting as diplomatic agent of the United States at Sofia.

BELL CONDUCTS VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN IN BATANGAS.

Conditions on Samar Unsatisfactory. Civil Authorities Declare Leyte Peaceful—Other Points.

Manila, Jan. 6.—General J. Franklin Bell is conducting a vigorous campaign in Batangas province. Every available soldier is in the field. The columns under the command of Colonel Wint and Bouguerty are doing excellent work and driving the Filipinos in all directions. A number of the latter are fleeing to Tayabas province, where the native constabulary are rendering valuable assistance in capturing men and rifles.

The arrest of members of the wealthy Lopez family and the confiscation of their steamers and rice, as well as the arrest of three members of the religious corporations, who were known to be insurgents of the insurrection, has had an excellent effect upon the natives.

Conditions in the island of Samar are still unsatisfactory, owing to the difficulty of moving the insurgents. Captain Schoenel, of the Ninth infantry (who was wounded in a severe hand-to-hand fight last month at Dapdap, Samar island, between 13 men of Company E, of his regiment, and a large force of bolomen), has practically recovered from the effects of his wound. In an official report of the encounter in which Captain Schoenel was hurt, it is said that Schoenel killed three men before he received his wound and that the remnants of the detachment of 18 men with him were saved by his personal courage and daring.

The civil authorities say that the island of Leyte is now perfectly peaceful. On the other hand, the military authorities consider Leyte to be dangerous on account of its proximity to Samar, it for no other reason.

Last Friday Major Albert L. Myer, of the Eleventh infantry, captured quite an extensive arsenal and plant for the making of cartridges at Ormoc, on the northwest coast of Leyte. Major Myer also captured another powder factory, large quantities of ammunition, four cannon and several rifles.

Major Henry T. Allen (ex-governor of the island of Leyte, now on a tour of inspection through that island and Mindoro), reported that the majority of the signal corps wires on Leyte had been cut and that this action was evidently preconcerted.

Captain Pitcher reports that he is rapidly riding the island of Mindoro of insurgents. The constabulary of Tarlac, Luzon, have captured a number of members of the Filipino secret society called the "Guardia de Honor." The prisoners intended moving to the island of Polillo (off the east coast of Luzon), where they expected to be free of American interference, temporarily at least, and where they had decided to resist American invasion to the uttermost. Twenty members of the "Guardia de Honor" are charged with sedition.

CITIZENS TO PATROL.

Denver People Organize Against Criminals—Due to Brutal Crimes Committed.

Denver, Jan. 6.—At a mass meeting of citizens here a committee of safety was organized as a protection against criminals with which the city has been infested for the past year or more. The streets will be patrolled at night by armed citizens, and any person who may fail to give a satisfactory reason for being in the streets will be arrested. This action has been made necessary in the opinion of the citizens by criminal assaults on women, holdups and robberies, which have been of almost daily occurrence. Magistrates will be urged to impose the severest penalties allowed by law to check the prevalence of these crimes.

The action was incited by the murder of 14-year-old Harold Fridborn and an assault on his sister on New Year's night.

BLOWN THROUGH BUILDING.

Two Reported Killed by Explosion at Ludlow, Pa.

Bradford, Pa., Jan. 6.—The Pennsylvania Gas company's plant at Ludlow was wrecked last night by an explosion. Details of the occurrence are lacking. Warren reports that a man is missing and that another was blown through the side of the building and fatally injured. Warren reports no particulars as yet.

NEW POLICE HEAD.

The Man Who Will Govern Greater New York's Bluecoats.

If to be a trained soldier, a successful disciplinarian, an experienced man of affairs and a conscientious public servant counts for anything, then Greater New York is going to have at the head of its police force the best man it ever had. Colonel John Nelson Partridge, Mayor Low's appointee for this position, has a public and private record that any individual might well be proud of. It has long been contended that the ideal police commissioner should be an army officer of thorough military training, and such a man is Colonel Partridge.

He was born in Massachusetts sixty-two years ago, but looks much younger. He is a soldier, a veteran of the civil war, has been a colonel of a regiment of the national guard and has had experience in managing important departments of municipal governments. In the war Colonel Partridge served as lieutenant and captain and while leading his company in the battle of Drury's Bluff was wounded, but not seriously. Contracting rheumatism in the trenches about Petersburg, he was mustered out of the service in 1864. In 1869 he joined the Twenty-third regiment, N. G. N. Y., and rose from a lieutenant to a colonel.

Colonel Partridge has served as fire commissioner and also police commissioner of Brooklyn. As head of the police department he carried out several reforms. Among other things he established a civil service and a river patrol system, the latter system stamping out river piracy to a great extent. He has been the New York state superintendent of public works and has proved a good administrator.

The new police commissioner for Greater New York is a widower and has one grown son, Nelson Partridge, who lives in Colorado Springs. He has distinguished family connections on every side, and the family has records of more than 300 ancestors, all born in Massachusetts or Connecticut. When not in Albany, he lives with his mother in Brooklyn.

Moffat's Life Pills

The Great Stomach and Liver Medicine.

Established by one of our most Eminent Physicians of New York City and now used in the United States and all foreign countries with more pleasing results than any other medicine ever compounded.

Their combined effect is, to regulate the impaired functions of the system, and to produce health.

If you feel sick, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, dizziness, bilious or sick headache, your stomach and liver are out of order, correct these at once by using Moffat's Life Pills.

They are a positive cure for Malaria, Biliousness, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Colds, La Grippe, Aching Limbs, Rheumatism, Impure Blood, Chills and Fever and all other diseases arising from a disordered condition of the stomach and liver.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

William Lyth's Funeral—The funeral of William Lyth, who died Saturday, will be held on Tuesday at 2 o'clock from St. Stephen's Episcopal church.

Series of Sermons—Next Sunday evening Rev. Edwin Weary will begin a very interesting series of sermons upon the following subjects: "What Am I?" "Where Am I?" "Whither Am I Going?"

Friendly Society Meeting—The Girls' Friendly Society of the Episcopal church will hold special services this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The society will be addressed by Rev. Edwin Weary.

Removed to Riverview—The remains of Mrs. John Larkins were removed from the old cemetery to Riverview today. Mr. Larkins was a former East Liverpool lawyer, now a resident of San Francisco.

Ladies' Auxiliary Meeting—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will meet at the association rooms tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is looked for, as arrangements for the coming of the Fadettes' orchestra are to be on the tapis, as also some other important business.

Robbed at a Dance—A Beaver Falls paper contains a long account about the supposed theft of a hat belonging to an East Liverpool lady at a dance in Beaver Falls. It is said an arrest may follow, although the East Liverpool young woman recovered her hat. Other articles were missed from the hall.

Police Aid Asked—A communication has been received at the mayor's office asking the police to assist in locating Walter F. Bolger, who disappeared from his home at Yonkers, N. Y., several weeks ago and who is thought to have come to Ohio. The boy is 18 years of age and ran away from home without any known cause.

One Sunday Arrest—A single culprit was taken into the police fold Sunday. The unfortunate was James McCormick, who was arrested in the East End by Officer John Spence and taken to jail in the patrol on a charge of intoxication. He pleaded guilty this morning and paid a fine of $2 and costs. There were no arrests Saturday night.

Interesting Services—Services at the McKinley avenue Union chapel last evening were immensely interesting. E. Kelsey Bennett, of the First M. P. church, addressed the congregation and made a good impression. The supply committee of the chapel has a treat in store for the members of the little flock, having secured the services of an individual whom the congregation has never before had the pleasure of listening to.

LEONARD IN POSSESSION

Delay in Swearing in the Subordinates of the New Sheriff.

Lisbon, January 6.—(Special)—The first Democratic sheriff in half a century is now in charge of the sheriff's office. Sheriff Noragon turned the office over to Charles P. Leonard at 1 o'clock today. The absence of Judge Hole delayed the ceremonies till then. Clerk McNutt administered the oath to Deputies D. A. Davidson and Lawrence Allison. Davidson will be office man and Allison turnkey.

Sheriff Noragon will sell his livery stable in the spring. Deputy Chris Bick has been appointed by the commissioners night watchman at the court house. Two years hence, he says, he will run for sheriff. He has been a popular deputy seven years.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Of Great Interest at the M. E. Church. Half a Dozen New Members.

The interest in the revival services at the First M. E. church reached a culminating point yesterday. Both morning and evening unusually large congregations were present. At the evening service in particular, the church was filled, both upstairs and down. It was a day filled with spiritual enthusiasm.

A half dozen new members were added to the church, and the prospects are excellent for a continuance of the good work.

Price of Justice Raised.

Twain and the Rivermen.

Mark Twain once told to a party of friends the following story on himself: On one occasion when he started on a trip down the Mississippi river on a flatboat he was advised never to answer the questions asked by rivermen on other boats and never to bandy words with them, as he would be sure always to come out second best. He followed the advice religiously for a time, but one day he thought he saw a chance to get the better of a riverman who called out:

"Hey, thar, what yer loaded with?" "Jackasses. Don't you want to come aboard?" yelled back Twain.

"That's what I reckoned, seein' as how they let their biggest donkey hev their run of the deck," came back. Twain made a dive below as all the rivermen in the neighborhood set up a derisive laugh at his expense.

Got His Money.

When King Edward VII. was an undergraduate at Oxford, he was a great huntsman, and few men could beat him across country. On one occasion his royal highness and some other riders galloped into a farmyard by way of a short cut. The farmer, a sturdy yeoman, closed the gates and told the huntsmen they must pay £1 apiece for trespass.

One of the gentlemen smiled indulgently at the rustic and said, "But, my good man, this is the Prince of Wales." The good man was in no wise abashed and retorted, "Prince or no prince, I'll have my money." And he got it.

LITTLE LEAKS.

What They May Lead to and How They May Be Stopped.

It is possible to lose much by little. A classic case is that of the royal granary which was depleted of its stores by a succession of "one rat came and took one grain away, and another rat came and took another grain away." So fortunes are dissipated, and reputations are destroyed, and health is ruined and character itself lost—by little extravagances, little indiscretions, little negligences, little obliquities.

Benjamin Franklin was a great economist not alone of money, but of time. He said, "To teach a young man to shave himself is as good as to give him a purse of gold." He had reference to the minutes as well as the dimes it costs to patronize the barber.

Elihu Burritt stopped the leak in his time and taught himself a dozen languages. Gladstone was equally wise, for he read Plato in his carriage between Carlton terrace and the parliamentary buildings.

A prosperous man ascribed his success in business to his habit of permitting no particle of material to be unproductive. He experimented and elaborated until he found a method of disposing profitably of every atom left over.

There is a man in New York who has in bank a goodly sum of money which he calls his "tis but fund." When tempted to needless expenditure by the specious plea, "Tis but a nickel or a quarter or a dollar," he denies himself and drops the amount he would have spent into a portable bank, which is filled with amazing rapidity. That is one way to stop a leak.

More serious than any prudential matter are the little leaks in life by which vital energy is squandered and moral force is diminished, imperceptibly it may be, through what we sometimes regard as inconsequential acts. Lack of order in our methods of labor, indifference to the "minor morals" of hygiene and the "major morals" of honesty and truth, the practical repudiation of personal responsibility, the neglect of duties which arise from our ethical and religious nature—these are the leaks which we must stop or be bankrupt in the world's eyes and in God's.—Saturday Evening Post.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

A SPECIAL MEETING WILL BE HELD AT RED MEN'S HALL, WEST MARKET, TUESDAY EVENING, JAN. 7. BUSINESS OF IMPORTANCE. F. J. McCULLOUGH, Council Commander.

FISH AS FOOD.

The Best Kinds to Eat and the Way to Cook Them.

Fish constitutes one of the most valuable articles of diet for mankind, although the popular notion that it is a good brain food because of the phosphorus it contains is incorrect. As a matter of fact fish meat in general contains less phosphorus than most kinds of flesh meat. But it is good for the brain indirectly, for it is less stimulating than flesh meat, is usually digested more easily and causes the production in the system of fewer of the waste products which, if not at once eliminated, act injuriously upon the delicate nervous system.

The last mentioned property is one which renders fish of especial value in the diet of persons suffering from Bright's disease and other affections of the kidneys, from rheumatism, gout, and all those diseases which many physicians regard as the result of excessive formation or retention of uric acid. For convalescents also it is most useful, as it supplies a fair amount of nutritive material in palatable form, with a minimum of tax on the digestive organs.

Among the most nourishing and at the same time digestible fish are bluefish, shad, red snapper, fresh codfish, whitefish, striped bass, halibut and flounders. And equally nutritious, although perhaps less digestible, are brook trout, lake trout, salmon, mackerel and eels. Roe is not particularly nutritious, but it is agreeable to the taste and fairly digestible.

The mode of preparation has much to do with the digestibility of fish, as it has with that of all other foods. Boiling and broiling are better modes of cooking than frying.

The chief objection to fish is its proneness to decomposition, even when kept on ice. It may be free from any taste or odor, and yet it may have undergone changes which make it poisonous. Some fish are poisonous in themselves, containing in the natural state some substance which will cause alarming symptoms, or even death, if eaten. With some persons fish in any form does not agree, causing digestive disorders or skin eruptions. This is notably true of lobsters and crabs.
